PROSECUTION DID NOT COME TO POLICE COURT

At the hour designated for the examination of Thomas Jackson given in charge of Officer James McLaren at the Central police station last night by Robert Ogler and Malcolm McLeod on the charge of assaulting Ogler in Rockwood Park neither the latter or McLeod appeared to give testimony against the prisoner who denied committing the offence. According to the story related to Officer McLaren by Ogler who made the accusation he was walking on one of the unfrequented ways in the park when accosted by Jackson and brutally treated. McLeod arrived in time to prevent him from being seriously injured he told the policeman and after overpowering the man they succeeded in bringing him to the police station where he was locked up. Both Ogler and McLeod were instructed to be present in court this morning to prosecute and as the request was not complied with they may be escorted to court tomorrow. Jackson declares he hails from New York and arrived from McAdam Junction on Labor Day. He is a man weighing probably 210 pounds and is in the early thirties.

STEAMERS IN A RACE

Last Saturday evening the Eastern Steamship Company steamer Galvin Austin, in command of Captain Pike, and the Camden, in command of Captain Allan, sailed for Boston, both with large passenger lists. The Austin had nearly an hour's start of the Camden on leaving this port. The Camden arrived at Boston first or about half an hour ahead of the Austin. It is only fair to say that the Austin was not in proper trim to compete with the Camden, because of her propeller being somewhat damaged. The Galvin Austin arrived back from Boston this morning with 204 passengers. The tourist travel on this line is better than ever it was before at this season of the year. Many are coming to visit the exhibition.

CATCH 'MR. DIXIE' AND EARN A $10 BILL

Chase After the Mysterious Mr. Dixie Will be a Big Feature of the Exhibition.

A $10 bill and a box of Dixie cigars will be given to the man who by keeping his eyes open succeeds in apprehending the mysterious Mr. Dixie at the St. John exhibition. In order to land Mr. Dixie the goods it will be necessary for his would-be captor to provide himself with a Dixie novelty mirror and a copy of the current issue of the Evening Times and then go after his man. Mr. Dixie will be in the exhibition buildings or on the grounds every day from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night, while the Dixie novelty mirror will be given away free to every purchaser of three Dixie cigars, purchased in the exhibition buildings or on the grounds. It will be remembered that the chase for the mysterious Mr. Gilt Edge created much interest in St. John, and it is expected that Mr. Dixie will keep the exhibition crowds on the qui vive looking for that $10 and a box of 'Good Smokes'.

LUMP ON HIS FOOT GAVE HIM AWAY

Irvin Earle Stole $82 From his Employers but Detective Killen Found it Hidden in His Boot.

Irvin Earle, a fifteen year old lad was arrested this morning at nine o'clock by Detective Killen on suspicion of stealing $82 from O. H. Warwick & Son, his employers. To Magistrate Ritchie this morning he pleaded guilty and was remanded. The theft was committed on Saturday night in the office of the store the money being pilfered from the cash drawer where it had been deposited.

Earle had been employed in the store for some time and had access to the office at all times. Being aware that some amount of money in the drawer was quite large he took a most opportune moment to enter the office when the clerks were all occupied in the store and the cashier was engaged in another section of the building. When it was discovered later in the night that the money was missing Earle was questioned regarding his complicity in the theft but he emphatically denied being connected with it claiming to be attending to customers at the time the robbery must have occurred. The services of Detective Killen were secured last night and when the boy entered to resume his duties after the holiday he was subjected to a minute cross-examination by the detective who was convinced that Earle was the man. Some of his queries were not answered satisfactorily and he determined to search thoroughly the boy's clothing for a portion of the money or some clearer evidence of guilt. Nothing that would implicate him in the robbery was found in his pockets but when an examination of his boots was made an unnatural lump was perceived on the sole of one his feet making the stocking an investigation $82 dollars in crisp bills were brought forth. When confronted with such evidence Earle confessed and was immediately taken into custody by the detective and lodged in jail. His father was notified of his son's predicament and appeared in court. He is desirous of having the boy incarcerated in the reformatory for a term of four years in an effort to reform him and being a man of integrity he feels badly over the affair but sees the only remedy for his wayward boy is the one stated. When asked by the magistrate to plead to the charge he replied between sobs "I'm guilty." When informed that he would be liable to term of seven years in the penitentiary and admonished for his act he cried bitterly. It is not certain that Earle will be accepted at the reformatory as he appears to be at least two years older than the age he gave.
