As Hiram Sees It
TORONTO—I ain't dead yet. I'm gittin' real smart at dodgin' ottomobels an' waitin' fer the traffic man to say when I kin git acrost. Great weather here—don't hardly need no overcoat at all. Well, I can't get away from Montreal. I went downstairs to get a Saint John or I wouldn't any. I could git papers from Buffalo an' Cleveland an' Detroit—none that had news from home. I told the gal I guessed they wasn't as good as home as they ort to be—she handed me one o' them beverin' smiles that almost made me buy a couple o' Yankee papers—none she. You can't git away from politics here. They had a meetin' in the hotel las' night. Everybody's elected so fer. Ontario an' Quebec is wallopin' one another like they did afore we helped 'em out by jinin' up with 'em in '67. I'm glad another two weeks'll settle it—then we kin git our beaver skin fer a spell.

KEEPS BOTTLE IN MERRY CHASE

Colored Man Captured Near Market Square After Run
Customs and Police Officers are Prisoners—Haled Before Acting Collector.

A wild chase by a customs officer and a police officer after a colored man who had a bottle of alleged smuggled rum ended near Market Square about 10.15 o'clock last night when the officers captured their quarry. In spite of his desperate sprint for liberty the colored man kept a tight grip on his bottle and when rounded up still had it with him.

Instead of dropping the "evidence" overboard into the harbor he had it when captured. He informed his capturers, it was said, that he had purchased the rum from a colored man on a steamer. Efforts to locate any trace of this other man failed.

The colored man was brought before Acting Collector of Customs S. W. Wilkins this morning and the latter is forwarding a report to Ottawa. Meanwhile the authorities are endeavoring to trace the man who sold him the liquor. The liquor was labeled "Three Crown Rum," bottled in Dominica. He said that he paid $2.50 for it. The authorities withhold his name.

The court was not entirely satisfied that the evidence showed there might not be other heirs, but made an order that the property might be partitioned with the reservation that, should any other heirs appear, they would derive their share with the others.

The cost of installation is said to be approximately $40,000.
