How Giants Were Named.

More than a quarter of a century ago old Jim Mutrie, while watching the New York team, then an aggregation of six-footers, uttered the famous expression, "Giant in action as well as stature," and from that day the New York National League team has been known as the Giants. The Giants are now forty years old. The club was brought into existence by Mutrie in 1883 when he induced John B. Day to finance the idea. Mutrie managed the team and played the first seasons on the old Polo Grounds, then on Fifth Avenue, gaining admission to the National League in its initial year by taking the place of the Troy team. Among the players on that team were Buck Ewing, Hickey Welch, Roger Connor, Pat Gillette and Ed Haskins, all giants in stature.

Mutrie remained as manager of the club until Day disposed of his interests to Cornelius Van Cort in 1885. Two years later Van Cort sold the club after it had finished fourth in 1884. Andrew Freedman was the next owner of the Giants, retaining control for a period of eleven years, but the club was unsuccessful, finishing in the second division in every year except 1897. While Freedman was owner of the club the Giants had no less than eight managers.

John T. Brush was the next owner of the club and it was he who built the present grandstand at the Polo Grounds, known as the Brush Stadium. Harry Hempstead, son-in-law of Brush, took over the club in 1911 and gave McGraw a new contract as manager and turned over to him part of the stock in the operating company. Two years later the club was bought by Charles A. Tatham, Francis X. McQuade and McGraw, under whose ownership it is at the present time.

Owing to lack of a quorum, the regular October meeting of the municipal council was not held yesterday afternoon. Both Wardens Thornton and County Secretary Kelley were out of town and several other councillors were absent. A meeting will be called, it is reported, some time in the middle of the month.

Owing to increased membership in the Ludlow street Baptist Sunday school it has been decided to consider the construction of an addition to be known as the W. R. Robinson memorial building. It was decided to open a special fund for this purpose and Miss M. E. Mullin, treasurer of the school, have charge of it.

A missionary programme was given last evening in Main street Baptist church under the auspices of the W. R. Robinson memorial building fund. Hazen Taylor presided and the other speakers were: Rev. Dr. David Hutchinson pronounced Benediction at the close of the meeting.

It was decided at a meeting of the executive committee of the W. R. Robinson memorial building fund, held last evening that no more Sunday meetings would be held while Rev. Dr. J. Campbell Morgan was in St. John. The executive committee is assisting in any tag day activities as the needs of the order were too pressing. Plans were made for a holding of a rummage sale later in the month. Mrs. F. H. Nichols was appointed a member of the executive committee, while John C. English, express agent at the local depot here, testified that he did not receive it.

The first meeting of the Daughters of Israel for the season was held last evening with Mrs. L. M. Harris in the chair. Considerable business was transacted and at its conclusion a dance was held. The committee in charge was: Mrs. A. Webster, Mrs. W. Webster, Mrs. M. Goldman, Mrs. J. Goldman, Mrs. B. Kuntzky, Mrs. S. Levine, Mrs. H. Davis, Mrs. M. Ross and Mrs. L. M. Harris.

The case in which Walter Newcombe is charged with the theft of $150 from the Dominion Express Company, came up again yesterday afternoon in the local police court. The evidence of two witnesses was taken and the case was then postponed until Friday afternoon.

Matthew McManagan, express agent at East Mines, told of shipping packages containing money, while John C. English, express agent at the local depot here, testified that he did not receive it.

The annual meeting of the Masonic Temple Club was held Monday and the following officers were elected: President, Peter Davidson; first vice-president, George Dickson; second vice-president, F. E. Hamilton; secretary, Fred Dagg; treasurer, E. Milton Smith; managing committee, the officers and T. H. Carter, R. A. C. Brown and E. Clinton Brown; auditors, A. Gordon Hainline and Leonard Goodie. The treasurer's statement showed a balance and the club to be in a flourishing condition.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid of Canterbury church was held yesterday afternoon. The election of officers resulted as follows:—President, Mrs. Fred Anderson; secretary, Mrs. George Jenkins; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. S. Ferguson; secretary, Mrs. H. A.
