Careless Mothers Contrasted with the Tidy in Striking Demonstration by Children

ELLA PHILLIPS CRANDALL.

Children teach their parents in the Mohawk Brighton district of Cincinnati, where the National Social Unit Organization is demonstrating an unusual type of community organization. The above picture shows children demonstrating the contrast between the careless mother and the tidy mother. Nurses of the district, organized as part of a neighborhood council representative of city blocks and expert groups, are conducting a campaign for health education and better living conditions. Children of the district have helped them to dramatize conditions as they exist and as they ought to be and to present them in graphic form to the mothers of the district. A program for extending the Social Unit idea to an entire city, and possibly to other municipalities, is to be discussed at a national conference to be held in Cincinnati, October 23, 24 and 25. Executive committee of that organization, Miss Ella Phillips Crandall, secretary, are serving as advisers in connection with the Cincinnati Public Health Nursing, and the ex-

GERMAN PENSIONERS BITTER.

Bitter complaints against the new German government were voiced by numerous speakers at a meeting held in the old Prussian House of Lords building on Sept. 22 by the Central Association of Pensioned German National, State and Municipal Employees and School Teachers, according to the Berlin Vorwärts. It was stated that the revolution of Nov. 9 had been of no service to the retired government employees, as their pensions had not been materially raised, despite the increased cost of living and the fact that the employees now in the service had been comparatively well taken care of.

Resolutions were adopted demanding increases in pensions at the same rate as the raises granted to the active employees and that the widows of former employees should not lose their pensions upon remarriage.

An order issued by the national government in September provides for a monthly increase of twenty marks, beginning Oct. 1 and continuing to Dec. 31, 1920, in the payments made under the old age and sick benefit insurance and of ten marks to payments made under the widows' insurance regulations.

JIM CORBETT

WILL TRY COMEBACK

Will Undergo One Year of Hard
Training—Exercises Regularly

(Boston Globe.)

Jim Corbett feels certain that he is going to live to be sixty years old—and that birthday anniversary is seven years away. When he gets to that age he intends to make a "comeback," and he feels sure he can do it unless some accident happens to him. He has a theory which, he says, he will prove is correct. He plans to undergo one year of violent training to fit him for a test with a youth in his teens. Corbett doesn't think he'll beat the youth, but he declares he'll prove that sixty-year-old men don't need to go to Dr. Serge Voronoff to have a new set of testicular glands transplanted for them in order to cope with youth in everything but vitality under sustained effort. Corbett declares he'll lack only 20 per cent of the youth's endurance at sixty years, and not a whit on alertness nor resiliency in his proposed test.

Here are some of his methods:

I exercise regularly; not with apparatus, but with callisthenics.

Now I watch myself carefully, and as soon as I find a tendency in my body to anything wrong, I go to the best specialist I can find.

Every year I have a thorough medical examination. But those features are only precautionary.

Why, I can take on any of the boys in a tennis set; I can climb mountains with the best; I can walk and run with the clever ones, and I've never been really ill but once, when my appendix busted before I knew it.

I was given up by the doctors, but I had the pleasure of reading my obituary notices, and I found them very cleverly written and very entertaining and pleasing.

I sleep eight hours.

Smoking, I know, does me one, and I cut down my cigars to six a day, which I do not believe from observation do me any harm. The minute I find that is too much I'll cut them again, or cut them out entirely.

Sweets I have reduced to a minimum, and I make it a point to drink lots of water; never allow a piece of ice to be put in my glass, never touch iced water, for that is very bad for you.

One thing I invariably follow—for a period of several months every year I take from three to four tablespoons of olive oil.

No one regime will fill the bill for every one, for our bodies and natures vary in the demands for what is wanted.

Now as to results, I look younger than I did fifteen years ago. I have more "pep," more vitality than I ever had. The only change I have made is to cut out very violent exercises. I play tennis or climb mountains just as hard as ever. Violent exercises tend to make one thin, and I do not want to be overly thin.

I'm not foolish about my theory—I know very well that a man of thirty can stand long-continued endurance better than a man of fifty; that is inevitable. But barring that, I am exactly as quick, exactly as alert and resilient as I was at what the sports call my best.

"There's talk of abolishing the nickel."

"That shows that as a people we have no sentiment."

"How so?"

"Why, if we had, we would want to keep it if only as a reminder of the good old days when we could buy something with it."—Judge.

NEW SKATING RINKS
FOR MONCTON AND BATHURST

(Moncton Transcript.)

It is reported that a site in Foundry street has been purchased from James E. Weldon for the building of a new rink. It is said the proposed structure will be 100x200 feet in dimension. Work will be started at once.

(Bathurst Northern Light.)

The first step in the construction of the rink for Bathurst Hockey and Skating, Limited, the corporation formed locally recently, was taken on Monday last, when a gang of men started to dig holes for the big concrete piers on which the large arches of the rink will rest. The intention is to rush the construction of the building along so that it will be ready for use early in the coming season.

The new company is capitalized at $20,000, almost all of which was subscribed for before today. The lists close tonight, so that there is little time for intending holders of stock to have shares allotted to them.

The new rink is to have an ice surface of 80x100 feet. The arches supporting the roof are to be forty feet high and the method and style of construction of this large building is very similar to that adopted and found most satisfactory in other places visited by the building committee. It is expected that the work of construction will be completed in about six weeks.

NOVEMBER ROD AND GUN.

The November issue of Rod and Gun, published by W. J. Taylor, Limited, at Woodstock, Ont., keeps big game hunting sports well to the fore. "A Caribou Hunt in Restigouche County," by Henry Duncan Chisholm, "Days of Real Sport in Algoma," F. V. Williams' thrilling story, with cover cut to illustrate, of "The Gun That Would Shoot a Mile," "A Nova Scotia Moose Hunt About 1840 and Another in 1918," by T. S. Scott, will all be found equally interesting to hunters—whether on vacation now, going, or returning. The first part of an interesting story of Alaska entitled "The Humming Bird" by Mrs. Jean Stevenson is the opening story of this issue, while Bonnycastle Dale will be found as interesting as ever in his "Two Ancient Beach Combers." Duncan Campbell Scott's address on "Relation of Indians to Wild Life Conservation" and "Opening Day at Lake Seagoe" by John Townson are timely and interesting articles. "Fishing Notes," conducted by Robt. Page Lincoln, containing "Duck and Ember Papers," "Along the Trap Line" by H. C. Hadson, "Guns and Ammunition" by C. S. Landis, "Red and Gun Mechanics," "The Kennel" and "Trap" departments will all be found up to the usual standard with much to interest their various followers.
