FARRSBORO CIVIC SCANDAL AIRS.
Haying has already been commenced in many districts and by the end of this week will be well in hand. There are no unfavorable reports. Many sections state that the crop is as usual, while from a few others it is reported to be lighter than last year. On the whole it seems to be a very fair yield, and farmers have so far no grounds for complaint. Nova Scotia is in about the same position, and in Prince Edward Island the people are satisfied. This should be a prosperous year in the Maritime Provinces.

THE TRUTH WILL BE KNOWN.
The Westmorland County Council offer a reward of five hundred dollars for the production of the Cramer children dead or alive. This is a good move. If those little ones have met with foul play no expense should be spared in bringing the criminals to justice. If on the other hand they have been lost in the woods or have suffered through their own weakness or ignorance the knowledge of their fate will be worth something, if only in relieving the strain under which their friends and others are now laboring. Their disappearance seems to be a mystery, but if it is the result of crime the guilt will be made known. The truth always comes out, and some day the person who is responsible will say or do something which will reveal his secret.

BREAKING RECORDS.
The C. P. R. steamer Empress of Britain holds the Canadian record for passage across the Atlantic, having crossed in five days, eighteen hours and fifty minutes. The best time made by the Allan line was the record previously held by the Virginian which crossed in five days, twenty-two hours and twenty minutes. Thus the old type of marine engine seems to be still superior to the turbine. The latter, however, awaits development.

AN ANGLO-COLONIAL MASONIC LODGE.
MONTREAL, July 24.—A special London cable says: An Anglo-Colonial Lodge of Free Masonry has been consecrated by the grand secretary of England. It is intended the lodge shall meet every month throughout the year, thus affording the masons a meeting place during the off season, when usually all those lodges in London are in recess, but when many visitors from the colonies are here.

THE NUMBER OF LODGES ON THE ENGLISH REGISTER are now upward of 600 in the London district, and 1,500 in the provinces. There are close upon 600 in the colonies and abroad. Very many have been lost to England in recent years in the last division through the establishment of independent grand lodges for the principal colonies, so that at the present time there are probably more lodges meeting in the colonies than here.

$5,000 NORTH SHORE FIRE.
BATHURST STATION, July 24.—The general store and dwelling house combined, with most of the contents, of John Hardley, Bathurst, Gloucester county, was totally destroyed by fire at about eleven o'clock last night. The loss will probably reach $5,000; no insurance.

GOOD CROPS.
There has never been, since Adam and Eve, or one of them, first picked apples, a season in which all crops were abundant, and there probably never will be. Weather conditions are always to blame for some sort of trouble, but in spite of the experience of thousands of years farmers as a rule look forward to heavy crops and their complaint of disappointment. There is no reason to believe that the results of the harvest now commencing will differ from those of other years, excepting that as there are favorable and unfavorable seasons this one may be placed in the first named class. The centre of Canada's agricultural life is now the north-west, and the wheat crop there has been variously estimated at from one hundred to one hundred and thirty millions of bushels. One hundred and ten millions is however now regarded as about the probable amount. Weather conditions during the spring and early summer have been all that could be desired, and the standing grain has been remarkably free from rust. Occasional reports have been received, of a possible influence the grain markets may have been responsible. At any rate, the present indications are that the yield of wheat will be the greatest in the history of Canada, and the quality well up to the standard. Western farmers are apt to get panicky during the last few weeks of the growing season, to imagine that all sorts of misfortunes are about to happen, and that their crops will not be saved. But as a rule they come out all right in the end.

When one stops to consider, this western wheat crop is a big thing. One hundred and ten million bushels in Manitoba and the prairie provinces means a cash return equal to not less than eleven dollars for every man, woman and child in the dominion. At this season a quarter section of grain is as good a year's salary as any ordinary man could desire.

Ontario also grows a lot of grain, and although its influence on the general prosperity of the country is not to be compared with that of the western crop, yet it is of great importance to the people in that province. Gratifying reports are also received concerning Ontario wheat, and it will in all likelihood be well up to the average.

In the Maritime Provinces grain forms a later harvest than is the case in the west, and indeed it does not rank as so important here. Yet in districts where mixed farming is carried on every branch of the work is of moment, and farmers are as anxious about oats as they are about hay. So far as can be noted at the present time the grain crops in New Brunswick promise well, and only a period of exceptional weather will bring them below the average.

Haying has already been commenced in many districts and by the end of this week will be well in hand. There are no unfavorable reports. Many sections state that the crop is as usual, while from a few others it is reported to be lighter than last year. On the whole it seems to be a very fair yield, and farmers have so far no grounds for complaint. Nova Scotia is in about the same position, and in Prince Edward Island the people are satisfied. When boarders come.

Got to wear a tie that's knitted—
When boarders come;
Maw says: "Keep spruced up a bit!"—
When boarders come;
Paw and maw and sis, at I Must eat what's left over—why, I ain't had a piece of pie Since kingdom come.

Dassent go barefoot no more—
Sense boarders come;

Sense boarders come;
Got to lend 'em all my things, Traps an' rods an' rabbit strings Got to show 'em all the springs—
When boarders come.

When maw gets vacation crops Of boarder folks Then my vacation stops An' I jest coax Her for to let me go an' stay In the city far away Where it's quiet, cool an' they Don't take boarders.

Miss Caller—Does your husband enjoy a baseball game?
Mrs. Fried—He says he does, but I'm glad he doesn't have to worry as much about his business as he does about the umpire's decisions.

Glady's—Yes, I'm engaged to Fred. It was pretty hard to decide, because I liked Tom quite as well as Fred, and they're both wealthy.
Virginia—What finally decided you?
Glady's—Fred promised me the most alimony in case of divorce.

Mrs. Strongminded—You bachelors say those horrid things. Married men don't. Oldsters say so. Only say what married men think!

Mrs. Rube—Wanter see me milk the City Boy—Say, I may be from town, but I know something; you gits milk from a red wagon.

The Chimpanzee—Do you believe in the theory of evolution?
The Gollie—Oh, implicitly. At least I think there is no doubt that we are descended from human beings.

Mother—Bobbie, Bobbie, you mustn't tumble about on the furniture.
Bobbie—Nurse doesn't mind me doing this, mother.
Mother—When you're with nurse you may do as nurse likes, and when you're with me you must do as I like.
Bobbie—Oh! and when am I to do as I like?

Mamma—Say, Willie, haven't you some broken toys that I can send to the heathen?
Willie—No, but I guess I can break up a few.

Willie—Say, ma, didn't baby cut his teeth?
Mamma—Yes, Willie.
Willie—Den why can't he cut his hair?

Willie (to sister's beau)—Say, dad ain't got much use for you. He says yer too fresh, and then he goes on to say yer can't earn yer own salt.

"A girl called me a perfect gentleman last night."
"Well, you may have been last night, but you're all over it today!"

"Goodman is wholly devoid of imagination."
"Why is your evidence?"
"He went fishing and only claimed to have caught two."

First Stork—What do you think of President Roosevelt's ideas as to race suicide?
Second Stork—I think that the least we can do is to make him an honorary member of our society.

"The main objection I have to a canoe like this," commented the young man in the stern, "is that if a fellow tries to kiss a girl in one he is almost sure to upset the boat and land them both in the river."

A large crowd was present at the St. Andrew's roller rink last evening, the occasion being the "ladies' night." The 22nd had rendered a splendid programme. Several who were skating too fast were put off the floor, and several more warned that the next night they skated fast would be their last. The management only want those who will skate to the time of the music. During the morning and afternoon a large crowd of beginners were present, the majority being ladies. Today the rink is open morning, afternoon and evening. Tomorrow night will be band night, and at conclusion of the tenth band, the first roller skating race will take place, the contestants being Hanlon, Dean, Wilson, Connolly, Alechorn and Longley. The race will be one mile, and the prize will be a silver medal given by the management. No extra charge will be made for tomorrow evening.

PROF. BELL AND HIS NEW AIRSHIP

An Important Experiment in Two Years.

The Doctor Explains Progress With His Airship, Which He Hopes to Have Completed for the Final Test In Two Years.

(Sydney Post.)
Prof. A. G. Bell was the guest of honor at the Electrical Association banquet in the Sydney Hotel last Friday night, and after the banquet a representative of The Post had an interesting half-hour chat with Dr. Bell on the subject of the flying machine upon which it is widely known he is engaged, and in which so much general interest is being manifested.

Dr. Bell explained that all his experiments in this matter so far have been of a preliminary character, and have lately been practically confined to solving the problem of aerial propulsion and steering.

He does not expect to be able to make any experiments of a very important character inside of two years, at the end of which time he hopes to have completed a ship that will sail in air or water. Dr. Bell referred to the great loss of life which attends experiments of this sort, and he proposes to conduct all his in a manner that will eliminate all chances of fatal accidents.

His proposed airship will be constructed with a balloon and air propelling and air steering appliances, and will be designed to float on the water as well as in air. The idea will be to rise gradually into the air and to skim along near the surface of the water. This will remove the danger of accidents, and will be a serious matter, for he can only attempt to the work during very short periods. The work is being carried on in a workshop, because the conditions found in the open air are those to be taken into account in perfecting the invention.

The doctor spoke very interestingly on the subject, and explained the atmosphere and other conditions necessary to the successful handling of an airship.

"But," said Dr. Bell with a smile, "I am sorry that even if I should be successful the honor of being the birth-place of the airship cannot belong to Sydney. The age of aerial navigation, and the problem of aerial navigation, and all I can do is, if possible, to improve it. The age of aerial navigation, and the problem of aerial navigation, and all I can do is, if possible, to improve it.

The Dog Show at the St. John Exhibition was the largest ever held in the Maritime Provinces. Accommodation will be provided for over 250 highly bred dogs of all recognized breeds, and the entries will probably exceed that number.

WOULD NOT LISTEN TO APPOINTMENT OF ENGINEER MURDOCH
Death of Joseph Eatman Caused By Drowning Says Doctor Vanwart

FREDERICKTON, N. B., July 24.—The sewerage committee met this evening to further consider the Hyde and Webster contract, Mr. Slipp appearing for Hyde and Webster. The meeting consisted of much discussion, but no settlement. Mr. Slipp wanted an independent engineer appointed to pass upon the pipe on the wharf and mentioned Engineer Murdoch of St. John, N. B., but this the city would not listen. The committee stated that it would telegraph Hyde and Webster asking for their reply to the telegram previously sent as to their carrying out of the contract, and that if an answer was not received by Thursday, further action would be taken regarding the bond.

The inquest on the remains of Joseph Eatman was held this evening in the office of the clerk of the peace, before Coroner Weaver. Several witnesses were examined, including Chas. Foster, Jos. McMinamin, John Parsons, Geo. Oves, Jas. Heron, Dr. Vanwart and Geo. S. Sewell. Nothing new was learned. Sewell swore that he saw Eatman alive on Sunday afternoon, and that he was informed that another had reported the case and that a call had been sent to the New York Hospital for an ambulance.

Soon after Kaufmann had gone in search of a successor William A. Young, a student in Bellevue Hospital Training School, found the woman apparently dying and sent a call for an ambulance to New York Hospital. The attending surgeon pronounced the woman dead.

In a paper covered bundle which lay on the ground beside her bench were some trifling belongings and two books, evidently once drawn from a Sunday school library. One bore the imprint of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Brooklyn, and the other had an inscription setting forth that the book had been awarded Lizzie Robinson for forty-five consecutive days of attendance in the Woodburn National Sunday school.

It is known that the woman passed the last two weeks of her life in a homeless condition. All day long and far into the night, if not all night, she was seen sitting on the last bench on the Fifth Avenue side in the northwest corner of the square. Kaufmann now recalls her appearance, and says that he did not then realize, when he saw the woman sitting in the same spot day after day and night after night, that she was different from the other flotsam cast into the park. One day he saw an old man give the woman a glass of milk.

When he passed through the square about 8.30 yesterday morning he was impressed with the ghastly appearance of the woman's face, and spoke to her. His question was answered in a whisper. She told him that she had not left the rains continue it will probably be from three to five days later.

A REMARKABLE STORY.
Woman Starved to Death in Sight of Thousands.

Of Apparent Refinement and With Traces of Personal Beauty She Sat Emaciated on Bench in Park.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The Herald tells the following harrowing story:—Unidentified, there lies in the morgue the body of a woman who starved to death in Madison square, whose dying agonies were unnoticed by thousands who passed her, and who for two weeks had spent her days and nights on the benches in the park, subsisting on one knows how. She was about forty-five years old, and once had been handsome. Even the ravages of exposure and disease could not entirely obliterate her beauty. Morgue attendants remarked that the woman evidently had been refined and above the station in which she passed her last miserable hours.

Louie Kaufmann, a salesman, of No. 224 West Twenty-second street, recognized the woman's condition yesterday and hurried to a policeman, whom he besought to investigate. The policeman said it was no crime or misdemeanor to sit upon a park bench, and that he had only the man's word for it that two women were ill. He referred Mr. Kaufmann to the police station. Kaufmann suspected that the policeman meant the traffic squad station, No. 1 West Twenty-seventh street, and hurried there, only to find himself censured in red tape. The sergeant in charge told him that Madison square is in the jurisdiction of the West Thirtieth street police. Kaufmann turned his steps in that direction. When he arrived there he was informed that another had reported the case and that a call had been sent to the New York Hospital for an ambulance.

Soon after Kaufmann had gone in search of a successor William A. Young, a student in Bellevue Hospital Training School, found the woman apparently dying and sent a call for an ambulance to New York Hospital. The attending surgeon pronounced the woman dead.

25,000 HARVESTERS WILL BE REQUIRED

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24.—Manitoba and the west will require from twenty to twenty-five thousand imported harvesters to handle the crop this year," said W. J. Black, deputy minister of agriculture. Official reports from all parts of the province indicate that the crop will be the heaviest yet harvested. Last year Manitoba placed 12,000 men from the east in the harvest fields while Saskatchewan used about 3,000, but for this year Manitoba alone will require close to 20,000. It would appear at present that harvesting will be general throughout the province about August 10th, but should

It has come to pass that the public look forward to and realize the necessities with interest and profit.—J. A. Jordan, Marsh & Co., Boston.
