

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS.

How They Figured at the Harold Frederic Inquest.

"The Results are Always Good When We Depend on God"—"Death is a Belief That is to be Overcome."

(London Telegraph, Nov. 3.) At Kenley, Surrey, yesterday, Percy Morrison, coroner for the district, resumed the inquest into the death of Harold Frederic, which occurred at Holmfild, Kenley, on Oct. 21st.

Bills Griffith, M. P., instructed by Mr. Monkland, had for his witness, Mr. Mathew and Mr. Plant appeared for Miss Lyon and the executors of the deceased, W. E. Hempton, solicitor, watched the case on behalf of the Medical Defence Union, and H. Lawless represented Mrs. Mills, the "healer."

Ruth Frade to the deceased's daughter, recalled and examined by Mr. Griffith, said she came to Kenley on August 7, and remained, except for a day or two, until her father died. The doctors were coming at first, but Mrs. Mills then took charge.

Did your father say anything to you about believing in Christian Science?—He said he did not believe in it at all.

Did he say anything about Mrs. Mills?—He said she was a very ignorant person, and not calculated to do him any good mentally. (Laughter.)

When talking to him about this Christian Science, did you always stop when Miss Kate Lyon came into the room?—Invariably. He never said anything to me about Christian Science when Miss Lyon was in the room.

When the doctors came the day or so before he died, did he seem glad to see them?—Yes.

Mr. Mathew: Had your father a strong will?—He liked to think that he had a strong will. (Laughter.)

Do you believe there is such a thing as death?—There is no death, for God is life.

found always the greatest difficulty in getting reliable information from Miss Lyon as to Mr. Frederic's condition. If he had been properly treated, Mr. Frederic would have recovered.

How much money did you get for attending Mr. Frederic?—£14 or £15, in sums of £2 or £3, as Mrs. Frederic had it.

Do you ever took cheques?—No. Are cheques contrary to Christian Science rules?—Oh, no. (Laughter.)

Eleven Persons Killed in an Accident at Murray Hill.

Terrible Collision Between Express and Freight Trains Yesterday.

William Paulin, a Cattleman, Tells of His Experience in a Second Class Car.

BRIGHTON, Ont., Nov. 15.—A terrible collision occurred on the Grand Trunk railway early this morning at Murray Hill, a small station at the end of the double track five miles east of here.

The west bound through express collided with a down freight standing on a siding, the switch being left open. Six men were killed and some thirty or forty injured.

The officials admit that eight were killed and forty injured. Many of the injured are being taken to the hospital at Belleville.

William Paulin, a cattleman, one of the injured, said: "I was in the second class car when the crash came. The seats closed up on me and I was dropped down between them."

My head was crushed in between my knees and splinters were forced into my body from all directions. I was squeezed in spite of my rights. Right above my head was a little child, caught in the beams. She was crying, "Mamma, mamma! I shall never forget her cry."

shipped by his company from Explosives Bay, Newfoundland, to the shipbuilding firms at that place. Mr. Hillman says the out of pine on his property this year was upwards of two millions of feet, a large portion of which was of first quality, equal to the Ottawa pine. When in Montreal recently he purchased and shipped to Newfoundland 40 more boxes for the lumber woods. It is the intention of his company to largely increase their output next year.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The 120th banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce was held at Delmonico's to-night and in 104 of elaboration and magnificence, exceeded the previous efforts of the chamber.

Before the dinner went into the banquet room, Lord Herschell held a levee in the reception room. An orchestra of forty pieces played patriotic airs as the guests filed into the banquet hall.

The hall was decorated in a more elaborate manner than ever before attempted, and was in keeping with the present good feeling between this country and England, at the same time giving recognition to the friendly commercial relations existing between America and France, Germany, Russia, Austria, Italy and Mexico.

After all the guests were seated, Bishop Potter invoked a divine blessing. The speaking programme was as follows: Introductory address, by Alex. E. Orr, president of the chamber of commerce.

The toasts: "The President," Hon. Stewart L. Woodford; "The future relations between Great Britain and the United States," Right Hon. Lord Herschell; "Confidence regained," Hon. John W. Griggs, attorney general.

QUALITY AND PRICE GOVERN THE DEMAND.

(Extract from report of Commissioner of Agriculture.)

The activity and extent of the demand for perishable food products depends very largely upon the quality and relative cheapness of price.
