

WHITE CASE POSTPONED

On Account of Absence of Crown Witness

Evidence Given Wednesday Show Lack of Methods Practiced in Dominion Express Co's Office Here

Wednesday in the County Court the case of the White vs. White was resumed, and the case for the crown is now substantially finished, most of the evidence being brought forward Wednesday morning.

Yesterday afternoon the Crown began to call its witnesses. The first was Geo. A. Newnham, the assistant treasurer of the Dominion Express Company. On examination the witness showed the method of conducting business with the head office. Drafts and accounts are sent in from the different offices and are audited. Checks are issued in case of deficiencies.

H. J. C. McIntyre was then called. Witness is an accountant in the Bank of Nova Scotia and was here for the purpose of testifying to the fact that he identified seven orders which it is alleged the defendant issued and which were paid by the bank. Patrick J. Donohue, a branch agent of the company, was sworn in and identified three of the above orders as being taken from his book.

John R. Haycock was then examined. Mr. Haycock is route agent of the Dominion Express Company and has known the defendant for six years. Mr. Haycock stated that the thirteen checks presented to him were in the defendant's handwriting. Witness told of discovering a deficiency in the office and said he could not explain the shortage.

On the opening of court this morning H. A. McKewen resumed the cross-examination of J. R. Haycock. Mr. McKewen would now explain to the jury the system of book keeping in this office.

Witness—"In selling money orders there is a stub for every order and the names of the persons to whom the bits and credits of each day. Reports go to the head office and a copy is kept in the St. John tissue books.

Mr. McKewen called the attention of the jury to the fact that an order was made on the 7th and that an order was made on the 23rd. Also there was an item in the report showing that a mistake of $3 had been made previously.

The witness then read the St. John book of accounts, reports received from agents and the jury tallied the amounts of the reports of the different agents sent to the head office. Several items were found including Emerson & Fisher $27, and Macanary Bros. $80, which had no corresponding entry in the report to the head office. Most of these were reported next day, but the Macanary account was not forwarded till Nov. 1st.

Mr. McKewen—"What I am trying to prove is that the amounts were not reported day by day as they should have been. I have no doubt that the reports were made in afterthoughts. The reports were held back and others were reported which came in previously."

Witness—"Yes."

Mr. Haycock explained that a certain amount of money was held back as a working basis in order to meet business needs.

Mr. McKewen then took up the orders in question separately.

Witness—"As to the orders, I have no doubt that the witness, witness said that there was no bank stamp on the back and that the defendant then did not get money from the bank on them.

A report to the head office showing a deficit of $145 was shown to the witness. This included eight orders which it is alleged should not have been issued. Mr. Haycock said that if these were not included deficit would have been $495 less. The testimony then proceeded as follows:

Mr. McKewen—"Did you investigate if the accounts were all right when White was in the office as cashier?"

Witness—"Yes."

Mr. McKewen—"You have only Mr. Payne's word."

Witness—"Yes."

Mr. McKewen—"You then think that Mr. White in nine weeks appropriated over $5,000?"

Witness—"Yes."

Mr. McKewen—"As you do not keep any books it would take a man a long time to find the standing of the office?"

Answer—"Yes."

Mr. McKewen—"I do not understand your position as acting manager. Is not Mr. Abbott manager?"

Witness—"You might be manager of the Bank of Montreal and I might be acting manager."

Mr. McKewen—"I can assure you that Mr. Abbott would not be a manager."

Judge Forbes—"How often would you audit the St. John books?"

Witness—"Once or twice a year."

Judge Forbes—"It was a cruel position to put a young man into where he could not know the financial state of the office, and be exposed to the temptations occasioned by the looseness of the business."

Stephen A. Payne, formerly cashier in the office here, was sworn. He stated that he had been in the employ of the company for seven years.

Solicitor General Jones—"When did the first shortage in the office you remember occur?"

Witness—"About three years ago. The amount was $200 and some odd dollars and was discovered before the day's report was made. The witness in Mr. Abbott's own sales. The witness in Mr. Abbott got $100 from some of his family and was paying the rest in installments from his salary. In the meantime an O. O. U. from Mr. Abbott was held in the office."

Mr. Payne also stated that he remembered also shortages of $50 and $80 in the office.

The witness explained that it was the custom in the office to hold over certain orders to give a working balance to meet money orders.

William Woods of Welsford Gets Society's Gold Medal—List of Degrees Conferred To-day

(Special to the Sun.)

FREDERICTON, N. B., May 30.—The annual meeting of the alumni society was held at the university this evening. Dr. McLaren, the president, occupied the chair, and among those present were B. C. Foster, Dr. T. D. Walker, Dr. Crockett, H. H. Hagerman, E. A. McKay, Dr. Atherton, Prof. F. Scott, Rev. F. Baird, Rev. Mr. Wilson, J. T. Jennings, A. S. McFarlane, John Page, Dr. H. S. Bridges, H. V. B. Bridges, C. D. Richards.

The alumni gold medal was awarded to William Woods of Welsford and the Brydson Jack scholarship to Donald C. McCormack. The evening was mostly taken up with transacting routine business. The accounts showed the society to be in a most encouraging condition, the treasurer having on hand $111.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—B. C. Foster.

Vice-presidents—Dr. W. C. Crockett, Dr. T. D. Walker, Archdeacon Neale.

Secretary—H. V. B. Bridges.

Members of council—Dr. McLaren, H. H. Hagerman, J. T. Jennings, A. S. McFarlane, E. A. McKay, J. D. Phinney.

Representatives to senate—Judge Barker, H. V. B. Bridges.

A BAD FIRE IN WOODSTOCK.

Early Morning Fire Which Swept the Street Destroying a Dozen Places—The List of Insurance Carried.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., May 30.—At 1 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in a barber shop on the corner of Main and Connel streets. The fire immediately spread to the adjacent buildings and the firemen quickly responded. The fire had a good start and the fire department was called. The fire was quickly seen that the department was a hard fight before them. Owing to the upper stories of the different buildings being connected the fire took long before it was under control. The fire was in a blaze from room to room and building to building. The flames made rapid progress and it gave the fire department a hard fight for supremacy. There were eight or nine good streams of water playing on the fire, but despite these the fire steadily gained and worked its way up the street. PRINCESS VICTORIA IS HER NAME NOW

Gorgeous Decorations for the Royal Wedding.

Representatives of Reigning Families of Europe Greet Alfonso's Bride.

MADRID, May 29.—The preparations for the marriage of King Alfonso and Princess Victoria (as Princess Ena of Battenberg is designated by the Spaniards) are fast approaching completion. The arrival of foreign princes and envoys, the influx of vast throngs and the final adornment of streets and buildings.

Such a spectacle has seldom been seen as when the Princess coming to the wedding arrived this afternoon. The train of the Prince of Wales and the Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria arrived at 2 o'clock, followed by the trains of Prince Albert of Prussia, the Grand Duke Vladimir of Russia, Crown Prince Constantine of Greece, Prince Leopold of Belgium, Prince Eugene of Sweden and many others. Before the station were drawn up the palace guard with their white uniforms and shimmering helmets and a brigade of lancers with steel breast plates. Awaiting the Princess were the royal family, the Infantas, the captain-general of Madrid, the Ministers, and the Ambassadors.

Later all the princes and princesses with their retinues proceeded to the Pardo palace, where King Alfonso and Princess Victoria received throughout the rest of the day. The Pardo palace was the center of the festivities to night. William M. Collier, the American Minister to Spain, was among the guests, but special envoy F. W. Whitridge and the other envoys were not present as the guests were restricted to princes and resident diplomats.

The streets tonight present a spectacle of lurid color and intense activity. All the main thoroughfares are packed with dense throngs of people in bright summer attire, many of them wearing the picturesque costumes of Castile and Aragon.

Many buildings are surmounted with electric lights which at night sparkle with electric lights. At the Plaza Angel, there is a huge Japanese parasol edged with electric lamps, under which military bands play for street dances. With nightfall the colors in the street light, the arches, palaces and emblems are outlined by innumerable electric lamps. Thus the capital has taken on its brightest hues for the marriage of the King.

The fire immediately spread to the adjacent buildings and the firemen quickly responded. The fire had a good start and the fire department was called. The fire was quickly seen that the department was a hard fight before them. Owing to the upper stories of the different buildings being connected the fire took long before it was under control. The fire was in a blaze from room to room and building to building. The flames made rapid progress and it gave the fire department a hard fight for supremacy. There were eight or nine good streams of water playing on the fire, but despite these the fire steadily gained and worked its way up the street.
