Robert K. Smith Uspect Last Evening Half Mile from Shore—Help Came When Nearly Exhausted. Eloquent Sermon on "Our Patron" Preached by Rev. Fr. Woods in North End Church Yesterday.

Mr. Robert K. Smith, son of Mr. Thomas Smith of the West Side, had a narrow escape from death by drowning at the Bay Shore last evening. Mr. Smith returned from Petewawa only yesterday morning and last evening he went out sculling in his shell. He had gotten out half a mile when people watching from the shore were horrified to see him lose his balance and fall into the bay. He struggled bravely with the waves and being a good swimmer at last succeeded in getting back in his shell. He was unable to retain his balance in the tricky craft and fell into the water for the second time. Some men who were in the vicinity perceived his predicament by this time and rowed out in a flat-bottomed boat as fast as they could to his assistance. They were successful in rescuing him before he became altogether exhausted. When he reached the shore Mr. Smith was not feeling any serious effects from his mishap. He is considered a very competent sculler and his many friends will congratulate him on his escape.
