"SALADA"

THE JEWISH PEOPLE

Always Believed That They Would Possess Homeland Again.

The Jews are the only race, so far as history records, that have carried with them through centuries of dispersion what they firmly believed to be a divine promise...

That this long-deferred hope promises ere long to reach its realization is evident from a written statement from Lord Curzon, British Secretary of Foreign Affairs...

About two years ago, and a year before final victory was assured the allied forces, Arthur J. Balfour, the then Secretary of Foreign Affairs...

When, however, the matter came up before the Peace Conference for adjudication both Syrians and Arabs set up an insistent claim for possession of the original homeland of the Jewish people...

portant, showing as it does that the British Government is insistent on the terms of the Peace Conference being carried to a successful issue.

The territory embraced by this Jewish homeland is 140 miles long and from 70 to 100 miles in width and is practically an isolated oasis, but relatively small, as Palestine is characterized by a wide range of climate...

Approximately three thousand years have elapsed since the Jews, by David's capture of Jerusalem, came into full possession of Palestine...

According to a statement made public during the first year of the war, the Jew is prepared to colonize the land, to develop it, and to make life there healthy and prosperous on a scale which no other nation is likely to attempt.

It does not follow, however, that for at least a long time to come, Palestine will become in the true sense of the term, politically independent. In fact, there are few, if any, Jews advocating it. Palestine, in all its history, has seldom been a nation alone...

A recent estimate places the number of Jews in the world at 14,500,000. In Canada there were at the last census 55,564, compared with 16,401 ten years before.

Treasure-Trove.

An ancient story of the greed of kings has been resurrected by an erudite member of the Institute de France, Mr. Adrien Blanchet. The fact is there is some prospective work on hand for the utilization of the Phone water power. Thus do ancient history and modern enterprise come to hobnob in the revue des etudes antiques.

FREQUENT TREATMENT.

A negro mammy had four boys who were so polite and well-behaved that they excited the interest of the mammy's mistress, says the Cincinnati Enquirer. "Oh, Mr. Bilton will be leaving for the golf links. He told me to tell you to take a good look at him as he passed out."

A FLEETING GLIMPSE.

"You will be able to see Mr. Bilton in a few minutes," said the private secretary. "Thanks," replied the persistent visitor. "As Mr. Bilton is a man of such large affairs, I was afraid I would not be able to get an interview so easily."

Shaddock.

Florida, the land of sunshine and perpetual summer, is noted for its pine apples and oranges, but many tourists do not know that there grows in the land that Ponce de Leon discovered a gigantic orangekite fruit which sometimes weighs ten pounds.

This fruit has not the orange flavor, but is similar to the grapefruit, which is sometimes called "pomelo" and it looks so nearly like a grapefruit that one who is not an expert cannot tell the difference. It is not called a grapefruit by the natives, but "shaddock," and is found south of Fort Pierce, and is well known in Miami, Homestead, Palm Beach, and the Florida Keys.

All shaddock does not grow to weigh ten pounds, but many a one can be purchased in the markets of Florida which will easily tip the scales at half that weight, and if one wants to go out in the Everglades he can easily gather all the shaddock he cares to eat or ship back up North to his friends there, as these shaddock trees have been growing there for hundreds of years, and have no owners, save the beasts of the jungle like hummocks and the Seminole Indians, who still roam the Everglades undisputed by the white man.

Mischievousness of Youth.

A young wife put down her book with a sigh. "What is it, darling?" her husband asked. "Ah, dearest, I am so happy!" she replied. "Yes, but you had such a sad look in your eyes just now." "I know, I've been reading about the unhappiness that the wives of men of genius have always had to bear. Oh, Alfred, dear, I'm so glad you're just an ordinary sort of fellow!"

MEAN BRUTE!

(Cincinnati Enquirer.) "Do you think it is safe to trust money to mails?" asked Mrs. Gabb. "A blame sight safer than trusting it to the females," growled Mr. Gabb.

Catarrhzone Works Wonders

Lots of people used to let their cold "work off"—they suffered a whole lot, sneezed under the house, till the whole family finally caught the infection.

THEIR FINAL DANCE.

Vernon Castle's Last With His Wife.

"I have taken out all that seemed too sacred to be made public and locked it tightly in my heart."

These words appear in the preface of a poignant human document, "My Husband," written by Irene Castle, the dancing partner of young Vernon Castle, who sacrificed a salary of $5,000 a week, and later his life, to serve his country in the Royal Flying Corps.

Vernon Castle, whose sunny nature won him friends in all parts of the world, was killed in Texas in February, 1918, at the age of 29, while attempting to save the life of a flying pupil he was instructing.

In the story of his life, written by his widow, Vernon Castle appears in the role of the ideal lover. The young couple started life together practically penniless, their only asset being their art. From a varied career in dingy cabarets in Paris, the couple danced their way to fame and fortune, which was at its height when war and separation came.

Here is the account of the great parting:

"Swallowing hard, I waved feebly out of the window as the train moved from the platform, leaving him standing at the salute, every bit a soldier. Once out of sight I sobbed to my heart's content, and as the fields and hills rolled by hastily I wrote this little prayer for him. It's poor, I know, but I quote it because he wore it tied around his neck with a dirty little string for the next nine months:

"Almighty God, if Thou art there, Listen to my humble prayer, And keep him safe. Keep him in your care always, Watch o'er him this weary day, And keep him safe. Make him feel my love and sorrow, Bring him back some near to-morrow. And keep him safe."

The last dance of the dancing partners took place while Vernon Castle was on leave. "On the night of the benefit he danced divinely. At the close of the performance many beautiful flowers were handed to us over the footlights.

"In the wings Vernon nervously kiss my hand and there were tears in his eyes. I wondered if he guessed? We had danced our last dance, and the last ring of applause for us was still. The world had been very good to us. Together we tasted success, fame and money. Thank God that at no time during that night did I dream it was the end."

In Castle says: "Vernon was so like a little boy. He was interested in everything. I have heard of no one who disliked him. In spite of the money he made he never had any. He loved spending it. You simply could not persuade him to save for the future. I am happy now that he spent and enjoyed the money he had to the fullest degree."
