REMEMBRANCE.

In a lone bleak wood a wild nese grew. No eye ever saw it, io mind ever knew, But the flower was mone the less as fair As any that ever breathed the air. It gazed up to the caim, cold sky And shuddered to think it soon must die.

No eye ever saw it, no mind ever guessed The sweetness of its final rest. How came I to know it? "Twas told by the dew How sweet is Remembrance, and I tell you. -J. B. Delany in Guidon.

A military touch on gowns and sepa-rate waists for youthful wearers is just now the correct finish. The all wool and silk and wool novelty goods and French and English suitings this fall are in soft medium weights in pretty, blended dyes, the result being a nameless, uncertain color.

nameless, uncertain color, Reversible satins are used extensively on winter hats and for linings, facings, draperies, choux, tea gowns, accordion plaited petticoats, foundations for lace and velvet opera wraps, etc.

On some very charming pegligee gowns the fronts droop in blouse fashion and are closed on the left shoulder and down the left side after the style of some of the revived Russian blouses and jack-

For elegant winter gowning and in the advance display of French millinery black and gold, black and vivid red and black and white combinations and effeets are in marked favor both here and abrond.

It is certain that no matter how elaborately the toilets of ceremony or how tastefully the handsome dead dress of house gowns may be decorated all fancy trimmings will be kept from the tkirts of utility tailor costumes.

The new costumes of the different shades of red stand out in sharp contrast to those of gray, brown, blue, etc., and they seem too conspicuous for street wear in most instances. The drear, dull days later on may, however, render these bright gowns a welcome color note in the momber landscape of the season.

Most superb and costly are the velvet gowns and costumes made ready for elea luxurious and bewild, ring display of them-black, blue, grenat, dark Russian green, wine color, purple, pale fawn and gray. Some of the soft, artistic shades in plum color, blue, brown, etc., garnish-ed with guipure lace and rich furs of va-rious kinds, are regal in effect.

THE WRITERS.

Winston Churchill, who comes to America on a lecturing tour in December, says he proposes to fool the newspapers here by copyrighting his speech.

Israel Zangwill, the Hebrew novelist, wrote his first book when he was a stu-dent at London university. The effort occupied four evenings-he always works in spurts—and he and a friend paid £10 to have the tale published in pamphlet form;

"The public has somehow got the idea," says Joel Chandler Harris in a recent in-terview in the Atlanta News, "that I am terview in the Arbita News, "that I am too modest to be healthy, but that is a great mistake. With the exception of a big apple dumpling, with a bowl of but-ter sauce close by, I know of nothing nicer than to sit in a large armchair and hear your friends say kind things about you when they think you're not listen-ing."

Miss Braddon has published over 60 novels since 1862. Previous to trying lit-erature, however, Miss Braddon appeared on the stage. There is some doubt in the matter, but "An Old Player" has declared that the future novelist made her debut at the Brighton Theater Royal in 1857 and that during the five following months she impersonated as many as 58 distinct characters. Her stage name was Mary Leyton, and, though now known as Miss M. E. Braddon, she is really Mrs.
