"Hello! You look blue this morning. What's up with you?" "It isn't what is up with me: it's what was up with me all night."

Severe Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. Lawson, Corcoran, Ont., writes: "My dear son, I have been suffering from severe kidney trouble for several years. I was very nervous and so weak that I could hardly get up stairs."

Gained 25 Pounds.

I was much too thin in health, could not sleep, was very nervous and so weak that I could hardly get up stairs. I began using Dr. Chase's Ointment, and in a few days I was able to get up stairs."

Hubby—Wife, dear, why are you frowning so over that letter you're writing?

Wife—Oh, I carelessly said everything I had to say before I signed it, and now I can't think of a thing for the postscript.

The Patient—You charged me with three dollars on August twentieth.

The Doctor—Yes, three dollars is my charge for office visits.

'But I wasn't in the office. You came out on the piazza to see me.'

'Oh, did I? Then the charge will be five dollars. This is my charge when I go out of my office.'

Piles

To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding, protruding piles, hemorrhoids, and all other troubles of the rectum, we have prepared a special pamphlet, which will be sent you free of charge, on receipt of your name, back of a box, at all dealers or *W. 'People talk about the weather because they don't like to think,' remarked the man who makes a study of conversation.

'Not in this climate,' answered the contradictory person. 'You've got to keep your mind on it here. The weather's liable to change while you're talking about it.'

Tom (dejectedly)—Miss Griddett went back to Boston to-day. I proposed to her at the dance last night and she rejected me.

Dick—Yes, I saw you just after it happened.

Tom—You saw me? You must have had a magnifying glass with you.

Two boys who managed to be rather unruly in school so exasperated their teacher that she requested them to remain after hours and write their names 1,000 times. They plunged into the task. Some 15 minutes later one of them grew uneasy and began watching his companion in disgrace. Suddenly the first one burst out with despair between his sobbing and sobs to the teacher:

'Faint' fair, mum. His name's Bush and mine's Schluttemeyer.'

Forestry Education.

Canadian newspapers and public men are beginning to preach forestry, but as yet have not begun to do very much. In the United States considerable progress is being made, and the new forestry course at Yale has grown more rapidly than any other department ever started. In calling attention to this, The Yale Alumni Weekly says: 'In the historical ups and downs of other and older departments of Yale the record, and the prosperity of the Forest School call for special attention. It has endowment funds of $200,000, with the lumberman's professorship funds of $150,000 in sight, and an annual income of about $20,000. Its courses of instruction already number 31, in charge of 26 teachers, including lecturers, and its steadily waxing registration of students now amounts to 59 in the two regular classes, besides 59 in the regular lists of students one grade, besides Yale, some 28 universities and colleges represented by graduates, two of these institutions foreign. In the departments of Yale, during her history, no branch has been able to show so limited a time such a ratio of material growth.'

The Deaf Made to Hear.

Deafness because usually due to Catarrh, is quite curable. In a thousand cases this has proved absolutely true. Success invariably attends the use of Catarrozone which has cured catarrhal deafness of twenty five years standing. Penetrating through the passages of the ear, the soothing vapor of Catarrozone relieves the inflammation, destroys the seeds of Catarrh and thereby allows nature to re-assist herself. Try Catarrozone yourself, 25c, and $1.00 sizes sold by all dealers.

One Button was in Use.

A school principal was trying to make clear to his class the fundamental doctrine of the Declaration of Independence.

'Now, boys, he said, 'I will give you each three ordinary buttons. Here they are. You must think of the first one as representing Life, of the second one as representing Liberty, and the third one as representing Pursuit of Happiness. Next Sunday I will ask you each to produce the three buttons and tell me what they represent.'

The following Sunday the teacher said to the youngest member:

Now Johnnie produce your three buttons and tell me what they stand for. 'I ain't got em all,' he sobbed, holding out two of the buttons. Here's Life, an' here's Liberty, but nimmer sewed the Pursuit o' Happiness on my pants.'

When Long Breaths Hurt.

You know that troubles exist which need quick attention. Proper action consists in a vigorous rubbing of the chest and side with Nerwilline which sinks into the tissues where the pain is seated, and gives relief in a few minutes. No flimsy so-called, so strong, so powerful. Results guaranteed with every 25c bottle of Polson's Nerwilline. Get it to-day.

Sex of Poultry.

An experienced poultry raiser of Montreal says: After many years of persistent experiments, I have been able to learn a system by means of which I can produce pullets or cockerels as I wish. I had frequently noted that old hens mated with a cockerel gave about 75 per cent. pullets and 25 per cent. cockerels, whereas the opposite mating of young pullets with an old cock gave a greater proportion of cockerels than of pullets. Hens mated with a male bird of the same age and pullets mated with a cockerel produced about an equal number of pullets and cockerels.

Do Not Crowd the Season.

The first warm days of spring bring with them a desire to get out and enjoy the exhilarating air and sunshine. Children that have been housed all winter are brought out and you wonder where they all come from. The heavy winter clothing is thrown aside and many shed their shins. Then a cold wave comes and people say that grip is epidemic. Colds at this season are even more dangerous than in mid-winter, as there is much more danger of pneumonia. Take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, however, and you will have nothing to fear. It always cures, and we have never known a cold to result in pneumonia when it was used. It is pleasant and safe to take. Children like it. For sale by Rand's Drug Store.

A woman back from France after several years in a Normandy town, serves her cabbage often in Norman fashion, says the New York Evening Sun. She takes out the centre of a head of cabbage and saves it for cold salad. Into the hollow left she fills a dressing made of cold cooked meat cut fine, a minced onion, boiled rice and seasoning of kitchen herbs, salt and pepper. She ties the stuffed cabbage into a cloth and boils it for an hour. A sauce made of the liquor in which it was cooked is served with it.

A TRAINED NURSE

After Years of Experience, Advises Women in Regard to Their Health.

Mrs. Martha Pohlman of 55 Chester Avenue, Newark, N. J., who is a graduate nurse from the Buckley Training School at Philadelphia, and for six years Chief Clinic Nurse at the Philadelphia Hospital, writes the letter printed below. She has the advantage of personal experience, besides her professional education, and what she has to say may be absolutely relied upon.

Many other women are afflicted as she was. They can regain health in the same way. It is prudent to heed such advice from such a source.

Mrs. Pohlman writes: 'It is a firm persuasion, after eight years of experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that it is the safest and best medicine for any suffering woman to use.'

Immediately after my marriage I found that my health began to fail me. I became weak, nervous, and my heart began to palpitate. I was unable to do my usual work, and I had to give up my profession. I was very nervous and so weak that I could hardly walk. It was a bad case of female trouble, and I had to give up my profession. I was very nervous and so weak that I could hardly walk. It was a bad case of female trouble, and I had to give up my profession.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful periods, weakness, displacement or ulceration of the female organs, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation, bleeding (or catarrh), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are bent with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, headache, excitability, irritability, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds where Other Fail.

Womanly Troubles.

It is impossible to go into details on this subject but the experience of many a poor woman who is crippled for life, just because she didn't use a good remedy in good time, should be a warning to others.

When the first stages of womanhood appear in a young girl, a great deal depends on getting her over this critical stage, so that in years to come she will not develop green sickness or consumption.

When she complains of flushed face, headache, bearing-down feelings, give her a course of Petrosone which will be found a remedy of remarkable potency and power.

Petrosone is the ideal regulator and causes all organs of the body to perform their work properly.

It purifies the blood, tones up the nerves and vital energies. The stomach is strengthened, and digestive and assimilative processes are improved by the good work of Petrosone. It regulates the bowels, cures constipation and piles, and replaces disease and decay by health and strength.

There is nothing better for the complexion than Petrosone. It removes the dark circles from under the eyes, removes and cures all manner of skin eruptions, gives brightness and brilliancy to the eyes, a rosy tint to the cheeks, whitens the teeth and develops a fine rounded plump and handsome form.

Petrosone is the ladies' favorite, and should find a place in every household. It is prepared in the form of a chocolate coated tablet, convenient and pleasant to take. Price per box, 50c or three boxes for $1.25. Sold by all druggists.

A gentleman talking to a friend about the antiquity of his family, which he carried up to Noah, was told that he was a mere mushroom.

Ah! said he. How so, pray?

Why, replied the other, when I was in Wales a pedigree of a particular family was shown to me. It filled about five large skins of parchment, and near to the middle of it was a note in the margin. About this time the world was created. —London Tit-Bits.

For Catarrh, let me send you free, just to prove merit, a Trial size Box of Dr. Shoop's Catarrh Remedy. It is a strong, white, creamy, healing antiseptic linctus that gives instant relief to Catarrh of the nose and the throat. Make the free test and see. Address Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. Large jars 50 cents. Sold by A. V. Rand.

Here's to laughter, the sunshine of the soul, the happiness of the heart, the heaven of youth, the privilege of purity, the echo of innocence, the treasure of the humble, the wealth of the poor, the head of the cup of pleasure. It dispels dejection, banishes blues and mingles melancholy; for it's the foe of war, the destroyer of depression, the enemy of grief, it's what kings envy the peasants, plebeians envy the poor, the guilty envy the innocent; it's the sheen on the silver of smiles, the ripple on the water's delight, the glint of the gold of gladness, without it humor would be dumb, wit would shrivel, for it's the glow of a clean conscience, the voice of a pure soul, the birth cry of mirth, the dawn song of sadness.

A Mother's Care.

I do not think that I could bear My daily weight of woman's care. If it were not for this; That Jesus seemeth always near, Unseen, but whispering in my ear, Some tender word of love or cheer, To fill my soul with bliss.

There are so many trifling cares That are too small for me to tell; Things 'e'er on my husband cannot see, Nor his dear love uplift me— Each hour's unnumbered perplexity, 'That mothers know so well; The failure of some household scheme, The ending of some pleasant dream, Deep hidden in my breast; The weariness of children's noise, The yearning for that subtle peace, That turneth duties into joys, That turneth duties into joys, And giveth inner rest.

These secret things, however small, Are known to Jesus, each and all, And this thought brings me peace, I do not need to say one word, He knows what thought my heart hath stirred; And by divine grace my Lord Makes all my throbbing cease.

And then, upon his loving breast, My weary head is laid at rest, In speechless ecstasy! Until it seemeth all in vain That care, fatigue or mortal pain Should hope to drive me forth again From such felicity! —Christian Guardian.

How to Give.

After a missionary meeting in Brighton, Eng., a poor widow of the parish presented herself before the pastor and gave him a sovereign. He knew the poor woman's great poverty, and accordingly refused to accept the coin, remarking at the same time that it was too much for her to give. The widow seemed disconcerted and afflicted, and with the irresolute eloquence of an overbearing heart, she begged him to take it. Oh, said she, I have often given pieces of copper to the Lord. Two or three times I have had the joy to give him pieces of silver, but it was the desire of my life to give Him a piece of gold before I die. For a long time I have been putting by all that I was able, to make this coin. Take it, I pray you, for the missionary cause. The minister did not refuse further. He added to the collection this precious offering of a loving heart.

Little Acts of Kindness.

'There are people,' said an old-divine, 'who lead us heavenward, but they stick pins in us all the way.' Many things of households do this very thing. They mean and want to do, and say the right thing for the guidance of their children, but lack the knowledge of how to do it, consequently fall short of the desired end and wonder at the lack of harmony in the household.

If the home be in the country or city there can be walks, picnics, games, study of birds or of minerals, and many things done in common if the parents and children but plan for them. —The Circle.

Was It You?

There was somebody who never did anything to make anybody happy. Was it you?

There was somebody who never lost an opportunity to say a sarcastic word that would wound the feelings of someone. Was it you?

There was someone who always found fault with the actions, sayings, and things, of everybody. Was it you?

There was somebody who always said harsh and cruel words about those whom they were led to believe were their friends. Was it you?

There are those who always have a kind word for everybody, who always do good acts, who always throw sunshine along life's pathway, and who are always beloved by everybody. Are you that kind of person?

Some people who are total abstainers on principle are something else as a matter of policy. —And though they may never do more than sip a little wine, or take an occasional glass of beer, they have thrown away their manhood or womanhood as actually as the confirmed sot. One cannot sacrifice right to expediency and preserve a title to self-respect.

You will find that the mere resolve not to be useless, and the honest desire to help other people, will, in the quickest and delicatest ways, improve yourself.—Ruskin.

Piles Make Life Wretched

It is a great mistake to imagine that the effects of piles are local, for, as a matter of fact, they sap the vitality of mind and body and slowly but surely lead to the ruination of the health.

This is true of itching and protruding as well as of bleeding piles, which, because of the loss of blood, are more rapid in their disastrous effects.

Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief from the itching and burning and is a positive and thorough cure for every form of this wretched, torturing and oftentimes stubborn disease.

Frequently when doctors have failed to cure piles and the surgeon's knife has proven futile, Dr. Chase's Ointment has effected thorough cures; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
