ALLEN'S LUNG BALM. A few acres in trees is one of the most valuable of a farmer's possessions; yet no part of the farm is so mismanaged, if not utterly neglected.

Aside from the fuel the wood-lot affords, it is both a great saving and a great convenience to have a stick of ash, oak, or hickory on hand, to repair a broken-down, or to build some kind of rack or other appliance.

As a general thing, such timber as one needs is cut off, without any reference to what is left. By a proper selection in cutting, and the encouragement of the young growth, the wood-lot will not only continue to yield a supply of fuel, but will also increase in value.

A beginning, and often the whole of the wood-lot, is usually to sell a man or two to "brush it," or clean away the underbrush. This is a great mistake.

The average labourer will cut a few cords of wood in a year, and the young trees, five or six years old, go into the heap with young poplars and the soft underbrush.

The first point in the management of the wood-lot, is to provide for its continuance, and generally there are young trees in abundance, ready to grow to the top of the clouds.

In the bracing winter mornings one can find no more genial and profitable exercise than in the wood-lot.

Hardwood and useful young trees should not have to struggle with a mass of useless brush, and a judicious clearing up may well be expected to pay for itself, in a few years.

Specimens of a clear, straight-grained, tapering and thoroughly sound trunk. In the dense forest nature provides this. The trees are so crowded that they grow only at the upper branches.

The branches while young are started out and soon perish, the wound soon healing over and out of sight. In our open wood-lots, the trees have often large heads and the growth that should be forming the trunk is scattered over a great number of useless branches.

Only when the fire is started out and soon perishes, the wound soon healing over and out of sight. In our open wood-lots, the trees have often large heads and the growth that should be forming the trunk is scattered over a great number of useless branches.

Miscellaneous. Beware of Imitation. Since Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has been so widely advertised...

A critic, noticing an awkward couple dancing a minuet, said that they looked as if they were doing it for money, and were very doubtful about getting paid.

An English Veterinary Surgeon, now in this country, says that Sheridan's Cough Condition Powders are superior to any he has seen in England...

Why is a lady at a ball like an arrow? Because she can't go off without a beau, and is in a quiver till she gets one.

Example is better than precept. It is well known that dyspepsia, bilious attacks, headaches and many other ills can only be cured by removing their cause.

When a man gives you his hand he does it out of friendship. When he gives you his foot it is quite another matter.

It is impossible for a man to suffer from weakness after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The rising young man of the future is one who will be willing to jump up and build the morning star.

There is hardly an adult person living but is sometimes troubled with kidney difficulty, which is the most prolific and dangerous cause of all disease.

Marriage makes men thoughtful. About half their time is spent in framing excuses.

THAT HUSBAND OF MINE three times the man he was before he was using Wells' Health Renewer.

The end sought for, but not always obtained in making investments—dividend.

In spite of protests the waltz still holds its own. Love rules the world.

It is believed that over 265 persons lost their lives by the careless handling of fireworks on the stage.

Mr. C. E. Riggins, Beauséjour, writes: "A customer who tried a bottle of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery says it is the best he has ever used."

Perhaps it would be well to bear in mind that until the results of the late transit of Venus (those of 1874 and 1882) are fully worked out, the distance of earth from the sun is believed to be 93,000,000 miles.

Perfect, Positive and Permanent are the words used by Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure. It is the best medicine for all cases of Kidney Disease.

A Russian proverb says:—"Before going to war, pray once; before going to sea, pray three times; before getting married, pray three times."

Cingalese is the name of a widely and favorably known hair restorer which does not contain any poisonous ingredients.

Mine-meat is kept in store jars all winter by some housekeepers. A dyspeptic old growler says that is the only place to keep it.

Stop that cough, by the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—the best specific ever known for all diseases of the throat and lungs.

A bald-headed man, who has heard that the hairs of a man's head are numbered, wants to know if there is not some place where he can obtain the back numbers.

Mr. Abraham Gibbs, Vaughan, writes: "I have been troubled with Asthma since I was ten years of age, and have seen hundreds of bottles of different kinds of medicine, with no relief."

"Your dog, sir, is unfeeling. He howls all night." Main lodger—"Indeed! Well, he might do worse than that: he might play the piano all day."
