THE FETORT COURTEOUS. Repartee Used As a Weapon Offensive and

Defensive. "That is the retort courteous, said the fool in the forest, when he qualified the quip and crank to the lie direct. The man who can accomplish the retort courteous gives splendidly the lie direct to many an awkward accusation, and, if his wit be bitter, so much the more deadly In the time of Charles II. of England, in an age of wits, the grand master of the art of retort was the crippled first Earl of Shaftesbury. "Shaftesbury," said the King to him one day, "I believe that thou art the wickedest dog in all my do-minions." "Of a subject, sire, I be-lieve I am," was the reply. While speaking against the test bill in the House of Lords, the Earl overheard an indolent churchman say, "I wonder when he will have done preach-The orator whispered loud ing.' enough to be heard by all, "When I am made a bishop, my lord."

Dr. Garth, a witty physician of the Court of Queen Anne, had prescribed rior, the Duke of Marlborough. When the Duke objected to following the directions the sharp-tongued Duchess Sarah broke in by saying, "I'll be hanged if it does not cure you.' "There, my lord," interposed Garth, "you had better swallow it; you will gain either way."

Repartee has ever flashed brilliantly half of the eighteenth century, listened to an argument of the insolently proud Sir Fletcher Norton upon a case involving certain manorial rights. "My lord," said Norton, "I can instance the point in person. Now, I have myself two little manors." "We are well aware of that," said the judge, smiling kindly. "Do you see anything ridiculous in my wig?" said a judge to the famous Irish barrister, John Curran.

"Nothing but the head," flew back the retort. Although the law seems to be especially conducive to skill in fencing th words, the Church has supplie a large quota of men who delighted in the give-and-take of verbal warfare. The venerable Dr. Thomas Fuller, author of "The Worthies of England," however, met his match once when he propounded the following question to a certain Dr. Sparrowhawk: "Pray, what is the difference between a sparrowhawk and an owl?" "Why," came the response, "there is a great difference. An owl is fuller in the head, fuller in the body, and fuller all over."

The eloquent Baptist divine, Robert Hall, had a caustic wit. A flip pant young woman having broken to his reveries in allusion to his fiancee, Miss Steel, by saying, "Ah, sir, if we had but polished steel here, we might secure some of your attention; but"— "Madam," he replied, "make yourself quite easy; if you are not polished steel, you are at least polished brass."

"What are you going to do in life?" asked Cardinal Manning of a pert undergraduate at Oxford. "Oh, I'm going to take holy orders," was the airy response. "Take care you get them, my son," came from the predaring retort to George III., who Horne Tooke is credited with this drug store; get it today. had asked him whether he played cards: "Your Majesty, I cannot tell a king from a knave.

A DICKENS BALL.

Descendants of the Novelist Will Appear in Costume. A group of descendants of Charles Dickens will represent some of the famous novelist's characters at a remarkable Dickens ball, which will be held at the Royal Palace Hotel, Kensington, under the patronage of Princess Christian of Schleswig-Hol-

Do Not Boil Coffee Too Long. There is only one mistake that can be made in making coffee, and that is to cook it too much. When subjected to a momentary boiling and then removed from the fire it is a drink for the gods, but if it is kept at a high degree of heat for thirty minutes its becomes almost poisonous. Of the peogreater part of them through greed in order to make it go further and produce a larger profit. What we need is a law making it a capital offense to boil coffee more than three minutes.

Child Pension In France. At all times it has been an object with I'rench parents to teach a child to be provident and economical. A child of three can become a member of the Mutualite by giving only 2 cents a week. One cent will entitle it to getting 10 cents a day when it is ill, and the other goes toward getting a pension when it is at a certain age. No one knows how long a child can live, but what does the contribution amount to? There is hardly a child in the world who does not spend that for candy. Now, a boy of eighteen giving 34 cents a month to the society will when he is sixty have a pension of $72 a year.

The Coffee Plant's Friend. In the republic of Colombia there is a tree highly esteemed as a shade for the coffee plant. It is found also in tropical Brazil and possesses qualities that make it peculiarly suited for this particular use. It will live on a stony, poor soil, and a tree only eighteen months old will shade 144 square yards of ground, while, when full grown, it chance came to deliver a home thrust | may be fifty feet high and have a spread of fifty feet on every side.
