City Dock is Now the Scene .of Much Activity.

That the steamship freight business is on in earnest was in evidence yesterday at the dock of the Mutual Steamship Company, as lorry after lorry disposed of its contents on the company's large freighter Wasaga, which left last even-ing with a cargo of 1,000 tons of package freight for the Northwest. She was the first boat to leave Hamilton this season. The company will have twelve steel package freighters carrying goods this season. They are: The Acadian. Ad-vance, A. E. Ames, Beaverton, Bicker-dike, Canadian, Edmonton, Haddington, Mapleton, J. H. Plummer, H. M. Pellatt and the Wasaga. They will have a tri-weekly service out of Hamilton for Montreal and Fort William, running in connection with the Canadian Northern Railway at Port Arthur and the Cana-Company, as lorry after lorry disposed connection with the Canadian Northern Railway at Port Arthur and the Cana-dian Pacific and Grand Trunk Pacific at Fort William. The company will have the steamships City of Ottawa and City of Montreal make weekly trips with passengers and freight from Hamilton to Montreal and Hamilton to Detroit. The Armstrong Cartage Company is at-tending to the local teaming. The first passenger boat will arrive on April 30, but before the passengers can be proper-ly attended to the city doek will need considerable cleaning and levelling, as at present it is poorly kept and suitable for nothing but the handling of freight. It would give the passengers a better opinion of Hamilton if the city would rout the property in presentable condi-tion.

FINED TEN CENTS

"You are fined 10 cents," said Magistrate Jelfs, as he disposed of the case of John O. Ryckman, 97 Leeming street, who was charged with assault by Harry S. Webb. The cause of the trouble, ac cording to Webb, originated in Ryckman's refusal to pay him for services rendered, and when he, Webb, insisted upon being paid his money, Ryckman, he said, had thrown him from the house. The defendant told another story which threw an entirely different complexion on the affair. He swore that he had be-friended Webb when he was injured about a year ago by lending him money, which he never tried to collect. A short time ago he gave the complainant some work, the payment for which would amount to about $19. Ryckman was at the residence of his brother-in-law, Jo-seph Hardman, corner Cottage and Aber-deen avenues, when Webb called to set-tle up. Mr. O'Reilly's statement was much Webb again took the stand, and, re-marking on his physical smallness as compared with Ryckman's bulk, asked in whether it was likely that he would tackle him with such a small chance of success. The complainant continued to a dwell on his own-infirmities, and tried to make them a point in his favor. "It was all so trumpingly silly that he would hurt any person." "You spoke the truth there—it is all so trumpingly silly—that such a case should be brought into court," said the Magistrate. Turning to Ryckman he said: "If this man was abusing you you should have called on Hardman to put him out, as he, Hardman, is the tenant of the house. You had no right to lay great provocation.
