

who thus wrought all for us, your soul, in "like the chariot of Ammi-ndib," in a moment, you feel your conscience has been set free, as if a voice from that sinning work had said, "Peace be still."

of those among whom he labors. As the European Missionary must necessarily exercise a superintendency over many native teachers and churches, he requires to possess peculiar wisdom and prudence. At this sitting, the missionary results of the missionary conduct of many European churches, upon the natives, was the subject of remark. It was also observed that, after a period of sixty years labor in heathen lands, there were more than a million and a quarter of converts to christianity, and therefore the missionary effort was by no means a failure.

Field Lane Bazaar and Bazaar Schools.—On Wednesday the 19th anniversary of these admirable charities took place at St. Martin's Hall, under the presidency of the Rev. J. M. W. Brown. The report stated that the large free day schools were in full operation for infants, boys, and girls; 375 fresh scholars had been admitted during the year, making 5830 since the opening of the present session.

well as the children of those—the lives of Heaven as well as the hell. With us, the living, the living, the living, the living of Abel till now, might be closed with this solemn sentence, "And he died." We read of ancient patriarchs who walked with God; but they might go to walk in silence, as we now see through a glass dimly, but face to face. We read of holy prophets who preached the gospel of Christ to their fellow-men; but they were not to be seen in the streets of the New Jerusalem. We read of holy people who saw Christ's glory and spoke of him; but they did not see him, but saw a world of sin and sorrow; and all the while, having left a world of sin and sorrow; and all the while, having left a world of sin and sorrow; and all the while, having left a world of sin and sorrow.

THE Protestant & Evangelical Witness.

SATURDAY, JUNE 2, 1860.

The Missionary Conference at Liverpool.

The many openings everywhere made for the Bible and the Gospel, in lands from which they had been hitherto excluded, constitute one of the remarkable signs of the times. It is a grand and glorious era of man and exertion on the part of the principal followers of the Redeemer. The Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us," salutes our ears from many quarters. And it is pleasing to reflect that there is a disposition to respond to this cry.

The Revival in Restigouche.

The following extract from a letter received by us from a young layman, will be interesting to the readers of this journal. The letter is dated "Campbellton, May 15."

Presbytery of P. E. Island.

On Wednesday the 30th ult., this court met at New Glasgow for the transaction of its ordinary business. Mr. Robert Laird, Moderator of the Gospel, having accepted of the office of Moderator, delivered the opening prayer, and then delivered the discourse, the substance of which had been assigned him, as trials with a view to ordination, to the entire satisfaction of the Synod.

London May Meetings.

The East Society.—Basilisk, Esq., the City Chamberlain, presided. The subscriptions for the past year amounted to £1707, showing a large increase. The subject of the morning sitting on Tuesday was "THE NATIVE AGENT." Under this head a good deal of discussion took place, in reference to the plan of church government to be adopted in missions, with any fresh details.

FOR SALE OR TO LET.

THAT HANDSOME AND COMMODIOUS COTTAGE, situated in Eastern Street, at the commencement of the St. Peter's Road, freehold property.—Attached to it is an extensive garden. The house is in a delightful situation, with a view of the sea, and is well fitted for a family residence. It has a large parlour, receiving room, three bedrooms, a fire, a garden, and a well, and is in a very healthy situation. Half the money may remain on security, or it may be let for thirty-five pounds per year, garden included, for two years only.

THE DEATH OF THE SAINTS PRECIOUS.

A Sermon preached in the Free Church of Glasgow, on the Sabbath after the Death of Captain A. O. Dalgleish, one of the Elders of the Congregation, by the Rev. John Laird, C. P. J. O. R. Moutrose: George Walker.

THE DEATH OF THE SAINTS PRECIOUS.

The Christian gentleman, whose awful sudden death a few weeks ago was the occasion of this discourse.—From Paul's epistle to the Romans, we are enabled to see the truth of what we affirm. With every grace that led us on to the Christian life, the late Captain Dalgleish was endowed with every blessing. His mind and spirit were in full perfection; his unwearied labors by the sword of science and calling; his fervent zeal for the cause of his country, and his readiness to die for it; and yet he was suddenly snatched away to a better world.

THE DEATH OF THE SAINTS PRECIOUS.

The Rev. James Bayne, from Pitou, will preach (D.V.) in the New Presbyterian Church, Queen Square, on Sabbath next (to-morrow) at 11 o'clock a.m. and 6 o'clock p.m.
