The present resolution provided for building according to this plan, or modifying that plan if needed be. There was no one who would deny that the time had come when we wanted New Buildings, and how any hon member understanding the case could say the figures named were too high, he could not see. He did not think the construction of the building would be hardshipping on the Province, for there was every reason to anticipate that $150,000 would in short be put down to our credit, on account of Eastern Extension claim. In such case we would have to borrow no money, but after putting up the building we would have a surplus. He submitted the resolution to the House in the full confidence that it would be warmly supported. (Great applause.)

To the Editor of the STAR:

DEAR SIR-An anonymous letter in your ssue last week demands from me more than a assing notice: for two reasons; (1) because the URTHER NOTES FROM THE LAND OF language of your correspondent betrays so unmistakably the authorship; and (2) because I, one of the Trustees of School District No. 2, Saint Mary's, am pointed at, and characterized as a "busybody" a "slanderer" a "coward" and Myself and many others may well ask: Why all this? Take the facts. On March 24th, between 12 o'clock m. and 2 p. m., the School House at Saint Mary's was burned. The fire originated from the stove in the preparator department up stairs taught by Miss Marsh. Miss Marsh has stated to the Trustees and others, that shortly before 12 o'clock, she told two boys James Davidson and Walter Evans bows. She immediately sunk, but the crew saved themselves, and took the Mails out before the vessel went down. There was no insurance. [The M. H. A. referred to above owns the packet, and is under contract with the Government—Ed.]

During the last week of March the people of St John's began to complain and almost rebuke Providence that the ice came in and put the harbor in a state. and almost rebuke Providence that the ice came in and put the harbor in a state hardly touch them; the bottom section (metal) of blockade. But the glass of Mr Judge of the stove, a tall cylinder, red-hot; a small hole burnt through the floor about a foot from the front, and 9 or 10 inches to the right side.

House discovered a number of moving the front, and 9 or 10 inches to the right side.

This hole save the jania.

Mr Brannen, Mr Henry Morrell the janitor, never returned again. [Accounts of the loss of life were given in the last STAR.—] Not since 1843 before have seals visited the St John coast on the condition of the stove in Miss Marsh's depart. The following vessels have arrived condition of the stove in Miss Marsh's department when they entered: with the additional statement by Hanson that "the elbow of the pipe two joints above the stove was also red-hot." Now if all these statements are lies, they are not of Dr Patterson's fabrication. All the gentlemen named are living and will reaffirm

Now to recapitulate: Miss Marsh wasthe last windows lowered, the door locked, the draught of the stove open, as she stated to Mr. Logan, and fire in the stove which she expected would have the room warm, only comfortably warm, I mean, when she returned. Construe the matter matter as we will the fact remains that the stove must have been left by Miss Marsh with wood in it—dry hard cord-wood in half lengths —sufficient to heat it to the degree in which Cole, Brannen, Morrel, Hanson and Mc-Keen found it; else, contrary to all probability, On Friday, 9th inst., the Greenland and Arctic, on the 12th Ranger, and on mid-day after Miss Marsh left, and—who and Arctic, on the 12th Ranger, and on the 13th, the Neptune.

The Assembly will rise about the 21st inst.

mid-day after Miss Marsh left, and—who knows?—fired the building. If the former inference be adopted, and indeed it seems to me the most reasonable in view of all the circumstances, then what shall we say in Miss Marsh's case; of that "care" and "vigilance on public school property" (See Reg. 22, Sec. to of the Reg. Board of Education,) demanded by law of every teacher? How the fire caught into the floor, whether by direct heat radiation, or, as the janitor thinks, by the wood falling in the stove and throwing live coals out on the the stove and throwing live coals out on the

One of you self made men, who is not ashamed to own that he has had hard work through life—he stands an oble specimen of independent mannol.

Always fair, and accessible to reason, he truckles to no man from fear or faise deficacy. In early life he did not have the benefit of free schools, and while working by day, he studied by might, and has a mind well stored with information.
