Conservative Attitude Towards Preston
Report Justified

The Ocean Rates Committee of the House of Commons was not long in session before there was given a striking vindication of the attitude taken by the Conservative opposition to the Preston report. When it was placed before the House they charged that its allegations were too sweeping, that they were not supported by proofs, and that for those and other manifest reasons it could be not accepted as authoritative.

When the committee got down to work it was naturally thought that the Government counsel, H. J. Sym-mington, K. C. would at once call W. T. R. Preston and proceed to establish the Government's case in support of the Peterson contract. Did he do so? Certainly not that he be called to the stand, but Mr. Symmington said that he did not regard the Preston report as a factor. It might be right, or it might be wrong. As to its general value, Government counsel said that this was a matter of opinion. So Mr. Preston was not called.

Mr. Symmington made the additional important statement that he proposed to get at the facts. In other words, here was an admission that in his opinion, the Preston report was not to be relied upon. In so far as Government counsel was concerned he began with no information, no facts whatever. He proposed to get the facts by calling the representatives of the steamship companies.
Could any confession have been more humiliating?

Official figures produced in the House recently show that during the past year Mr.
Preston has been conducting an enquiry into the subject of ocean rates and shipping, and that in salary and expenses he has received over $10,- 000, and he is still on the pay roll. His report was published as an official document, and until its unreliability was discovered it was the basis on which the Government's policy rested. And yet when the Government counsel is confronted with it he virtually throws it into the waste paper as of no account municipal jail farm, at Lang, staff, near this city, on the expiry of his sentence of six months' imprisonment imposed upon him by Chief Justice Meredith, last October. Late yesterday afternoon Jarvis fulfilled an additional penalty imposed upon him by the law when he paid into the court!

The plain fact is that the public has been misled with respect to this very important matter. Upon the Government rests the responsibility for having misled the public.

When a government report is made on a subject it is supposed to be authoritative, and the statement of the facts in relation to the subject treated. The public being vitaly affected by ocean rates it is most unfair that it should have been led to accept as gospel the contents of the Preston report, which the Government counsel has now practically discarded.

Then there is the matter of expense. The Government had no right to spend $10-000 on a report which its counsel was not prepared to back up. No wonder taxes are high when money is thus recklessly spent on such worthless material.

The public has a right to know the facts with respect to ocean rates and shipping, and the Conservatives are determined that the public shall know them. The Opposition has all along taken the position that if there is a combine unduly levying toll on Canadian industry it should be abolished. But the Opposition has said "before you announce a policy you should first have the facts."

The King Government has been less concerned about the facts than it has been about leading the public to believe that it was industry. The great clamour about the ocean combine has been for the purpose of diverting attention from the miserable failure that has accompanied the Government's general policy.
