Maryland gardeners find that peas, to-matoes and sweet corn, from northern seed mature earlier and have a better flavor than those from home-grown seed. This is found true in Ontario as well as in Maryland, and applies to all seeds—whether of grain, fruits or vegetables. The best results are invariably obtained with seed brought from the northerly counties of the Province, and usually better the second year than the first.

There is good pasture on the roadside now. Those who have not already done so, should turn their pigs, sheep, cattle and horses out, as it is a pity to see so much good grass go to waste. Of course, the villagers will not mind.
