Fame and Notoriety.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

"There is in human nature a general inclination to make people stare and every wise man has himself to cure of it, and does cure himself. If you wish to make people stare by being better than others, why make them stare until they stare their eyes out. But consider how easy it is to make people stare by being absurd. I may do it by going into a dining room without my shoes."

—Samuel Johnson. That it should be considered a desirable thing to draw all eyes to one's self because one's appearance or conduct is such as to excite admiration, seems perfectly natural.

But that it should be considered desirable to draw all eyes to one's self because one's appearance or conduct is so ridiculous, so improper, or so conspicuous as to force attention without the least admiration, seems absurd.

And yet a great many men and women—especially the latter—seem to confuse these two kinds of attention.

At a summer resort where I once visited, one young woman was always in evidence because of her noisy conversation and her eccentric actions. Wherever she went, people stared at her, and instead of realizing that she was making a ridiculous show of herself, she was evidently delighted by the attention she received. One day when she happened to be of our party on a shopping tour in the village two or three of the tradespeople recognized her and called her by her name. "You see," she said laughingly and yet with evident pride, "how famous I am."

She should have said "notorious." That is the trouble with all the foolish people who try to attract attention by their eccentric clothes and manners—they forget that fame and notoriety are totally different things.

The woman who attracts attention by appearing in a skirt so tight that it is almost impossible for her to stoop over or to step up on a street car, or the woman who wears some startling conglomeration of colors, or a street dress cut as low as a ball gown, enjoys the stir she creates, but would she if she really knew what opinion the people who stare have of her?

Perhaps some of my feminine readers resented my saying that women are more prone to try to attract attention at any cost than men. But I really think they are. Men are rather afraid of being stared at. They are more conservative than women.

And let the woman who likes attention remember this, if she wants to keep her masculine friends—that while a man is willing to have the woman he is with attract attention because of her beauty or her beautiful clothes, he doesn't like her to be stared at because of any eccentricity or loudness in clothes or manner. The women who draw attention to themselves in such ways, the average man will sedulously avoid.

Now surely that ought to reach some hearts that are deaf to all other arguments.

Wonderful Cures Reported in Germany.

The use of simple herbs as remedies instead of the more concentrated and usually more dangerous inorganic substances, has been revived very widely of late. In Germany a new school of physicians has arisen which throws out almost a whole of the pharmacopoeia and relies on an adaptation of the method of wild animals in curing themselves.

It was Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of Buffalo, N. Y., who first advocated the extended use of some of our native roots, such as: Golden seal and Oregon grape root, mandrake and queen's root, black cherry bark. These are the chief ingredients in Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which has been so well and favorably known for nearly half a century. A harmless cleanser and stomach tonic that nature has provided.

J. DONALD MATTHESON of Ossining, N. Y. says: "I suffered for over five years with what the doctors told me was a catarrhal condition of the stomach, associated with a catarrhal condition of the bowels, and nervous heart. I had tried enough nux, bismuth, gentian, rhubarb, etc., to float a ship and naturally thought there was no cure for me, but after reading what eminent doctors said of the curative qualities of the ingredients of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I gave it a fair trial. Took the 'Discovery' and also the 'Pleasant Pellets,' and can truthfully say I am feeling better now than I have in years. I cheerfully give permission to print this testimonial, and if any 'doubting Thomases' write me I will 'put him wise' to the best all-around medicine in the country to-day."

Fads and Fashions.

The new waists are being finished many of them with high crushed sat in girdles, to wear outside the skirt. Leather collars and cuffs are coming in, of white or colors, finished with wee straps and pearl buckles.

Some of the heavy lace tunics to the new white satin gowns art edged with ermine and veiled with chiffon. Unlined wraps of firm ivory voile are much liked for warm summer afternoons and summer seashore wear.

A popular trimming device is "a double row of tiny crocheted buttons down one side of the gown's front, each pair joined with matching cord. Some of the new dark tailored suits for autumn are livened up by collars and cuffs in burnt orange, tan, green, rose, blue and other tones.

Some of the large hats are entirely covered with silk, loosely draped over crown and brim in such a way as almost to hide any definite lines. Mousquetaire sleeves are favoured among the long styles. But three-quarter sleeves are still used for dressy gowns and suits.

Little wings, usually in white, black or navy blue, are being used more than any other feather trimming for millinery.

Maline scarfs for evening dresses are very charming attached at one shoulder and thrown carelessly around the figure.

In the new empire fans the filigree sticks are deeper than the picturesque paper ground, which makes a charming novelty of them.

Undergarments, such as combinations, skirts and nightgowns, are being made of china silk or crepe de chine, white or delicately tinted.

The striking black-and-white fur known as civet cat is coming to the front for this winter's automobile coats.

In children's coats one sees the new oriental and Persian silk linings which have been so delightful for women's coats.

Collars on some of the thin light dresses are so deep as to resemble capes and are often of embroidered batiste.

Many slender skirts of accordion pleats are seen in Paris. Usually they are draped nearly to the knees and fall straight below.

On semitailored waists in white a touch of color appears in girdles, buttons, vests and collars. Dark waists have white trimmings.

Corsets are lower than ever in the recent models are practically girldle tops.

Broadtail, flat caracul, sealskin, moleskin, the new chinchilla squirrel and ermine are used as narrow edgings on the dressier suits for the coming season.

The very carefully designed pannier coats will probably be seen a good deal among autumn evening wraps. If not handled carefully, the pannier is not a success on outer garments.

The white season is affecting even negligees. Far more than usual of these airy garments are seen, made of India silk and lawn, fine linen, voile, allover embroidery and lace. The most open of such negligees require a silk slip underneath.

This summer's delicate and ephemeral parasols positively require to live in dustproof bags when they are not in use. Four pieces of linen or Gamblers and Police Allied.

Boreing The Corrupt Alliance In New York.

New York, Aug. 13.—Powerful banking interests, acting through the New York clearing house commission, came to the aid of District Attorney Whitman to-day in his efforts to lay bare the alleged corrupt alliance between the police and the gambling fraternity, founded on graft and blackmail. A virtual command was given by the committee to-day to all things in the clearing house to furnish the district attorney with a record of deposits they have received from any of the high police officials whom the district attorney suspects of having been a collector of blackmail from the disorderly elements of the city. As a result records showing that within the last eight months police Lieutenant Chas. Becker charged with the murder of Herman Rosenthal and accused of gambling graft has made bank deposits of $56,845 in his own name or that of his wife, were placed in the hands of the public prosecutor. These deposits, the records show, were first made in November, 1911, shortly after Becker became head of the "strong arm squad" of gambling aids and continued all during the time that Jack Rose says he was collecting graft for Becker, and until after his arrest. The table of deposits presented to the district attorney was as follows:—
Corn exchange Bank Nov. 21, 1911 to August 1, 1912, $29,615.
Corn exchange Bank (Branch) May 1912, $4,330.
Corn exchange Bank (Branch) April 1912, $6,900.
Corn exchange Bank (Branch) July 1912, $10,900.

Woman Creates Sensation.
By Her Predictions About The Pope After a Vision.

Rome, August 13.—A tall, bony, haggard-looking old woman who has arrived in Rome from the mountain region of the Apennines is creating a sensation by her prediction about the Pope. She asserted that on the very day on which the anniversary was celebrated of Pius X's election to the pontificate a vision came before her eyes, showing the chief episodes of what would be the future life of the Pope. She declared she could clearly see how the head of the church, notwithstanding his great age, will live for a long time in good health and that his attacks of gout would become less frequent and severe. She added that the second part of the pontificate would be marked by great political and religious triumphs, notably by the return to the old terms of friendship of two Catholic countries, which in recent years had been estranged and had violently fought against the church and its head, and by the growth and spread of Catholicism throughout different countries which speak the same language.
