The Tornado.

By Appointment to H.M. King George V.

We people inhabiting this excellent planet, emotions of pride in our victories, we put up our buildings of brick and granite, equip them with trusses and bastions of steel. Regarding the fruit of our earnest endeavour, we cheerily boast as we weave through the town: "A building like that one will stand there forever, for fire can't destroy it nor wind blow it down." Behold as we're boasting there falls a dun shadow; the harvester Death is abroad for his sheaves, and tumbled and tossed by the roaring tornado, the man and his building are crumpled like leaves. And then there are dead men in windrows to shock us, and scattered and gone are the homes where they died; a pathway of ruin and wreckage to mock us, and show us how futile and vain is our pride. We're apt to when planning and building and striving, forget we are mortals and think we are gods; and then when the lord of the tempests is driving, his wheels break us up with the rest of the clouds. Like ants we are busy, all proud and defiant, constructing a home on the face of the lawn; and now comes the step of a wandering giant; it crushes our anthill, and then it is gone.

Telegraphic Type Writers Now Used in Montreal.

'Witness' Representative With no knowledge of Telegraphy, Easy to learn, and Gets One Personally Telegraphed in Reply.

A 'Witness' representative knowing nothing whatever about telegraphy yesterday himself telegraphed a message to Toronto as correctly and far more quickly than an ordinary telegraph operator. In Toronto a 'Globe' representative, likewise knowing nothing about telegraphy, read the message from the instrument as easily as he could read a newspaper, and without hesitation sent one in reply. How was the trick done? It was done by means of telegraphic typewriters.

By means of specially constructed typewriters, each key of which is linked up with the telegraph wire, it is now possible for any stenographer to send messages just as rapidly as any other typewriting work can be done.

In the C.P.R. telegraph offices on Hospital Street there are two of these typewriters side by side, linked up with two similar ones in the Toronto office. One is for sending, the other for receiving. The operator writes the message in the ordinary way, and gets an ordinary print of it on a roll of paper. At the same time the receiving typewriter at the other end of the wire is likewise printing it. At first sight the thing seems uncanny. You sit down at a typewriter and write your message. You can see what you have written, just as you can on any typewriter.

It seems incredible that you have also printed the message on another typewriter in another city. But the machine beside you commences to work, apparently of its own volition. The answer is being typewritten back to you. There it is being printed out in typed characters in the ordinary way. As the message goes on it is that a word is mis-spelt. The typewriter stops a moment. Then the carriage goes back. The mis-spelt word is obliterated and re-written, and the writing goes on as before.

Apparently anything that you can do with an ordinary typewriter you can do with this one.

The C.P.R. officials state that these telegraphic typewriters have been installed for about six months. They are being tried out with a view to adoption later on if found commercially practicable. They are somewhat costly and complicated instruments, but the rapidity of sending, the economy of handling, and the fact that any one who can work a typewriter can work them, give them a great promise of future development.—Montreal Witness, April 15th.

Grand Masked Ball

Highly Successful.
One of the most brilliant and successful social functions ever witnessed in this city was the Grand Masque which was held in the British Hall last night under ideal circumstances. Amongst the three hundred persons who attended were His Excellency the Governor and Mrs. Davidson, accompanied by Major Davenport and Capt. Beech, Sir E. P. and Lady Morris, Hon. J. Anderson and many other distinguished guests. On arrival at the hall, the interior of which was profusely decorated and brilliantly illuminated, the vice-regal party were met at the eastern entrance and escorted to the ballroom by Mesdames Benedict, Crowdy and Keegan who acted as chaperons for the occasion. When the affair commenced over two hundred persons occupied the floor dressed in the most quaint costumes, which, together with the elaborate display of festoons in the hall room, made a pretty scene. The programme of dances excellently discoursed by the C. L. B. was:

Waltz (extra)—H. Trovatore.
Lancers—Mary Queen of Scots.
Two-Step—Tres Moutarde.
Waltz—Septembre.
Waltz—Lancers—Marguerite.
Stop-Waltz—Reviews.
Two-Step—Prairie (Red Wing).
Lancers—White City.
Two-Step—U. S. Patrol.
Waltz—Dreaming.
Waltz—Lancers—Parisienne.
Waltz—Jolly Coppersmith.
Waltz—Maiden.
Sir Roger de Coverley—Bohemia.
At midnight supper was served in the lower portion of the Hall and dancing continued till 2 o'clock this morning. The ladies' Alexandra Workers are to be congratulated on the success attending their efforts.

NANCY, France, April 22.—Another international military aviation incident occurred on the Franco-German frontier this morning, when a German Army aeroplane alighted on French territory at Nord Arras-court. Two German officers in uniform were aboard. The local military police and French Customs Officers hastened to the spot. Captain Desalle explained to them that his gas-line had become exhausted and he was compelled to descend, but had thought at the time of landing that he was on the German side of the frontier. Later the aeroplane was released.

LONDON, April 22.—In the House of Commons, Morton Griffiths asked the Chancellor of the Exchequer whether he would now consider the advisability of introducing legislation giving preference to those Dominions which supported an Imperial Navy, either directly or indirectly, when there were loans issued in this country. Lloyd George replied that under the existing law there was preference as regards the stamp duties, in respect to loans issued by Colonial as compared with Foreign governments, but no further differentiations would appear advisable.
