

Continued.—A List of the HOLLOWAY STUDIO, Ltd., Landscape and Seascape Photographs.

No. 91.—PLACENTIA, FROM RAILWAY TRACK.
No. 92.—TWILLINGATE.
No. 93.—INDIAN HARBOUR, LABRADOR.
No. 94.—BONNE BAY.
No. 95.—LITTLE RIVER, BAY D'ESPOIR.

No. 96.—DASHWOOD'S POOL, LITTLE RIVER.
No. 97.—LORD NORTHCLIFFE'S HOUSE, GRAND FALLS.
No. 98.—INTERIOR OF POWER HOUSE, GRAND FALLS.
No. 99.—GROUP AT OPENING OF GRAND FALLS MILLS.
No. 100.—SHOWING STOCK PILE, GRAND FALLS.

No. 101.—INTERIOR OF POWER HOUSE, GRAND FALLS.
No. 102.—THE GRAND FALLS.
No. 103.—GENERAL VIEW OF WORKS GRAND FALLS.
No. 104.—GENERAL VIEW OF WORKS GRAND FALLS.
No. 105.—THE TOWER, GRAND FALLS.
(To be continued.)

These Photos are all size 10 x 12, and sell for 50c. each unmounted, and $1.00 mounted. Order by number. Prints of all Photographs may be seen at any time.

The HOLLOWAY STUDIO, Ltd., corner Henry Street and Bates' Hill, St. John's, Nfld.

SCIENTIFIC DENTISTRY!

We have all the latest appliances for doing the best Dental work, and experts in all our offices to do it. At St. John's:—

DR. J. W. SILLIKER, Specialist for extracting teeth and on crown and bridge work.

DR. M. S. POWER, Specialist at gold inlays, gold fillings.

ALBERT PACK, Mechanical Assistant.

MISS H. SIMMS, Lady Attendant.

Maritime Dental Parlors,
176 Water Street. 176.
Examination Free.

WATERMAN
IDEAL FOUNTAIN PEN.

PEN 21 YEARS OLD; STILL WRITES

Below is the copy of a letter recently received by the New York office of the L. E. Waterman Company:

"In 1892 I bought a fountain pen in San Francisco.

"That pen was my companion through Princeton College, and was used to take notes in a thousand lectures.

"I went with it to the theological seminary and it helped me out in a thousand more lectures. It was my faithful friend during nine years in the pastorate.

"It has been in my hands through six years of editorial work. I presume that at least seven million words have been written with it.

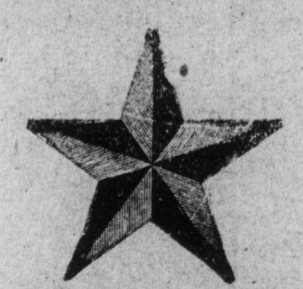

"It has never failed me; never leaked and never balked. The cap was lost, and once the dealer supplied a new barrel when the point was sent to be fixed.

"But the pen is still on duty. Twenty-one years old, but not retired yet! For I am writing this letter with it now."

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "JOHN T. FARIS."
Presbyterian Board of Publication, Philadelphia.

"Office of the Editor."
This is the Pen we sell; all sizes, points and prices. See them—try them, at

DICKS & COMPANY, Limited

RossleyTheatre.

St. John's Leading Vaudeville Theatre.

A Capital Comedy Sketch:

SO AND SO

And Five all Feature Reels of the Latest and Best Films ever seen here.

Watch This Space.

Eggs!

Ex Morwenna:

20 cases P.E. EGGS,

(Selling Cheap).

JAS. R. KNIGHT,

Commission Merchant.

The Passing of a Veteran.

MR. JOHN O'DRISCOLL, OF BAY BULLS.

On Saturday last, there died at Bay Bulls, one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants, John O'Driscoll. He had just completed his 83rd year. He was the oldest son of Martin and Mary Ann O'Driscoll, and one of a family of four brothers and five sisters. On his father's side he came from the historic family of his name—O'Driscoll, of Baltimore, Co. Cork, Ireland, while from his mother there was blended in his veins the best blood of Tipperary, the Ryans.

Both ancestors came to this country more than a century ago. They were educated men, and like many such in those penal days, sought a home in a foreign land bringing with them the brilliancy of an Irish intellect and the unquenchable fire of an Irish faith.

John O'Driscoll had ten uncles of his name who took a prominent part in the country's affairs, one of whom had engaged in his service in a lawsuit no less a personage as an advocate, a Prince of Wales, afterwards William IV. (Prowse's History). They too, were well educated for their day, and in knowledge of history, mathematics and navigation would put to shame some of the brilliant alumni of our higher schools.

One of them, Wm. O'Driscoll, was the first Newfoundlander to take a vessel across the Atlantic. He was captured, and with his crew was murdered by a pirate who afterwards confessed that he had taken a vessel commanded by an O'Driscoll, outward bound from Newfoundland. They were all navigators, and Capt. Henry (Uncle Harry), was a prominent figure in marine circles. In those days "youngsters" came here from Ireland and many of them found a home with Mr. O'Driscoll, and being some times educated, many were retained for the winter to teach younger members of the families of planters along the shore.

John O'Driscoll was in every sense worthy of his sires. He was a man of bright intellect, and fluent speech refined sensibilities and quick perceptiveness, and above all a man of highest integrity. He devoured books, assimilated their contents, and being gifted with a prodigious memory, had history and poetry always at his command. He knew Pinnock's Guide to Knowledge by heart. Being Irish to the heart's core he was familiar with the wrongs and the struggles of that most distressful country. His young mind was filled with tales of '88, and you would think to hear him relate the adventures of the men who led the ill-fated rising of that day, that he himself had carried a pike. He was a great story-teller, and most interesting conversationalist. He delighted to find himself amid a circle of old friends and could "spin out" for hours without exhausting his stock or vocabulary. But "woe to the while" if some shallow pointed paragon dared to contradict him. There was not a noble or base character in English or Irish history he did not know something about, and did any renegade from England or Ireland ever dare in his hearing to belittle the claims of Ireland to justice or throw a damper upon the cause, even by a word, it was pitiable to see the wretch wriggle under the lash of John O'Driscoll's tongue. He was always well posted in current events, was an ardent Home Ruler, and like many more lovers of justice, was anxiously looking forward to the day when old Ireland would be happy under the Dublin Parliament.

On one occasion when Gladstone brought in his Home Rule Bill, some one of a gathering in which he was present was trying to ridicule the movement, O'Driscoll let him go on till he finished, when he pointed at him and said, "That fellow doesn't know that the blood of Cromwell runs in his veins."

He always took deep interest in government affairs, as his father's and his grandfather's house was not only headquarters for Bishops and Priests, but also for such politicians as had their approval. He had an opportunity of learning what governments stood for even in his earliest days. He seemed to have grown up under the impression that governments were for the most part combinations of office seekers and bootlers, and so had imbibed a supreme contempt for politicians as such. The whole family seemed to be under the same impression; they were always men of self-reliance and I do not remember that any of them ever held a government job. I speak of the men of the older generation. A man of John O'Driscoll's intellectual attainments could have shared in the counsels of his country, but though he never sat in parliament he often "sat on" members.

He was a staunch Catholic and always acted on the principle that it was "better to serve God than man." He stood up for moral rectitude, and brings to his grave an unblemished name. No slander ever got a successful hearing from him, while his tongue was ever silent about the misdeeds of his fellows. He was ever ready with consolations for the distressed, and, as far as he could, had a helping hand for the needy. He was a man too, of heroic mould. He was one of a crew of sixty in the "Spring of the Wadhams." There was a raging sea on, ice was rafting while the vessel and crew were drifting fast to destruction. The only hope of safety was in connecting a line to a "growler," a cable's length away. But who would dare face what "all regarded as certain death. John O'Driscoll, courageous of heart and swift of foot, was the only man on board equal to the emergency. He leaped from the deck holding the end of a rope, soon accomplished his task and saved the vessel and crew.

He belonged to a family that produced no politicians, but one, however that gave several religious to the cloister. He had a daughter a nun in the United States, who gave her life in the cause of charity, and he is uncle to the Rev. P. J. O'Brien.

He was a man of striking appearance, and always impressed those with whom he came in contact. When His Grace, Archbishop Howley was here on visitation some years ago, he had occasion to hunt up some data for his "Historical Sketches." He was referred to John O'Driscoll, who was ready with the required information. The Archbishop afterwards referred to him as a "very intelligent man of Patriarchal appearance." Though he had his share of troubles he always bore them with Christian resignation, and was ever buoyant of spirit and agile of movement.

His wife predeceased him a few months, at the age of 82, and he leaves one sister, the mother of Rev. P. J. O'Brien, and two sons and one daughter (Mrs. Capt. Murray, of Gloucester), to mourn their loss.

He was a devoted husband, a kind father and brother, a faithful friend, a worthy citizen and an upright man. He wanted nothing to make him honorable, and required only a little more of the world's favors to make him more recognized. These he never sought. He will be missed from the social circle in which he moved, but his example will live.

Fortified with the rites of Holy Church, he is gone to his departed kindred and to his God. May he rest in peace.

His funeral took place to-day and was largely attended.—Com. Bay Bulls, March 20th, 1914.

The Trepassey train arrived in the city at 8 p.m. yesterday.

The local from Carbonear and Placentia reached the city at 10:30 p.m.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

On Saturday last, there died at Bay Bulls, one of its oldest and most respected inhabitants, John O'Driscoll. He had just completed his 83rd year. He was the oldest son of Martin and Mary Ann O'Driscoll, and one of a family of four brothers and five sisters. On his father's side he came from the historic family of his name—O'Driscoll, of Baltimore, Co. Cork, Ireland, while from his mother there was blended in his veins the best blood of Tipperary, the Ryans.

Both ancestors came to this country more than a century ago. They were educated men, and like many such in those penal days, sought a home in a foreign land bringing with them the brilliancy of an Irish intellect and the unquenchable fire of an Irish faith.

John O'Driscoll had ten uncles of his name who took a prominent part in the country's affairs, one of whom had engaged in his service in a lawsuit no less a personage as an advocate, a Prince of Wales, afterwards William IV. (Prowse's History). They too, were well educated for their day, and in knowledge of history, mathematics and navigation would put to shame some of the brilliant alumni of our higher schools.

One of them, Wm. O'Driscoll, was the first Newfoundlander to take a vessel across the Atlantic. He was captured, and with his crew was murdered by a pirate who afterwards confessed that he had taken a vessel commanded by an O'Driscoll, outward bound from Newfoundland. They were all navigators, and Capt. Henry (Uncle Harry), was a prominent figure in marine circles. In those days "youngsters" came here from Ireland and many of them found a home with Mr. O'Driscoll, and being some times educated, many were retained for the winter to teach younger members of the families of planters along the shore.

John O'Driscoll was in every sense worthy of his sires. He was a man of bright intellect, and fluent speech refined sensibilities and quick perceptiveness, and above all a man of highest integrity. He devoured books, assimilated their contents, and being gifted with a prodigious memory, had history and poetry always at his command. He knew Pinnock's Guide to Knowledge by heart. Being Irish to the heart's core he was familiar with the wrongs and the struggles of that most distressful country. His young mind was filled with tales of '88, and you would think to hear him relate the adventures of the men who led the ill-fated rising of that day, that he himself had carried a pike. He was a great story-teller, and most interesting conversationalist. He delighted to find himself amid a circle of old friends and could "spin out" for hours without exhausting his stock or vocabulary. But "woe to the while" if some shallow pointed paragon dared to contradict him. There was not a noble or base character in English or Irish history he did not know something about, and did any renegade from England or Ireland ever dare in his hearing to belittle the claims of Ireland to justice or throw a damper upon the cause, even by a word, it was pitiable to see the wretch wriggle under the lash of John O'Driscoll's tongue. He was always well posted in current events, was an ardent Home Ruler, and like many more lovers of justice, was anxiously looking forward to the day when old Ireland would be happy under the Dublin Parliament.

On one occasion when Gladstone brought in his Home Rule Bill, some one of a gathering in which he was present was trying to ridicule the movement, O'Driscoll let him go on till he finished, when he pointed at him and said, "That fellow doesn't know that the blood of Cromwell runs in his veins."

He always took deep interest in government affairs, as his father's and his grandfather's house was not only headquarters for Bishops and Priests, but also for such politicians as had their approval. He had an opportunity of learning what governments stood for even in his earliest days. He seemed to have grown up under the impression that governments were for the most part combinations of office seekers and bootlers, and so had imbibed a supreme contempt for politicians as such. The whole family seemed to be under the same impression; they were always men of self-reliance and I do not remember that any of them ever held a government job. I speak of the men of the older generation. A man of John O'Driscoll's intellectual attainments could have shared in the counsels of his country, but though he never sat in parliament he often "sat on" members.

He was a staunch Catholic and always acted on the principle that it was "better to serve God than man." He stood up for moral rectitude, and brings to his grave an unblemished name. No slander ever got a successful hearing from him, while his tongue was ever silent about the misdeeds of his fellows. He was ever ready with consolations for the distressed, and, as far as he could, had a helping hand for the needy. He was a man too, of heroic mould. He was one of a crew of sixty in the "Spring of the Wadhams." There was a raging sea on, ice was rafting while the vessel and crew were drifting fast to destruction. The only hope of safety was in connecting a line to a "growler," a cable's length away. But who would dare face what "all regarded as certain death. John O'Driscoll, courageous of heart and swift of foot, was the only man on board equal to the emergency. He leaped from the deck holding the end of a rope, soon accomplished his task and saved the vessel and crew.

He belonged to a family that produced no politicians, but one, however that gave several religious to the cloister. He had a daughter a nun in the United States, who gave her life in the cause of charity, and he is uncle to the Rev. P. J. O'Brien.

He was a man of striking appearance, and always impressed those with whom he came in contact. When His Grace, Archbishop Howley was here on visitation some years ago, he had occasion to hunt up some data for his "Historical Sketches." He was referred to John O'Driscoll, who was ready with the required information. The Archbishop afterwards referred to him as a "very intelligent man of Patriarchal appearance." Though he had his share of troubles he always bore them with Christian resignation, and was ever buoyant of spirit and agile of movement.

His wife predeceased him a few months, at the age of 82, and he leaves one sister, the mother of Rev. P. J. O'Brien, and two sons and one daughter (Mrs. Capt. Murray, of Gloucester), to mourn their loss.

He was a devoted husband, a kind father and brother, a faithful friend, a worthy citizen and an upright man. He wanted nothing to make him honorable, and required only a little more of the world's favors to make him more recognized. These he never sought. He will be missed from the social circle in which he moved, but his example will live.

Fortified with the rites of Holy Church, he is gone to his departed kindred and to his God. May he rest in peace.

His funeral took place to-day and was largely attended.—Com. Bay Bulls, March 20th, 1914.

The Trepassey train arrived in the city at 8 p.m. yesterday.

The local from Carbonear and Placentia reached the city at 10:30 p.m.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Had a Stroke of Paralysis

And Found a Cure in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

It is always better to prevent serious diseases of the nerves. There are many warnings, such as sleeplessness, irritability, headaches and nervous indigestion.

Prostration, paralysis and locomotor ataxia only come when the nervous system is greatly exhausted. Even though your ailment may not yet be very serious, there is a great satisfaction in knowing that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will cure paralysis in its earlier stages.

Mrs. R. Bright, 215 Booth avenue, Toronto, writes: "Two years ago my husband had a stroke which left him in a weak, nervous condition. He started taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills, and we saw the good results almost immediately. They have made a new man of my husband and we cannot speak too highly of them."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

THE HERALDS OF SPRINGNew HATS

— AT —

HENRY BLAIR'S.

Now showing, first shipment of New Hats for Ladies, Misses and Children, in all the new colours, and Black.

W. B. CORSETS

America's Leading Corset for Ladies.

Now showing, all the new effects in W. B. Corset styles, correctly moulded to suit all figures. There is a wide range of prices, from

75c. to $3.50.

You can only buy W. B. Corsets from

HENRY BLAIR

Sole Agent for Newfoundland.

Serravallo's Tonic

Highly recommended by Leading Physicians in all Countries.

HAYWARD & Co.,
Water Street East.New Goods at Hudson's.

When looking for the material for your Spring or Summer Blouse, be sure to call and see our new stocks of which are in assorted lengths and of excellent quality. Price per lb. only 70c.

BLOUSE COTTONS

We have also cheaper lines of BLOUSE COTTONS, but our 70c. assortment is the leader.

We are also showing great values in LADIES' JOB CORSETS, and we invite you to inspect our stock of them before you purchase your next pair of Corsets. We have them in all sizes and our prices range from 45c. per pair to $1.60 per pair. We especially recommend our Hudson's JOB CORSETS at $1.00 per pair.

HUDSON'S STORE,

367 & 148 Duckworth Street.

PUBLIC HEALTH INSPECTION.

Yesterday Health Inspector O'Brien visited thirty-six milk farms, cow sheds, etc., in the eastern parts of St. John's West. The majority of the premises examined were in a favorable condition.

MINARD'S LINIMENT CURES DIPHTHERIA.MASTER OTTO EMERSON DEAD.

Otto Emerson, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Emerson, Park Row, Rennie's Mill Road, died last night at the Fever Hospital. Yesterday afternoon he was pronounced a victim of diphtheria-croup. His condition was considered serious and he was removed to hospital where he succumbed to the disease last night.

LA TEST SEALING NEWS.GULF STEAMER COMING BELIEVED TO BE THE S. S. SOUTHERN CROSS.

Just as we were going to press yesterday, at 2.50 p.m., the Anglo Office had the following message from the operator at St. Pierre:—

"A three-masted black painted steamer with yellow funnel going southeast, not passing now."

This is considered sufficient evidence to conclude that the steamer reported is the Southern Cross.

The Erik would have called at Channel to land part of her crew, and the Viking or Terra Nova would be recognized by the red cross on their smokestacks.

From Nascope to J. C. Crossbie.

LAST NIGHT.

"Saguna reports for 13,000 and Bloodhound for 9,000."

LAST NIGHT.

From Florizel to Bowring Bros.

"Spoke Newfoundland this morning, clean, he left Ranger 20 miles S. E. of him also clean. We have done nothing to-day; total stowed 14,000."

From Stephano to Bowring Bros.

"Seen scattered seals; following ships are in sight:—Bonaventure, Bellaventure, Florizel and Newfoundland."

From Eagle to Bowring Bros.

"Nothing new to report; Saguna reports herself with 12,000, Bloodhound, 7,000, Nascope, Beothic, Adventure and Diana in sight."

From Nascope to Job Brothers.

"Picking up scattered seals all day, got a few; Adventure, Beothic, Saguna, Eagle, Fogota, Bloodhound doing same; seals cut, estimate 135,000; 70 miles S. E. Grey Islands; all well."

From Beothic to Job Brothers.

"Tried yesterday to get patch seals, came down Gulf, but impossible to penetrate ice blockade; returned to wharfing ice to-day and got 800; will return as soon as patch cleaned up; Nascope, Adventure, Saguna, Bloodhound, Eagle in company."

From Neptune to Job Brothers.

"Fifteen miles N. W. St. Paul's, light breeze from S. E., fine, frosty; large sheets difficult to get through; on board and stowed down 9,200; numbers of young harps in water going south; Erik in sight, have no report; not much doing; all well."

From Bellaventure to A. Harvey & Company.

"Took a few seals to-day, all well."

From Adventure to A. Harvey & Co.

"Took a few seals; Nascope, Beothic, Eagle, Fogota, Saguna, Bloodhound, in sight."

To-day Cape Race reports dense fog, impossible to see steamer passing.

To Marine and Fisheries Department to-day from Bonavista.—E. S. E. wind, light-house keeper reports one three-masted steamer about 8 miles E. N. E. of the Cape all yesterday, apparently jammed; no water to be seen east of the Cape.

Seal Cove.—Story and snowing; no ice in bay; seals scarce.

Change Islands.—Strong E. N. E. wind, ice on land, heavy sea yesterday broke up inside runs.

Oporto Stocks

Stocks (Nfld.) 18,975 22,375
Consumption 3,760 3,495
Stocks (Norg.) 3,750 2,115
Consumption 1,230 1,000

Would the writer of anonymous letters addressed to a Water St. firm on March 14 and 30th call and explain? Conversation will be strictly confidential.—mar31,2i

They warm and strengthen

TESTIMONIALS.

To Dr. F. Stafford & Son,

Dear Sirs,

I strongly recommend your Prescription "A" to all sufferers with Indigestion and Dyspepsia. I used all kinds of medicine and consulted various specialists without cure. I saw your Prescription "A" advertised in the papers and tried a few bottles and it made a perfect cure of me.

MRS. HALL,
Hayward Ave., St. John's.

To Dr. F. Stafford & Son,

Dear Sirs,

I am sending you 60 cents in stamps. Please send me one 50 cent bottle of Prescription "A", the 10 cents balance will pay for postage. You sent me a trial bottle a short while ago and it almost cured my wife and I think another 50 cent bottle will make a cure. I have tried doctors and all kinds of medicines but I don't believe that there is any medicine that can cure a bad stomach like Stafford's Prescription "A." I am more than thankful that you advertised this medicine. Please forward as quick as possible.

P. S.—Call at our Drug Store, Theatre Hill, and see these testimonials for yourself.

DR. F. STAFFORD & SON,
St. John's, Nfld.

Manufacturer of the "Three Specialties":

Stafford's Liniment.

Stafford's Prescription "A."

Stafford's Phorone Cough Cure.

mar21,14

Casino's Fine Bill.