Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada, is composed of the most valuable ingredients known to science. The formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State Pure Food and Drug Laws. Altogether, there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value. Many of these ingredients have been individually known and used since civilization first began, and some of them have been used and prescribed by leading physicians everywhere, but until they were brought together in proper proportion and association, as in the Tanlac formula, humanity had not heretofore realized their full value and effect. In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered." In referring to others of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard text book, states that "They impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues." This same well-known authority, in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as "a rundown condition" uses the following expression: "It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases." There are certain other elements in Tanlac which, because of their intrinsic value, are of great importance to the body, and produce that state of general tonic which is called Health.

The United States Dispensary makes the following comment regarding another ingredient: "It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required. Dyspepsia, atonic gout, hysteria and intermittent fever are among the many affections in which it has proven useful."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensary and in other standard medical text books as having a beneficial action upon the organs of secretion, whose proper functioning results in the purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner objectionable and poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed and the entire system invigorated and vitalized. Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and a thorough elimination of the waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system. Although Tanlac's claims for supremacy are abundantly supported by the world's leading authorities, it is the people themselves who have really made Tanlac what it is. Millions upon millions have used it with gratifying results, and have told other millions what it has done for them. That is why Tanlac has become the real sensation of the drug trade in this country and Canada, and that is also why it is having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world to-day.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS AND NOBODY'S BUSINESS.

I have a friend who has four children under seven and who assists her husband in the running of an inn. The amount of work she accomplishes is the wonder of everyone who knows her. She has help of course, but I have known her in a slack season to do the cooking for ten, with occasionally four or five extra, to do part of the serving, and to take all the care of the children except that taken by a woman of all work who functioned as chambermaid, dishwasher, cleaner and mother's helper. One would say that this woman would have the right to consider herself absolutely absolved from every outside burden, wouldn't one? But she doesn't, and thereby hangs my tale. She is without question the most public-spirited woman in the neighborhood.

As important as Smallpox to Isolate. Here is just one small example. There has been a vicious boy in the district school nearby. His viciousness has spread like a terrible disease. It is surely as important that he should be isolated as if he had smallpox. There has been much talk and complaint about him, but it was left for this woman, unquestionably the busiest woman in the neighborhood, to act.

I suppose it wasn't wholly a question of business that kept the woman from acting; it was partly because they didn't like to get mixed up in anything so unpleasant. I think a great many of us have that feeling and there is no doubt that it keeps us from doing our duty again and again.

A Tragic Lack of Public Spirit. I know of a case where a dangerous man went about the neighborhood speaking insultingly to women. This happened seven or eight times, but not one woman reported the man because she was afraid that she might be drawn into something unpleasant. Finally something much more serious happened, of which a child was the victim, and the man was placed where he belonged and where he should have been put weeks ago if some one of those women had had courage and public spirit. Of course I do not admire a person who is always looking for a chance to meddle where anyone else does. But I do admire the man or woman who has the courage and makes the time to attend to some of the unpleasant jobs that, because they are everybody's business, are nobody's business. Don't you?

Before Brick's Tasteless Extract of Cod Liver was perfected, people took cod liver oil under strong protest. Lemon juice, coffee, vinegar, wine—all were powerless to eliminate that nauseating oily taste. But now even the children do not know they are taking cod liver oil when they are given a dose of BRICK'S TASTELESS EXTRACT OF COD LIVER.

Right now, with the streets piled high with snow and deep slush under foot, people need Brick's Extract of Cod Liver to build up the system and strengthen the natural powers of resistance against attacks of Coughs, Colds, Grippe, Influenza, Pneumonia, etc. Tell your friends and customers that, if they want to know the luxury of real, robust health in spring, they should take Brick's Extract of Cod Liver regularly. ## Ireland, and Some Statistics.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—I trust that you may be able to spare the space in your valuable columns, to kindly favour me with the publication of this letter.

From the many articles which have appeared in your paper recently in favour of the Press and Publicity Committee of the S.D.L.L.N., one who does not keep in close touch with the Irish Question, might be led to believe that England is indeed a very blood-thirsty and cruel ogre, but when one has statistics at hand, the subject takes on a decidedly different complexion.

Between January 1st, 1919, and February 5th, 1921, the number of persons killed in Ireland was 337, and the number of persons wounded was 590, divided up as follows:

	Killed	Wounded
Police . . . . .	224	336
Soldiers . . . . .	54	143
	278	479
Civilians . . . . .	59	111
	337	590

Now, it would be absolute nonsense to suppose that the British Government ordered the killing and wounding of its own soldiers and police. But, supposing for argument's sake that the Sinn Féiners killed and wounded only police and soldiers, and that all the civilians were killed and wounded by the police and soldiers, we find that the rebels have killed 84.4% and wounded 81%, or, more than 4 to 1.

In addition to the above figures 535 R.I.C. barracks have been destroyed, and 173 barracks have been damaged, apart from the destruction of civilian property that has taken place. In spite of the above statistics, however, the crimes of which Sinn Féin are found guilty—the atrocious murders of soldiers, police, and officials, the execution of civilians who have been marked as spies or traitors, the burnings and robberies—are ignored, while the military and police are accused of specific crimes of which they have not been found guilty.

It is certainly not much of a compliment to the intelligence of English audiences that at this time of day, after examples of Sinn Féin hatred and treachery, the murder of British officers and soldiers, the insults to the flag at home and abroad, the pronouncement that England is the only enemy, and the deliberate attempt to injure her in foreign countries, they should be told all these engaging fables of an Ireland anxious for peace, but suffering from brutal tyranny and oppression. It may be that the Labor and Radical parties will find that, after all, their audiences are not quite as dull as they anticipate. Mr. Asquith, for instance, has discovered, to his amazement, that English people seem to reserve their indignation for the murders committed in Ireland, and not for the measures taken to repress these murders. Under Mr. Asquith and Mr. Birrell Ireland did not suffer from what is called militarism. Affairs were administered on the advice of the Nationalist party, and that advice included an insistence that the law must not be enforced. The result was the Easter week rebellion of 1916.

This experience has demonstrated that there will never be peace and real freedom in Ireland apart from a firm administration, the just punishment of crime, and the overthrow and destruction of political secret societies.

Thanking you in anticipation for space.
Sincerely yours,
L. CULLEN.

"REG'AR FELLERS"

H. R. H. The Prince of Wales

AND THE BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT.

St. James's Palace, S.W.
During my recent tours I had an opportunity of seeing the strength of the Boy Scout movement; it has spread to every land and corner of the Empire, and its possibilities for the future both at home and overseas are very great.

There is an erroneous impression abroad that the work of the Boy Scouts is carried on without money; unfortunately, this is a complete misconception of the position. Considerable sums are required to meet the expenses of the Association. At least £200,000 is essential in order to "carry on" and to put the movement on a sound footing.

On all sides I hear of grateful admiration for the men who have voluntarily carried out this work for their younger brothers during the past 12 years. I want to suggest that everybody who feels with me should express it by subscribing to a fund, which we could then offer to the Scouts' Association as a mark of appreciation for its splendid work.

The movement, as I have seen for myself, is healthy and growing steadily; last year it increased in numbers and efficiency beyond all expectation. Will you help it to double its numbers this next year?

EDWARD P.,
Chief Scout for Wales.
£200,000 Wanted for Boy Scouts.
The Prince of Wales' Appeal for Funds for the Boy Scouts Association is gradually realizing the amount asked for by His Royal Highness—viz., £200,000.

At the time of going to press the sum of £55,000 had already resulted in addition to which the Council of the National Service League at an extraordinary general meeting voted the sum of £10,000, to the fund the Prince has so much at heart.

His Royal Highness now invites the Colonies to support this worthy object, and if each reader contributes to his newspaper the simple sum of one shilling the Prince's desire would immediately be gratified.

Disgraceful Coastal Service.

There has been considerable dissatisfaction over the coastal service between here and Battle H.R., particularly the past three or four years. And it has long been felt that the time has arrived when the facilities of travel should be materially improved. Human beings should be treated a little better than cattle. It is scarcely good enough in this so-called advanced age to have men, women and children—from a hundred to two hundred—herded together like so many swine in a sty with filth ankle deep. It would be unprintable to actually describe conditions as they have prevailed on this service, which are a blot to our boasted Christianity.

Four Millions of Public Monies

SQUANDERED BY THE LIBERAL-REFORMERS.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir.—The revelations which are being made daily since the House opened, are staggering in the extreme, and one wonders what possessed the electorate to put such a lot of incapables in the House of Assembly. The whole bunch of them should be given terms of from five to ten years in the House of Correction at Quidi Vidi.

The greatest spendthrift of the bunch is Hon. W. F. Coaker. One calls to mind how this demagogue raved and roared in the days of the Morris Government when public money was spent in building the branch railway and light-house around the coast. Those were the days when he was hailed by the fishermen of the North as the second Moses sent to lead them out of bondage. They sent him to the House of Assembly to look after their public affairs and to see that their taxes were not squandered. He mapped out a course and laid down rules of Spartan simplicity by which none of his followers dared pass in pain of annihilation.

But what a change has come over the spirit of his dreams since his stalwart adherents made him the Premier's Boss. He spends money (the people's) like water. Where the Morris or Cashin Governments spent thousands he must spend millions. What matters it to him whether times are bad, whether men are out of employment or not, whether the cry is going up from all over the country "for God's sake give us bread," he must have his picnics and travel in luxury to the sunny lands of Europe and other climes because he is Coaker.

When the Cashin Government went out of office they left over three million dollars in the Treasury to tide the Colony over the rainy day which they and every sane business man saw coming as an aftermath of the great war. Did Coaker and Squires add to that nest egg so as to be in a position to help people now the period of depression has overtaken us. Let their answers, as tabled by themselves to questions put by Sir M. P. Cashin and the Opposition in the House these days, tell their own tale, and a sorry one it will be for the country before it is all told.

Total . . . . . $4,170,000

The staggering sum of over four million dollars of the people's money has been squandered with absolutely no hope of ever getting any returns for it. This is your Liberal-Reform Government, fishermen of Newfoundland. BEHOLD!

The man responsible for most of this public waste and extravagance is your "God-sent" Coaker—the man who was going to reduce public extravagance to a minimum and make this little country an Eden for the fishermen to live in. One year of his rule has placed us in the chains of bondage for the next twenty years. No matter how what we do or how prolific the seasons are for us, the Coaker chain-lars are riveted on this Colony that fret and chafe how we may we cannot free ourselves from them. To allow him to prolong his rule is merely to add to our burden and to fasten the chain more securely. Generations unborn will yet curse the day when Coaker and Coakerism were allowed to rule Newfoundland! The Coaker Fish Regulations have proven a menace to the public and have ruined scores of merchants all over the country. They will also be the ruin of many hitherto independent and prosperous fishermen, and hundreds this coming summer will be denied fishery supplies solely on account of the Fish Regulations. Let Coaker or any of his satellites deny this fact if they dare.

To placate a number of Northern fishermen who last fall looked to Coaker to make good his promise to keep up the price of Labrador fish, a half million dollars of the public funds of the Colony was voted by the Government to pay for fish. Men of Bonavista and Trinity Bays, is this fair to the rest of your fellow-fishermen in other parts of the country (who in many cases have their last year's catch of fish still on their hands unsold) to take the taxes wrung from all to pay the few. Your motto is "To every man his own." How does this motto apply in this case? Is it fair or mainly for honest for a few to benefit at the expense of the many?

The occasion to vote money from the funds of the Colony to pay for fish would never have arisen had there been no Fish Regulations. It is an undisputed fact that but for the Regulations over one hundred thousand quintals of fish would have been sold to the Americans at a price which would have netted the fish-men ten dollars per quintal before the end of October last year. Business men on Water Street know this, and can prove it.

What does Scammell, or Mews, or Hibbs, or Hon. John Browning, know about the price of fish in the foreign markets? They never exported a fish in their lives. These are the class of men who are shouting in favor of the Regulations and are trying to make the fishermen believe in them. Consider well if these men's opinion should be taken before those who have spent their lives at the fish exporting business and who from experience are qualified to give an opinion.
