Philip Marshall Brown Thinks Pulpit Has Not Right To Interfere.

[Canadian Press.]

NEW YORK, April 5.-War was defended and the clergy were criticized for their world peace propaganda, by Philip Marshall Brown, professor of international law at Princeton University and former minister to Honduras, before the annual meeting here today of the Alumni Association of Auburn Theological Seminary, at Auburn, N.Y. The speaker held that war was not horrible and indefensible, but "the most rational thing that can happen at Professor Brown declared that by denouncing the war the clergymen are in danger of being "thrown off the track." Continuing, he said:

"War is not brought on by the evil in men's hearts. Will Italy go into this war, if she does go into it, from evil passions? Certainly not. She will go into it after careful consideration and to accomplish certain definite ends. It is not from malice that men in war at one another, but for a national idea. It is a sin to call war a horror. Men go into war actuated by a wonderful spirit of self-sacrifice."

Mistake of Clergy.

The speaker declared that the clergy had made a mistake in dwelling too much on the propaganda of world peace and that affairs of state should be left in the hands of statesmen.

'Any sentimental ideal propaganda for peace results in a derision that hurts the whole movement of Christianity," he continued. "Christianity is in the hearts of individual men, and when immediate cases are crying for solution. We have had labor warfare at home in West Virginia and Colorado. What have you done to keep peace here? What are you doing to keep peace in New York? Would we intrust that task to preachers?

This problem is a hard one to meet, but it must be met in a practical and not an ideal way. You should preach Christ and leave aside problems of labor and world conflicts. God will work out His plans, and we have no right to protest against the great features of His plan."

HOW SLATER GOT JOB

Pocketed Over $15,000 Acting as Middleman in Shoe Contract.

[Canadian Press.]

OTTAWA, April 5. - There was ome further light today upon the perations of middlemen in the army boot business. Another chapter was added to the story of how Charles E. Slater sold the Government 8,000 pairs of boots made by Gauthier and pocketed a profit of $15,225. The secretary-treasurer of the Gauthier Company, Charles Long, was on the stand. Mr. E. M. MacDonald asked why the company had not sold the Government direct and not through a middleman. Mr. Long replied that the company had made a contract in 1913 with Mr. Slater to supply him goods for the Government. 'Why didn't you ask the Government for the business direct?" 'We couldn't do it." "Do you intend to pay Slater for future contracts?" 'No. I have the power now and will fight for the contracts." Offer Came Just in Time. Director of Contracts Brown was put on the stand, and it was discovered by examining him that Charles E. Slater had put in his offer to supply the Gauthier boots just half an our before the time for the closing of the tenders, and had nosed out other manufacturers by offering the boots at 21/2 cents a pair lower than nad anyone else.

From the evidence of Mr. Long it would appear that Slater for some time had been reasonably sure that he would get the order for he had advised the Gauthier Company to get the leather for the army boots before the department had even invited ten-"How did Slater get his premoni-
