St. Johns Newspaper Writers

Believe Project Will Be

Put Through.

One writer affirms that it is reasonable to suppose that the Cana-dian government, which has acquired railways from the Atlantic to the Pacific, would assure the entry of Newfoundland into the confederation, take over the Reid Railway of Newfoundland and convert it into a broad gauge line. Thus, by one stroke, the writer suggests, Newfoundland would be relieved of the payment of the subsidy of $1,500,000 recently granted the Reid Railway, and secure a railway service, compared with which the present service is not worth men-

Another writer recognizes that Canada is destined to become an important nation, but only by Newfoundland becoming part thereof, because 'the island's geographical position is the key to Canada's future." Canadian statesmen are astute enough to ealize this, he thinks, and will therefore be prepared to offer terms of union which it would be wise for Newfoundland to ascertain informal-

Threaten Fish Trade. One argument advanced for union with Canada is that the Canadian government would not be interested in helping Newfoundland solve her problem of shipping fish to the Medi-terranean and other markets. In the early winter Newfoundland loads the bulk of her summer catch of fish on small sailing vessels, and rushes them to Southern Europe. Every merchant wants to have his consignments across the Atlantic before the arrival of mid-winter and its violent storms. The consequence is that the markets are temporarily overstocked and prices drop.

If the Canadian government furnished St. Johns with a direct connection by regular steamship ser-vice with the Mediterranean, the movement of dried fish could be regulated to the market requirements and prices thereby stabilized, it is argued. Shipment of the island's staple product by small sailing vessels, many of which are lost every winter, is not apparently satisfactory. Though the ancient colony had a large number of idle vessels, exporters last year paid the Norwegians and Danes over $1,000,000 to carry their fish to Secure Better Connections. Another argument for union is that it would enable Newfoundland to secure better connections with the steamship services which are being maintained between Canada and the West Indies and Brazil, and thus ell more fish in these southern markets. On the other hand, there are fish merchants who fear that if Newfoundland enters the Confederation the large Canadian fish firms operating in Nova Scotia and Quebec would invade the ancient colony and gradually obtain control of the strategic positions in the fish busi-

Hon. W. F. Coaker, minister of marine and fisheries, and also president of the Newfoundland Fisherman's Protective Union, has recently expressed strong opposition to the idea of union with Canada. His view is that Canada is necessarily a competi-tor of Newfoundland in the world's fish markets, is not a purchaser of Newfoundland products to any ex-tent, and has no surplus capital to develop her own resources, much less to help develop those of the island. According to Mr. Coaker, Newfoundland should take warning from Nova Scotia, which, he alleges, made a sad mistake when it entered the Canadian Confederation, because, "It has been industrially stagnant ever since," he says.
