WARD ABOLITION SOUGHT BY SMITH

Alderman Would Also Reduce City Council in London.

INTRODUCES MOTION

Ald. Edwin Smith's motion that the city solicitor be instructed to brepare a bylaw providing for the reduction of the city council from welve members to eight, and for the extension of the term of office for ach alderman from one to two years for submission to the electorate for a rote, made last night to the finance committee, was referred to the full bouncil to deal with at its next meet ing in July.

Included in this request to the eity solicitor by the committee for Inclusion in the bylaw was abolition of the ward system of electing the aldermen. The proposal was not discussed by members last night.

Ald. Smith also asked that in event of the people being in favor of this change, application be made to the legislature to make the changes valid and give the necessary consent.

Backed By Chamber. A letter was read from the secretary of the London Chamber of Commerce, suggesting a change of from twelve to four aldermen, each of whom would serve a two-year term in office and a mayor who would serve one year. Abolition of the ward system of election was urged in this letter also.

A request by Dr. A. O. Jeffray chairman of the library board, for the granting of the issue of de-bentures for $5,500 for the purchase of a building in London South to house a branch of the public library was recommended to the council. Dr. Jeffray explained that the money had been included in the estimates of the board, and that it would be

On Town Planning.

A delegation from the London Chamber of Commerce, headed by Jared Vining, asked the committee what could be done in the way of finishing the Thomas Adams town-planning plan of the city in view of a cookle lately received by him to the cable lately received by him to the effect that he would complete the original contract for the original sum plus $500 expenses. His original contract called for an allowance of $500 for expenses, and there was some doubt as to whether this cable mean an additional $500 or merely the fulfillment of the agreement with the city. Mr. Vining told the commit-tee that the secretary of the chamber would get in touch with Mr. Adams during the week-end and find out his intention. He thought that the architect merely referred to the expense account allowed in the agreement. With Mr. Vining were Gordon ment. With Mr. Vining were dorson and Tom Ingram, Gerald Pearson and Tom MacFarlane, directors of the chamber ber. It was stated that the chamber ber.
