dinary commercial precaution.
Why so Much for Bepreciation?
Mr. Pearson denied that a moderate reduction in the tariff would tend to increase the company's business, and cited that gas was far cheaper now then electricity, but claimed that this fact did not seem to materially augment the Gas Company's business. Reductions made in recent years amounted to 16 cents per 1000 feet, or over $$8,000 on the business transacted last year. He said the company had been accused of wasting money in the erection of useless buildings, but denied that such was the case and claimed that had the city continued to grow in population during the past five years, the present works would have been tested to their fullest capacity during the winter months, and regard, "Jon't you think years, the present works would have been tested to their fullest capacity during the winter months, and regard, "Jon't years, the present works would have been tested to their fullest capacity during the winter months, and regard, "Jon't years, the present works would have been tested to their fullest capacity during the winter months, and regard, "Jon't years, the present works would have been tested to their fullest capacity during the winter months, and regard, "Jon't years, the present works would have been tested to their fullest capacity during the winter months, and regard, "Jon't years, the present for the emergency.

Ar. Pearson and Sir Frank Smith then went into a lengthy explanation of the reduction in the cost of steel and iron in late years, which state-ments were presented as a justification of the company's actions in writing of such large accounts on account of wear and tear on mains, street lamps, etc. Comparison was made with the Montreal Gas Company, where it is claimed that the tariff is $1.30 per 1000 feet, for a total of 112 miles of mains, as against 98 cents for 228 miles in use in this city. Imb Asks "What Are Yon Going to De 97 After reading the report of a bis

A question to be Answered in Ten Days. Ald. McMurrich then formulated a question from the city to the company, to be taken home and digested and an-swered in due time. His question was: "Having utilized a portion of your rest account for investment in plant, are you willing to leave the rest ac-count as it is now and devote the profits accruing in future to a reduc-tion in the price of gas?" The directors of the company were unable to answer this question, but agreed to consider it and advise the committee within ten days, when they
