

extended over the shoulders to form sleeve caps that will render it especially attractive to the slender woman. The front is brought down to the waist line in the form of revers.

This collar would give an air of elegance to the simplest bodice and could be made up in white, cream or écreu, according to taste.

A rich piece of garniture which has similar qualities of adaptability to

No. 594. STOCK COLLAR DESIGN.
Price of Pattern, 10 cents.

No. 591. STOCK COLLAR DESIGN.
Price of Pattern, 10 cents.

recommend it is the French lace berthia, No. 590, which is designed primarily for an evening frock, but which would not be out of place on any dainty summer gown. Its greatest depth is over the shoulders, and it comes together

No. 596. STOCK COLLAR DESIGN.
Price of Pattern, 10 cents.

No. 601. STOCK COLLAR DESIGN IN BRUGES LACE.
Price of Pattern, 10 cents.

in such a manner that no break in its continuity is observable. Some of the most effective stitches in lace making are introduced in this design, including the Spinning Wheel Rosette, the Point d'Angleterre, the Sorrento Bar, the Point de Bruxelles, and the Picot Bar. The use of rings adds to the richness of the pattern.

A corsage trimming much favored this season will be the bodice support, an example of which we show in No. 607. This is made of black silk Duchesse braid, filled in with gold thread, jet and gold beads being introduced with excellent effect. This is in line with the demand for gold which prevails in trimmings of all kinds, and which is equalled only by the rage for silver, which could be substituted for gold here by using silver thread and cut steel beads instead of the gilt. These supports confine the fullness of the bodice front above the waist line, giving it a bouffant effect across the bust.

No. 597. DUCHESSE LACE DESIGN FOR DECORATING
THE ENDS OF TIES
Price of Pattern 15 cents.

A smart effect in coat revers is suggested by No. 653, in which the Russian linen braid is employed, the lace stitches being worked in gold thread. The pattern is simple, but the stitches and rings of gold give it a strikingly rich

DO YOUR EMBROIDERY WITH GENUINE MATERIAL ONLY.