

The library, however, is understaffed for the amount of work that has to be done and, until an assistant librarian is provided, a large amount of routine work must necessarily pass through the Librarian's Office. In addition to this there is a certain amount of work involved in committee work on two book clubs, the Art Association, the Museum Committee, and two American Library Association committees.