Water Level Varies Four Feet.

Chicago, May 30.—The level of Lake Michigan to-day varied as much as four fet, going from two feet below zero to two feet above. The selche was attributed by vasselmen to a sudden shift in the wind, compled with a rapid change in barometric pressure. No damage to shipping was reported.

The year unjustifiable, but also, by demonstrating the enormous increase of expense in operating his railroad, which grew by leaps and bounds every year, to prove to the commission that it was impossible to lower the existing freight rate tariff.
