The Benediction was then pronounced, and the "Last Post" and "Reveille" day, when her body, en route from Brussels to her native city of Norwich; was taken to Westminster Abbey for an impressive memorial service.

It was a public funeral, in which it seemed every resident of the great metropolis endeavored to participate. The streets through which the cortege moved were congested with crowds, and every inch of standing room in the neighborhood of the abbey was occupied by a densely massed multitude, which was eager to do reverent homage to "that brave woman," as the Bishop of London described her.

Service in Westminster Abbey.

The congregation at the abbey included high officials of the government, representatives of foreign countries, and men prominent in many walks of life. King George was represented by the Earl of Athlone, brother of Queen Mary. The service was conducted by the Dean of Westminster. No address was delivered. The opening sentences of the burial, service were sung by the choir, which then sang the 23rd Psalm, and a short lesson from the Revelations of St. John was read. Then came Sullivan's anthem, "Yea, Though I Walk Through the Valley of the Shadow of Death," and "I Heard a Voice From Heaven."

Taken to Norwich.

The Service at Norwich.

The service, which was officially designated "For the funeral of Edith Cavell, a nurse who gave her life for her countrymen," followed. As the coffin was taken into the cathedral the hymn, "Now the Laborer's Task Is O'er" was sung, which was followed by the reading of the lesson, I. Peter li, 19, by Canon Dechare, then Chopin's Funeral March. While the hymn "Brief Life Is Here Our Portion" was being sung, the procession formed for the march to the grave side, where the Benediction was pronounced, and the bugle sounded the "Last Post."
