MRS. VAUGHAN HAS GAINED 17 POUNDS

Was All Run Down After Influenza—Is Well and Happy Now.

"I have gained seventeen pounds since I started taking Tanlac, and I am very happy now," was the statement made the other day by Mrs. Vaughan, of 128 Elm street, St. John, N. B.

"I was about a year ago that I was taken down with a severe case of the influenza," she continued, "and for several days I scarcely recognized myself, and my chances of recovery looked light. But after I did manage to get up you can just imagine what a weakened condition I found myself in. I was so nervous that I would jump if anybody closed the door hard, and headaches would come on me often. My stomach was so upset that nearly everything I ate seemed to go to my head, and I could hardly retain the little I did force myself to eat. I was continually belching up an acid liquid that kept a bad taste in my mouth, and I was gradually losing weight and what little strength I had. I had neuritis badly in my head and face, and the pains felt just like nails sticking in me. I could not get much sleep or rest, for I would be awake half the night, and would feel so weak that it was hard for me to get about."

"The statements in the papers about Tanlac seemed so sincere that I made up my mind to try it. In all I took four bottles and my recovery has been so complete that I am never troubled in any way any longer. The headaches and nervousness have left me entirely, and so has the neuritis in my head and face. Everything I eat agrees with me perfectly and my appetite is so fine that my biggest trouble is trying to satisfy it. I get deep, never sleep at night, and I have been built up so wonderfully that I feel as fine and strong as I ever did before I had the flu. I consider Tanlac the best medicine in the whole world, and I am giving this statement because I want others to benefit by my experience."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

"Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets"

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

Weak, thin people—men or women—are nearly always nervous, and consequently proving that thinness, weakness, debility and neurasthenia are almost invariably due to nerve starvation. Feed your nerves and all these symptoms due to nerve starvation will disappear.

Eminent specialists state that one of the best things for the nerves is an organic phosphate known as Bitro-Phosphate, a five-grain tablet of which should be taken with each meal. Being a genuine nerve-builder and not a stimulant or habit-forming drug, Bitro-Phosphate can be safely taken by the weakest and the feeblest, and the results following its use are often simply astonishing.

By strengthening the nerves, weak, tired people regain energy and vigor; thinness and debility give way to plumpness and curves; a return to the sleepless, confident and cheerful replaces debility and gloom. Full eyes become bright and clear, and cheeks regain the pink glow of health.

CAUTION—Bitro-Phosphate, the use of which is inexpensive, also wonderfully promotes the assimilation of food, so that many people report marked gains of weight in a few weeks. Those taking it who do not desire to put on flesh should use extra care in avoiding fat-producing foods.

LLOYD GEORGE DEFENDS THE TREATY OF STRAITS

Tells of Advantages Against Disadvantages.

ALL PRECAUTIONS TAKEN
Claims Americans Safer With Turk Capital Where Allied
Guns Could Reach.

LONDON, Feb. 25.—The decision not to oust Turkey from Constantinople was reached by the Allied Supreme Council only after long deliberations of the difficulties in the Turkish situation. Premier Lloyd George declared in the House of Commons today, when the question of the future of Turkey was brought up for discussion, that the decision was a balance of advantages and disadvantages, and it was upon this balance that the Allied Supreme Council had reached its decision. He said that the council was not in a position to make a decision on the future of Turkey until it had received a report from the Turkish government on the subject. He said that the council was not in a position to make a decision on the future of Turkey until it had received a report from the Turkish government on the subject.

Referring to the agreement made at the end of the war, Mr. Lloyd George said that the agreement had been made as a result of the pressure of the situation at the time. He said that the agreement had been made as a result of the pressure of the situation at the time. He said that the agreement had been made as a result of the pressure of the situation at the time.

Not Offer to Turks.
This pledge, he explained, was not an offer to the Turks or the Germans but was made to reassure the British people and the Mohammedans of India. He pointed out that Great Britain was the greatest Mohammedan power in the world, and that a recovery of the Government's statement of its war aims there had been an increase in recruiting in India at a time when Great Britain was making a special effort to raise additional troops.

The influence which had decided the peace conference to retain the Turks in Constantinople, the premier continued, had come from India. The two peace delegates of India at Paris, neither of whom was a Mohammedan, had declared that unless the Allies retained the Turks in Constantinople, their religion would be regarded as a gross breach of faith on the part of the British Empire, the premier informed the House.

Without the aid of India, Mr. Lloyd George pointed out, Turkey could not have been conquered, and nothing could be more damaging to British prestige in Asia than the feeling that Great Britain did not keep her word. He promised, however, that when the peace terms were disclosed they would be found drastic enough to satisfy Turkey's bitterest foe.

Let us examine our legitimate and main peace aim in Turkey, the premier went on. "The first is the freedom of the Straits. The second is the freedom of all non-Turkish communities from the Ottoman army. The third is the preservation for the Turks of self-government in communities which are mainly Turkish, subject to two most important reservations."

First of Reservations.
"The first of these reservations is that there must be adequate safeguards within our power of protecting minorities that have been oppressed by the Turks. The second is that the Turk must be deprived of his power of vetoing the development of the rich lands under his rule which were once the granaries of the Mediterranean. These are the main objects of the treaty."

Mr. Lloyd George explained that the freedom of the Straits would be assured because all of Turkey's ports would be dismantled; she would have no troops within reach and would not be permitted to have any navy. The Allies would garrison the Straits. "The only alternative," he said, "was an international military government of Constantinople and all the surrounding territory, which would be very unsatisfactory and costly to the Allies."

Some of Old Feeling.
The premier said he was afraid that "unpleasant" feeling of revenge or expulsion of the Turks there was something of the old feeling of Christendom against the Crescent. "The Mohammedans believed that the terms were dictated for the purpose of lowering the prophet's flag before that of Christendom," he declared, "and it would be fatal to British coverment in the East and it was unworthy that the purpose be achieved by force."

Expressing regret that the United States had not taken a mandate, Mr. Lloyd George said: "For the moment, America must be reckoned as entirely out of any arrangement we can contemplate for the government of Turkey and the protection of Christian minorities."

Took Every Precaution.
He contended that every precaution had been taken in the treaty for the protection of Christians in the future because any decree authorizing persecution of Christians would be signed under the names of British, French and Italian envoys. The premier said he believed the Armenians would be far safer from persecution under the terms of the treaty than they were in Asia Minor, where the nearest Allied garrisons would be hundreds of miles away.

The Allied Supreme Council will take up the question of exchange tomorrow, it was announced this evening. Alexander, the Rumanian premier, and M. Bogachev, Rumanian chargé d'affaires in London, discussed with the Allied Supreme Council this evening the question of withdrawal of the Rumanian army from Hungarian territory.

DR. D. V. GANDIER, hero of Ralph Connor's book, "The Prospector," who is now lecturing on prohibition in Australia. tary of the National Union of Railwaymen, said there was a suspicion that it was not regard for Moslem feeling that was behind the present agitation, but a range of international financiers who were always harping with regard to Constantinople.

William Adamson and other Labourites did not object to the Caliphate remaining as a nominal authority, but believed that a league of control should replace the Porte.

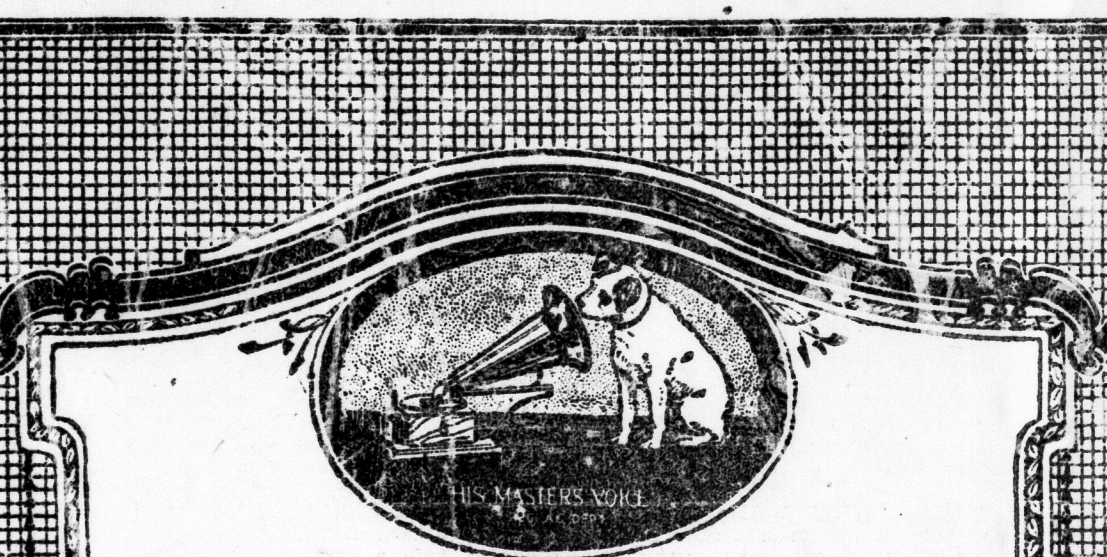

TASTY, smooth, rich, purple, tart-sweet flavor of grapes. That's Grapelade. It makes a fine spread for biscuit, bread or muffins. You'll like it as filling for pastry or jelly roll. Try it as flavor for pudding. Add a relish as sauce for meats. Anywhere with almost everything, Grapelade is always good. In glass jars and enamel-lined tins from your grocer.
