WILL TEST RIVAL ROSE CONTRACT HANGS FIRE

Battle of the Rubber Companies
Not Yet Decided—How the Aldermen Voted.

A decision to have a test of the hose of the rival companies before awarding the contract was reached by the city council yesterday afternoon after a prolonged debate on the respective virtues of the Gutta Percha and Canadian Rubber Co.'s products.

Chief Thompson, whose recommendation in favor of the more expensive kind was supported by the board of control, said that while the cost of manufacture might be the same, the Gutta Percha Co.'s hose contained more material, which would account for the varying figures of $1.68 and $1.20 a foot.

A number of communications from Boston, Winnipeg and other cities, testifying to the merits of the Gutta Percha Co.'s hose, were presented and samples of these were passed around.

Ald. Keeler made an effective argument in pointing out that, as the Gutta Percha Co. was the only company tendering which had machinery capable of producing the double woven hose favored by the chief, no object was served in inviting tenders since this firm had practically a monopoly.

Vote on Ald. Lytle's motion, to give the contract for 4000 feet of 3 1/2 inch hose to the Canadian Rubber Co. at $1.20 per foot, was as follows:

For—Ald. Bredin, Bengough, Lytle, Chisholm, Church, R. H. Graham, Saunderson, Foster, McKibbin, Church, R. H. Graham, Hales, Vaughan, J. J. Graham and Adams—9.

Ald. Foster then moved that a test be made at the School of Practical Science. A simple majority alone was required and as Ald. J. J. Graham and R. H. Graham voted with the other nine, the motion carried 11-7.

Mayor Oliver left before the vote and Ald. Keeler was paired with him.

JAPAN'S BUSINESS MORALS.
Prof. George Trumbull Ladd, who has spent much time in Japan, lecturing on education, ethics, and the philosophy of religion, in both the government universities and in several of the private universities, contributes to the July Century a summary of his observations "On the Business Morals of Japan." The article has given courses on education to thousands of teachers under the auspices of the Imperial and Provincial Educational Association, and has addressed large audiences of the Japanese people on questions of national policy and success as connected with education and public morality. His services meeting with grateful recognition, in the article for the Century he endeavors to give a just presentation of Japanese conditions, and to counteract some of the misunderstandings and hostile feelings with respect to Japan which have been manifested in parts of the United States.

THE POWER QUESTION GOES OVER FOR A WEEK

Will Be Submitted Along With St.
Railway Deal—Teachers Get Another Chance.

HAMILTON, June 22.—(Special.)—As the proposed new street railway deal will not be ready until next Monday, and as it is proposed to submit the power question to the ratepayers at the same time as the railway deal is submitted, it was decided by the council to-night to defer action on the power question until next Monday evening.

The following committee was appointed by the separate school board this evening, with full power to act with reference to building a new school on the grounds adjoining St. Ann's Church, Barton-street and Sherman-avenue: Dean Mahoney, T. Coughlin, J. Reding and H. M. Thompson. The school will cost about $18,000.

The special committee appointed by the board of education to consider the report made by Inspector Ballard on the efficiency of public school teachers decided this evening not to submit the four teachers that he classified as poor, but to give them another year. The Inspector was instructed to watch their work closely and to report to them again at the end of the year.

Gasoline Explodes.
A gasoline stove in rear of William Nash's grocery store, Cathcart and Wilson-streets, exploded and set fire to the store, doing damage to the extent of about $600.

Frank Elliott, Michigan, was sent down for a year this morning for shoplifting.

Harris Bros. New York, the financiers of the Cathcart, are in the city. The company hopes to get them to finance the Hamilton, Waterloo and Guelph Railway, so that the work of construction may be started this year.

Some of the temperance people are making objection to the sale of light beer, which contains 1.66 per cent. alcohol. There are no restrictions as to its sale, and a big trade in it is being done in local option districts. It is classed as a temperance drink, but well-posted drinkers say that they cannot distinguish between it and light beer.

TANGIER, June 22.—The members of the diplomatic corps have received a circular letter from Sultan Hafid announcing his arrival at Fez and his proclamation as sultan. He requested recognition, but the ministers have not replied to his communication, confining themselves to transmitting the document to their respective governments.

Another despatch received from Morocco, the city reports that a column of Sultan Hafid's forces has been attacked and routed by supporters of Abd-El-Kader after the bloodiest battle since the troubles began at Morocco. The defeated column lost 100 killed and 150 wounded.

MAGISTRATE DISMISSES THIS CHARGE OF PERJURY

And Complainant is Refused the Privilege of Laying Another Charge.

Because the evidence did not disclose an intent to deceive, the charge against David McGillicuddy was dismissed yesterday by Magistrate Denison in dismissing McGillicuddy.

"It must be proved that the misstatement was upon some important part of the evidence and that it affected the case," said Magistrate Denison in dismissing McGillicuddy.

The section of the statute defining perjury passed in correction of the common law doctrine that perjury was upon the witness to be false and being intended by him to mislead the court.

The case arose out of McGillicuddy's swearing that he had not been sent in to secure evidence of a breach of the Lord's Day Act against R. M. Tutthill, a Western passenger druggist, in the sale of a cigar on Sunday, May 24. The witness had made the statement, not once, but several times, and it was upon the contradictory contradiction of this statement by the constable that Magistrate Denison dismissed the case against Tutthill.

At the close of the hearing yesterday morning Mr. Tutthill sought another warrant charging perjury in another part of the evidence. He was unable to secure the warrant, but will try again.

"As a citizen," said Mr. Tutthill, "I indignantly resent the shielding of a stool pigeon by crown officers simply because his perjury has been committed while engaged in the work of creating an offence for the purpose of securing a conviction."

High court judges, Magistrate Denison, Magistrate Kingsford, Crown Attorney Corley, County Crown Attorney Drayton and Chief Inspector Archibald, who presided over the hearing, have all been busy engaged of late in denouncing perjury.

FOOLED INSURANCE AGENT.
"Is this Mr. Rockford?" said the tall insurance agent as he slipped quietly into the office.

"Yes, that's my name."

"My Rockford, tell me the Commercial Insurance Company, and—"

"I'm afraid you've come to the wrong place."

"But I understand, sir, that you own a large industry on the outskirts of the city. Am I correct?"

"Yes."

"And I hear that you carry no insurance," continued the witty agent.

"No, I don't need insur—"

"Now, as I was saying, a man with a large industry should certainly protect himself from fires. I am in a position to give you a fine rate, Mr. Rockford."

"But I don't have any fires."

"You can't tell, Mr. Rockford. No one knows what to-morrow may bring. A destructive conflagration would wipe out your immense industry and you would be penniless. Just think of it, my friend. You would be penniless. Now, by taking out a neat policy with me, you can save yourself thousands upon thousands of dollars. Your industry will be safe. All for the small amount of insurance that—"

"But I don't need insurance. I don't have any fires," persisted the proprietor.

"But your industry may be burning up right now," replied the agent triumphantly.

"Let her burn. It'll be the first time a stone quarry ever went up in flames."—From The Bohemian Magazine for July.

Musical Memories.
The charming reminiscences of Lady Randolph Churchill in The July Century will deal mainly with her memories of musical events and notable musicians in the early nineties when she visited Bayreuth, and met Siegfried Wagner, Liszt, Brahms, and many other people of musical note, and knew Wagner in his first successes. These memories, with additions to the chapters appearing in The Century, will be published in book form in the autumn.

GRANT'S LAST DAYS.
One who follows Dr. George F. Shady's memories of "General Grant's Last Days" thru the pages of The Century, will find a sympathetic and intimate acquaintance with a brave, gentle, kindly character, who proved himself true hero in his fight for life in one of the hardest battles a brave man has ever called upon to fight. The concluding chapters of these memories, in The July Century, tell the story of the last weary days at Mount McGregor.

DEAF AND DUMB IN DARK
EXPLAINS BY MIGHTLIGHT
Curious Scene in Convocation Hall
Last Evening When the Electric
Illumination Suddenly Quit.

Explanations were impossible. But the deaf-mutes did not get panicky like a normal crowd, when the lights went out last night in Convocation Hall and left the parquette filled with the bewildered but steadfast audience.

A lamp was procured, and held up while in its dim and precarious rays the finger-lings interpreted the situation. Then the men struck matches and gestulated as long as the match lasted a digital indication of the situation.

Two matches were not always enough. In the gloom of the great dome to see the transient gleams of matches, and always within the little light circle the nervous fingers, jerking and nudging their rapid messages. But there was no excitement, and no nervousness, and gradually the crowd began to move.

President George R. Reeve explained that the only business before the meeting had been the consideration of by-laws when the interruption occurred. The election of officers will be postponed.

In the morning the proceedings consisted of a conference on educational matters, and the opening of the first school for the deaf in Toronto by the late J. B. McCann. The school, directed by the late J. B. McCann, was then moved to Hamilton and finally to Belleville as the present institution there.

A photograph was done at Convocation Hall in the afternoon of the delegates, and a picnic at Highgate followed the remainder of the afternoon.

THE ADVENTURES OF A GOLD COIN
As a work of art, a miniature medallion in high relief, the St. Gaudens $20 gold coin, is extremely beautiful, but in its first stage, after less than a thousand of them had been struck off, there never was a coin since the days of Pompey and Sextus so impracticable for general circulation as this thick, unwieldy disc of gold.

Whether intentional or not a quantity of these twenty-dollar coins got lost in the British Museum. All our on the quiver for a sensation and a chance to turn it into profit, promptly sent the premium-ward with a story that in making the Roosevelt-St. Gaudens' double-eagles thirty dollars' worth of gold had been run into the United States Treasury officials the story that the foot of the workman who had slipped at the critical moment of casting, making him pour an excess of the precious metal.

The story ran down the street and agitated the curb market in a way that was strange to see. From twenty-two to twenty-eight to thirty dollars the latest gold piece was being raised. The double eagles soared. Coin collectors, too, bought up hundreds of the new pieces and to-day the original issue is about as scarce as the silver dollar of 1836, known as the Gobrecht piece, which now brings a standard premium of fifteen dollars. That the St. Gaudens coin could not be struck up in piles by cashiers and pay-tellers; that it lacked flat edges and was not milled, but inscribed with raised letters around the rim; that it was heavier than any of our other gold coins, was certainly not the fault of the noted American sculptor who designed it.

The next issue of this much-discussed double eagle will doubtless be more carefully and properly made. It will stack as easily as it will spend, and we shall then have at least one coin of the realm that will place itself in good stead. The thousands who have written to President Roosevelt urging him to put an end to the further coinage of the latest gold piece, will at least restore the phrase, "In God We Trust," do not know that the president has no power now to abandon the new design even though he should strongly desire to do so. Once a coin has been approved and its issuance ordered, it cannot be changed for a period of twenty-five years except by a special act of congress. This is the state of things to-day. The St. Gaudens coin will continue in circulation for the next quarter century unless congress orders the use of other designs. The coin of the realm was by Perriton Maxwell, in The Bohemian Magazine for July.

"THE IDEAL LIBRARIAN."
Editor World: In your editorial of the 17th inst., under the above heading, you say: "A man who not only knows books and the methods of good librarianship, but who has also the sense of book values announced in catalogues, and seizes every opportunity to buy wisely and well—such a man is the ideal librarian."

There are but very few who have these qualifications, yet such men are to be found in Canada.

Yes, Mr. Editor, I fully agree with the latter part of the above quotation, as I believe that I am one of these "ideal librarians." I may say that when I was assistant legislative librarian, under Sir O. Mowat, that I had the selection of books treating on all subjects, from fiction up to the highest literature, and also know how, where and when to purchase, with advantage, both in the old country, Canada and the United States. I can also tell the monetary and reading value of any book before its purchase. I am a lover of books. Was also formerly posted in the selection and purchasing of books by my brother, the late S. J. Watson, who was chief legislative librarian. The books selected by me for the parliamentary library were approved of by the attorney-general, and also by the Speaker of the day, the selection and purchasing of thousands of
