IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS

It is Believed Upward Move- ment Will Continue, Says
Toronto Globe.

(Toronto Globe.)
Business is feeling its way, with more or less hesitation. On the whole the improvement of previous weeks has been maintained. The upward movement will continue with occasional set-backs. It is extremely questionable, however, whether the acceleration of industry during the winter months will be enough to compensate for the stopping of outdoor work. An effort is being made by industrial executives throughout the entire province to keep labor employed as fully as possible. Their utmost feeling in this connection, under the most favorable conditions that can arise during the coming months, will leave much to be desired in the way of employment. It is obvious, therefore, that municipal and government officials must do much to meet the conditions of the coming months in industrial centres.
Both retail and wholesale business is improving gradually from week to week. Merchants are awaiting the coming of brisk weather to stimulate fall buying. The expected drop in temperature has been slow in coming, and as a consequence consumers have been tardy in outfitting themselves. The fur trade reports, however, that business has been unusually good. There is a feeling abroad that the price reductions of last season were overdone and that values will hold firm, with possibly some advances before the coming season is over. The prices at the recent auctions in Montreal and New York were particularly strong on the better varieties of fur. Some observers have predicted a decline from the present high points, but in general the retail prices of furs and fur garments will not be affected by minor fluctuations in the primary market. Some of the manufacturing the retail fur houses claim that September business is remarkably good, indicating that the prospects for the entire season are promising.

Current consumption is depleting the accumulated stocks of goods in retail hands. Representative retailers report that their volume of turnover is equal to or greater than the same period last year. Merchants have in general pre-empted the policy of buying from hand to mouth owing to the uncertainty they entertain of the future course of prices. There is no longer the same amount of nervousness about decline of prices. Notably the former prices on cotton goods has added to retailers' confidence in the stability of prices. There is, however, a scarcity of orders placed with primary and intermediate producers for fall and winter. Some manufacturers have shown sufficient faith in the business of the next few months to go ahead producing the goods that they will be required when the retailer is actually faced with the new season's business. It is estimated that a good fall and winter trade will to a large extent correct the reluctance of distributors to order a normal quantity of goods. Confidence in the stability of things is being built up gradually and optimism in the market is hastening the process.

ADVANCED PRICES FOR COTTON GOODS

U. S. Manufacturers Mark
Print Prices 15 to 20 per cent. Up.

Dun's bulletin says a Montreal trade: Dry goods travelers are doing fairly well with fall goods, but not little disposition on the part of customers to undertake any commitments for spring lines as yet. Mills working on domestic woollens report good business as a rule. New quotations on a higher basis are looked for from cotton spinning companies early next month, and advices are to hand of an advance of from 15 to 20 per cent. by some American manufac-

You could very easily have done this, and a balance of more than $1,400 might have been worth much to you today. It would have enabled you to avail yourself of some of the many opportunities presenting themselves, but for which a little capital is necessary.
