GREAT HAVOC AS THE GERMANS MAKE BRIDGES

French Airmen Bomb Them As They Straddle Marne

ALLIES VIE WITH EACH OTHER

French, Americans and Italians Fight Side by Side—American Counter-Attack a Brilliant Operation, Driving Enemy Back

On the French Front in France, Monday, July 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—The impression of the results of the first day's battle in the new German offensive on the French front is very good. Nowhere along the stretch of many miles did the enemy succeed in penetrating beyond the first line of defense. The French, although orders found on German prisoners announced that the first day should take them twenty kilometers from the front line of departure. On the battle front east of Rheims the enemy did not even get beyond the advance line, the invincible resistance of the French troops preventing him from attaining the main combat line. With the French on the section west of Rheims fought Americans and Italian troops, both of whom vied with the other allies in the earnestness and courage. It was a brilliant operation in which the American troops ejected the enemy from the positions he had gained temporarily on the southern side of the Marne. The Americans counter-attacked vigorously this evening with remarkable dash, throwing the Germans back across the river near Fossy. Earlier in the day this part of the line had been the scene of the most desperate fighting, when the Germans started to throw pontoons across the stream. The German engineers began to lay the bridges. Six of these bridges formed a lattice work and rapidly joined the banks on either side. Two of the bridges were most substantial structures and between twenty and thirty feet in width. "French" airmen played great havoc in the German ranks while the bridges were under construction. One bombing machine, flying at a height of 200 metres, dropped bombs on two of these bridges while enemy troops were crossing them. The bridges were broken and the soldiers thrown in the river. The aviators constantly bombed the other bridges and did great execution among the Germans on the bridges as well as on the banks where the Germans concentrated in great masses. When the Germans had crossed the river the fighting, which was already heavy, became terrific. The French and Americans, holding the southern side, fell back on to their principal combat positions. They fought all the way and counter-attacked occasionally, creating confusion in the ranks of the advancing foe. Then late in the evening, the Americans started a dashing counter-attack which resulted in the Germans retiring pell-mell to the river.

CADET IN ONTARIO.
Toronto, July 16.—Following what his comrades considered unbecomingly conduct towards one of the young lady stenographers at Hayden House Barracks, R. A. F., a young cadet was seized and stripped of his clothing, his hands tied behind his back and carried into the yard. The culprit appealed in vain for quarter. "We'll teach you to insult our girls," shouted one of the airmen, and despite his struggles, he was covered with what the men call "dope" and feathered. He was admonished that a repetition of the offence would lead to more serious punishment.

American Aviators Killed.

Something About It!

The story is of the race track and the intrigue revolving around a famous race horse named "The Whip." This intrigue involves an impetuous "gentleman" and his adventures partner, a handsome young man in love with the charming daughter of the horse-loving judge who owns "The Whip," the jockey who rides and idolizes the horse, and the unsophisticated and pretty sister of the jockey.

Big race scenes, wonderful hunting scenes, the best train wreck and the most thrilling automobile accident ever seen in pictures, startling scenes in the old Eden Musee, filled with wax figures—all these combined with a powerful and attention-grabbing story, make this the world's biggest screen play.

AUSTRIA'S WOES MULTIPLY WITH MILITARY DISASTER

Her Conglomerate Population a Fruitful Soil for Revolt—Belligerent Czechs-Slovaks Hope of Entente Allies

(Toronto Globe.)
Emperor Charles' complete failure to gain anything even approaching a decision over the Italians along the Piave River affords another proof of the notable fact that not once since this war began has Austria been able to withstand the armies of Italy single-handed. Always superior numerically, Germany's ally for several seasons could never endure a sustained stand-up fight against the soldiers of Cadorna, and lately France and the United States have sent aid to Italy, but the Italian forces have been bearing the brunt of the Teutonic onslaught.

Of the many causes for this latest manifestation of Austria's weakness, are multiplying, and control is steadily slipping from the hands of the Hapsburgs' deputies. The spirit of revolt is spreading to the remote districts of the Dual Empire, and to the troops fighting with wanton desperation along the Piave, because they are promised food if they can only hold body and soul together until they have forced Italy to capitulate or surrender more of her stores or until they are captured.

A Conglomerate Empire.
The domains of Emperor Charles are about as fertile for disaffection. Racially Austria-Hungary is probably the most conglomerate power in Europe. The present war began this very multi-racial condition was the empire's strength. None of the various peoples certain numerical or military strength to have any hope of success in a revolt, or sufficient racial solidarity to be galvanized into an uprising by whatever provocation. But now there is the provocation and the opportunity. There is the extra-national tyranny emanating from Berlin and all the vicious fruits of a selfish monarchical alliance, including famine and the defeat of Austria's half-fed and scantily clad soldiers. This military failure, this food scarcity and the persistent refusal to grant the people more political power are the hope of the Entente Allies, for there are in the Dual Empire peoples who need the slightest provocation, the slightest domestic opportunity, the slightest foreign encouragement to rise and overthrow the Hapsburg lords of misrule and make further alliance with Germany impossible.

One-Fifth of Population.
Of these races the Czechs Slovaks represent perhaps the largest potential trouble for the imperial government. Of the 5,000,000 people in Austria-Hungary the Czechs Slovaks number 10,000,000, and occupy Bohemia, Moravia, Austrian Silesia and the northern part of Hungary.

The Czech-Slovak nation has been the most bitter, persistent, and successful enemy of the Germans and Austrians among the small nationalities. Its representatives, it has been pointed out, have been the most ardent and again declared that they will accept nothing but absolute independence and complete union of their nation, now divided between Austria and Hungary. Hundreds of thousands of their soldiers, many of them troops of the Austrian army who had gone over by regiments to the other side, fought for Russia during three years; and the survivors of this army, numbering more than 50,000,

THE BELGIAN A GREAT PICTURE

The Unique Shows a Wonderful Feature—Two More Days
It is said that a hundred critics in a dozen of the largest cities have proclaimed "The Belgian," which was shown at the Unique last evening, one of the best features yet produced and certainly few of those who saw it at the Unique last evening will dispute this statement. The cast including Walker Whiteside and Valentine Grant, is an all star one and the direction of Mr. Wolcott all that could possibly be desired. It is not a war picture, although referring to the troubles and history of Belgium before and after the outbreak of war. It is a gripping human story, well told and splendidly acted. The story is easily followed, and can be appreciated even by the school child.

The Belgian will be shown today and Wednesday, and should attract large audiences. The price of admission for the evening only was raised very slightly to allow for a portion of the additional expense in procuring the splendid feature, and doubtless none would gainsay the fairness of the management in this respect.

JOHN WANAMAKER IS 80
(Special to The New York Times.)
John Wanamaker observed his eightieth birthday at his estate, Lindenhurst, Jenkintown, Pa., on July 11. He received numerous messages of congratulation from all parts of the country. A delegation of department store chiefs sent to him a gold plaque bearing a portrait of Marshal Joffre and the famous words on the eve of the battle of the Marne. Mr. Wanamaker is a warm admirer of the great French general.

Joe Welsh, Comedian, Dead.
Bridgeport, Conn., July 16.—Joe Welsh, forty-five, one of the best known Jewish comedians on the American stage, died here yesterday. He was walking around the ward of the hospital when stricken with a fainting spell and died in five minutes. He had been in the hospital about a month to recover his mental poise and during the early period at the sanitarium showed signs of improvement but of late suffered several relapses.

St. Louis Finances.
St. Louis, July 16.—The $80,000 indebtedness of the St. Louis Nationals was raised at a meeting of stockholders of the club yesterday afternoon. The stockholders had until midnight to raise $44,000 as $16,000 had previously been pledged. Mrs. Helen H. Britton, former owner of the team will receive $40,000 of the amount as part payment for the club that was purchased for $350,000. She had previously been paid $155,000 of the amount.

A patrolman was dragged a block and a half down Fifth avenue, New York, by a runaway ice wagon team.

LOCAL NEWS

A motor-car owned by Mark Ellis of Mace's Bay, was destroyed by fire near South Bay.
At a meeting of the building committee of the board of school trustees last evening, it was decided to change the grades in the furnaces in most of the schools to permit of soft coal being used next winter.

TAKES CHARGE OF CREMONAPHONE SALES.
R. Chip. Golding, on July 1, resigned as manager New Edition division W. H. Thorne & Co., Ltd., to accept a position with Amherst Piano Co., Amherst. Mr. Golding will represent the above company's phonograph interests, and will devote his time exclusively to the selling of the Cremonaphone.

The Cremonaphone is an entirely new type of phonograph having exclusive features of sound reproduction, which add greatly to the quality of music produced by standard talking machines, compared with other phonographs on the market. Considering its high tone quality and the fact that it is made in Canada by Canadians a great future is predicted for its success. Mr. Golding, who has just returned from a business trip to New York and Boston says that the present factory output of 100 instruments per day is insufficient to meet the demand, and the company is now on the point of enlarging their plant at Amherst.
