Government, As Feared, Seeks To Limit The Scope of The Inquiry

Amendment By Mr. Stewart Is Rejected

HOUSE STILL IN SESSION

As Finally Adopted Bill Slightly Enlarges Scope of Inquiry—What North Shore Member Proposed and What Actually Was Passed

Frederickton, April 18.—When the house took up the Royal Commission bill today Mr. Stewart of Northumberland declared there must be a thorough investigation. He said the point that there was one section of the bill relating to the charges regarding timber limits which, if literally interpreted, meant, as he read it, that if the commission found that Hon. J. K. Fleming had not directed the alleged extortion of money from the limit holders then the whole inquiry would fall to the ground.

The people wanted all the facts brought out so that no guilty man would escape. Mr. Stewart then moved— "Strike out the words 'And if he is found guilty' and insert the words 'And if he is found not guilty' and if the said words were so collected through the agency of the said William H. Berry then also find what disposition said William H. Berry did make thereof."

MONEY LIES FORGOTTEN IN LOCAL BANK

In every bank, for one reason or another, unclaimed balances are constantly accumulating in the deposit accounts. In some cases the depositor has died and his heirs are unaware of the account at the bank; sometimes the depositor moves from the city and neglects to clear up the account before he leaves; in other cases a small balance is neglected until it is forgotten.

While the banks have the use of this money in most cases the unclaimed balances are so small that the cost of book-keeping more than balances the advantage and the banks usually make an effort to keep their books clear of such stray accounts. An account is not classified as "unclaimed" until five years have passed since the last transaction and at
