

WORLD'S DEBT TO CANADA

A Wonderful Achievement—Discovery of "Fruit-a-tives" Has Meant Health for All.

Canada's farm does not rest solely on her furs and wheat fields. Her rise in the esteem of the world is not due to her Cobalt mines. It is the work of her great men that has made her great. A graduate of McGill University has won lasting renown for his original researches in the realm of Hygiene.

Everyone knows that fruit, whole, when eaten judiciously, is generally recognized as a beneficial food. It is a fact that fruit juices have a beneficial effect on the various organs of the body.

"Fruit-a-tives" is this combination of fruit juices and tonics. Since its introduction to the public, "Fruit-a-tives" has met with a success accorded to no other medicine in the world.

Then with deliberation she told how she had spent the summer at the seacoast in Italy—Rimini for the most part—trying to add the English to her repertoire of many languages.

Miss Trentini did not know until she was told that the name of the opera for which Victor Herbert has written the music and Mrs. Rida Johnson Young the libretto was "Naughty Marietta," but she knew the story, and, of course, she expected to see so fast!

Paul Casanova, another old-timer here, is beginning an American and Canadian tour in Don Caesar. He was in New Orleans last week.

After a brief tour in "The Mikado," Mrs. Scheff will return to New York, and about Christmas time will be seen in the new musical version of "Tribby."

Eliza Mason, who will be recalled here for her splendid work as character woman for the Baker Stock Co., a few years ago, is now playing in Chicago in The Girl in Waiting. The company will play New York later.

Daniel Ryan is playing in Massachusetts in The Black Fox. He was in Lowell this week, after having run for forty-two miles.

Mrs. Eleanor Lane Bainbridge Bell, widow of Charles J. Bainbridge Bell, the actor, who died under mysterious circumstances on April 13 leaving a note in which he said he had been "a failure," has died in the St. George's hospital in New York that she will try to break his will.

The will, disposing of an estate worth $100,000 leaves the bulk of the property to Alice Butler, an actress, with whom Mrs. Bell had been living and was very friendly. The testament, Mrs. Bell charges is not the last will, is improperly executed and does not represent the free will of the decedent.

The Merry Widow will close in Boston this week, after having run for forty-two nights. Tom Wise will follow this show at the Majestic.

Edouard Durand will be a member of Joseph Weber's company in Alma, Where Do You Live?

A slight change has been made in the plans for the tour of Paul Gilmore this season. It is now stated officially that he will head a company playing The Lottery Man, on southwestern time. His tour in The Wolf is to be closed at once, and rehearsals begun for the new show.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

CHATTY NEWS OF THE GREEN ROOM

Petite and sprightly Miss Emma Trentini, formerly of the Manhattan Opera House, who is now to be Oscar Hammerstein's stellar attraction in a new comic opera, has just arrived from Europe.

MISS TRENTINI

Four companies will be put on the road with this production. Oscar Hammerstein declared this week when he heard the first complete rehearsal of the new comic opera "Hans the Flute Player," at the Manhattan Opera House, New York, that he would have it in thorough shape for the opening Monday night.

Maclay Arbuckle opened his season in New York Monday at the Bijou Theatre in a new play called "Welcome to Our City." It is a farce which was written and acted from the German by George V. Hobart. Arbuckle is a laughmaker and the fact that he had plenty to do in the piece makes it plain that there was considerable fun created.

It is rumored in New York that Wm. Brady is planning to organize a big permanent stock company, in which several famous players will be given parts. Among those of local interest is Florence Roberts, wife of Lewis M. Morrison, now appearing in the all-star revival of Jim the Penman.

Maude Fealy has just returned to New York after a long rest among the pines at Jackson's Point, Ontario, quite well and strong again, and ready for active work. Though of tender years she has had more experience in her work than most women twice her age.

Seven Days passed its 320th performance at the Astor theatre, New York. Several local actors are seen in the production among them T. D. Frawley and Gwen Hiers.

Rev. Mrs. Dudley C. Foster and Mr. Foster have left a $120,000 Chicago parish to join a western company in A Stubborn Cinderella. The minister is variously a college president and a red Indian as the play demands, while his wife is the pony ballet. Mr. Foster surmises that people will not understand or sympathize with his lapse from grace.

The Merry Widow has kept on to undiminished success at the Majestic in Boston. More realism than ever is given at the scene at Maxima's in the last act, and the musical features of the comic opera are looked after in the careful fashion that Henry W. Savage insisted upon. The company is the same as played here with an addition of a few members to the chorus.

The present week marks the return of Frank Daniels to the Boston stage after two years of absence and at the Shubert appears in The Belle of Brittany, which has been given elsewhere, but not here. Since his last Boston engagement Mr. Daniels has transferred himself to the Shubert administration and this is his first appearance there under the new regime.

FAMOUS GEMS OF PROSE

UNIVERSAL RELIGIOUS LIBERTY

By Daniel O'Connell

Can anything be more absurd and untenable than the argument of the learned gentleman, when you see it stripped of the false coloring he has given it? First he alleges that the Catholics are attached to their religion with a bigoted zeal. I admit the zeal, but I utterly deny the bigotry.

But the fact does not bear him out; for we do not seek nor desire, nor would we accept of, any kind of interference with the Protestant church. We disclaim and disavow any kind of control over it. We ask not, nor would we allow, any Catholic authority over the mode of appointment of their clergy.

A suit to recover $5,000 has been instituted against Lillian Russell by William Fitzgerald, the possessor of the Hope jewel, which included as the gem of the collection the wonderful Hope blue diamond.

May Yoh's stage career is at an end. Every cent of her money is gone. She fled from the possessor of the Hope jewel, which included as the gem of the collection the wonderful Hope blue diamond.

Done with Lord Francis Hope, she married the son of one of New York's proudest families, Putnam Bradley Strong, whose father was the mayor of the city. That was the climax. Thereafter the circle of her destiny swung downward.

And at last, in a cheap cafe of the west side of the city, she was skipping from one to another of the four contralto notes, now coarsened and raspy, which suddenly her mouth slipped from her control, twisted to one side of her face, and the last of the four contralto notes became a groan as she fell to the stage.

Editors will be written, the clergy and those opposed to the stage will see in May Yoh's life there is a sterling one, too—the lesson of life that follows the misguided footsteps anywhere and always in any walk. There will be some to profit by May Yoh's experience, others will read of this, make an impulsive resolve and promptly forget it when the music tangles and the white lights flood mid-night. There will be other May Yoh's and more's the pity.

Had Date to Kill Man. As Detective Joseph Guarneri of the New York Italian detective squad boarded a Third Avenue elevated train at Fifty-ninth street the other morning he saw an Italian who appeared excited.

"What's the matter, countryman?" asked Guarneri. "I am worried," replied the man. "I am going to kill a man."

"When?" "Sometime this morning."

"In Brooklyn, I'm going there now." "Why are you going to kill him?" "The man urged his shoulders."

"How are you going to kill him—put a knife in him?" asked the detective. "No, I'm going to shoot him."

Guarneri lurched forward as though by accident. His hand felt a big revolver in his countryman's hip pocket.

"I'm a detective," said Guarneri. "You are under arrest."

"Very well, I have no quarrel with you."

Guarneri took his man to the Yorkville court, where the prisoner said he was Francesco Longhiano of 130 Cherry street. Magistrate Murphy held him in $500 for trial charged with carrying a revolver.

BABY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Hands Tied to Prevent Scratching. Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, But Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says: "My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so serious that at last I was forced to resort to a doctor. The first time we feared her ears would be cut off by the disease."

"I had seen in the paper an advertisement for Zam-Buk. I had had five doctors, but none of them did any permanent good."

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say, Zam-Buk had effected a complete cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 39 Guise street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praise. She says: "Zam-Buk cured my boy of boils and eruptions when he was so bad that he had been unable to mix with other children. Zam-Buk is a wonderful preparation, and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, itches, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse imitations.
