Moreover the people can force them to put in effect any ordinance, even if it be one to which they are personally opposed. Nor can they put in effect any ordinance appropriating money or making any contract until it has been filed for one week for public inspection. They cannot dispose of any franchise without a vote of the people. In short, the system is thoroughly democratic, and the rights of the people safeguarded at every turn.

twenty-five electors may be a candidate in the primary election for mayor and four commissioners. In one American city there were over forty candidates at one primary election. This surely gave every man a chance. But grief brings often laughter,
And love, ah, love brings tears!
And both leave ever after
Their blessings on the years;
So I, dear heart, would sue for you,
A mingling of the two for you
That grief may lend its calm to you—
And love may send its balm to you—
For grief brings often laughter
And love brings often tears.
