AIRPLANE HOP TO SOUTH POLE PLANNED TO START IN OCTOBER

ANTON PAULY GIVES DETAILS OF THE TRIP

Austrian Engineer Now Carefully Organizing Expedition

NO TIME LIMIT

Believes Antarctic Pole to be on Plateau 10,000 Feet in Height

By NELSON J. RILEY.
BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 8.—Organization of a new South Pole air expedition, to be initiated next October, has been announced here by Anton Pauly, Austrian engineer and explorer, whose intention it is to conduct the first airplane trip to the bottom of the earth.
Pauly plans to start from Buenos Ayres in a sailing ship near the end of October in order to make the coast of Graham Land about the middle of November. According to plans, the ship will land the expedition on Wandel Island at 85 degrees south latitude, where the primary base of operations will be established.
The next step will be the establishment of another base 10 degrees farther south. Eight trips by airplane are calculated to be sufficient to transfer food and fuel supplies to this point, which will be 800 miles nearer the Pole. Following the establishment of this last base the party will digress temporarily from its prime goal to make explorations in the Weddell Sea and to Chart Land.

FINAL PREPARATIONS.

Following these explorations a final preparatory move will be made to a point at 85 degrees south latitude, 600 miles nearer the Pole than the previous base. This point is calculated to have

Social Notes of Interest

Miss Margaret Henderson entertained delightfully at dinner at the Riverside Country Club on Saturday evening. Covers were laid for thirty. A profusion of pink and cream roses arranged in silver bowls, adorned the table, and dainty cards and favors marked the places of the guests. Mr. and Mrs. Peniston Starr chaperoned the party which included Miss Ruth Robinson, Miss Constance White, Miss Viola McAvity, Miss Margaret Tilley, Miss Eleanor Angus, Miss Jean Angus, Miss Elizabeth Armstrong, Miss Florence Puddington, Miss Ruth Starr, Miss Constance Starr, Miss Margaret Page, Miss Helen Holmes, Toronto, Miss Frances Gilbert, Mr. Dick Starr, an altitude of 6,000 feet above sea level, and from here the fliers will make their dash to the South Pole, a flight of 600 miles.

According to Pauly's statement the Pole is a plateau 10,000 feet high. He states: "We will stop at the Pole long enough to make necessary observations and to try to find messages left there by Captain Scott in 1922. We shall then continue the flight to Wales Bay, where we hope to find the deposit left by Amundsen. This distance is about 600 miles, making the whole flight from our 85 degree base nearly 1,300 miles."

In the actual flight across the polar region Pauly plans to carry two passengers beside himself, a pilot, observer and mechanic. Two months' food supplies and equipment for a sledge expedition to be used in case of accident to plane will complete the cargo carried on the flight.

NO TIME LIMIT.

No time limit has been set for the expedition, which is expected to end at Melbourne, Australia. Pauly is confident of his success and is laying careful plans to insure against mistakes in preparation. He has long been associated in ventures of exploration and research.

Pauly is the author of several volumes on geographic conditions in little known parts of South America and has long since established himself as a leading mining engineer in Chilean and Bolivian fields.

son, Mr. Stuart White, Mr. Macgregor Grant, Mr. Hugh Turnbull, Mr. Simon Jones, Jr., Mr. Arnold McAlpin, Mr. Phillip Halliday, Mr. P. Coombs, Mr. George Ramsay, Mr. Leonard Tilley, Mr. Donald Schofield, and Mr. Maurice Blanchet. The guests afterwards enjoyed the weekly dinner dance at the club house.

Mrs. William Fugley gave a delightfully enjoyable dinner at her residence, "Birchholme," Rothsay, on Saturday evening in honor of Miss Daisie McIntyre, granddaughter of Mrs. Dupes, both of whom are her guests. Dinner was served on the spacious verandah at two artistically arranged tables, which had for decoration hollyhock buttons and yellow and orange poppies. Attractive cards and favors were at each guest's place. Covers were laid for sixteen, and the young people afterwards enjoyed the dance at the Riverside Country Club. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Fugley's hospitality were Miss Daisie McIntyre, Miss Frances Bladip, Miss Lois Fairweather, Miss Frances Frith, Miss Catherine Mullin, Miss Frances Robinson, Miss Elsie Gilbert, Miss Margaret Skinner, Mr. Thomas McAvity, Jr., Mr. James McAvity, Mr. Morris Robinson, Mr. Geoffrey Jones, Mr. David Schofield, Mr. George Schofield, Mr. James L. McAvity, Jr., and Mr. Walter Foster, Jr.

The regular weekly dinner dance was held at the Riverside Country Club on Saturday evening and was largely attended. A six-piece orchestra provided excellent music for the program of dances. Among the many present were Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Bayley, Mr. and Mrs. Cortlandt Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. E. Angvine, Mr. and Mrs. James McMurray, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Henderson, Dr. and Mrs. L. de V. Chipman, and Mrs. J. D. Maher, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Anglin, Mr. and Mrs. Peniston Starr, Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. Stockwell Day, Mrs. Charles McPherson, Mrs. H. Atwater Smith, Miss Edith Schofield, Margaret Henderson, Miss Horne Maher, Miss Kathleen Coster, Miss Beryl Mullin, Miss Helen Holmes, Miss Elizabeth Armstrong, Miss Rachel Armstrong, Miss Constance White, Miss Ruth Robinson, Miss Margaret Skinner, Miss Margaret Tilley, Miss Eleanor Angus, Miss Florence Puddington, Miss Jean Angus, Miss Ruth Starr, Miss Constance Starr, Miss Frances Bladip, Miss Daisie McIntyre, Miss Lois Fairweather, Miss Frances Frith, Miss Catherine Mullin, Miss Frances Robinson, Miss Elsie Gilbert, Mr. Thomas McAvity, Jr., Mr. James McAvity, Mr. Morris Robinson, Mr. Geoffrey Jones, Mr. David Schofield, Mr. George Schofield, Mr. James L. McAvity, Jr., and Mr. Walter Foster, Jr.

Mrs. T. McAvity Stewart, Montreal, was the hostess at a very enjoyable tea at her summer residence, Rothsay, on Friday afternoon. The guests included Mrs. Percy D. McAvity, Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. H. Atwater Smith, Mrs. G. H. McCallum, Ottawa, Mrs. Clifford McAvity, Mrs. Wallace Alward, Mrs. Frank Fairweather, Mrs. Horace Porter and Miss Mignon Rolio Kerr.

The weekly tennis tea was held at Rothsay on Saturday, and was attended by a large number of members and visitors. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. John W. McKean, Mrs. Peniston Starr, Miss Florence Puddington, and Miss K. Blanchet. Among those present were Mrs. H. F. Puddington, Mrs. Malcolm Mackay, Jr., Mrs. G. Heber Vroom, Mrs. Frank Fairweather, Mrs. James L. McAvity, Mrs. Walter Gilbert, Mrs. Rupert Turnbull, Mrs. Green (Montreal), Mrs. H. C. Schofield, Mrs. Lawrence McLaren, Mrs. H. W. Ends the pain in one minute Corns

COMMON sense has taught, and experience has proved to millions of sensible people, that any corn remedy that does not stop the cause—friction and pressure of shoes—can never effect a cure.

Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, internationally famous Foot Specialist, has perfected this, medicated, antiseptic, protective pad that has revolutionized the treatment of corns. These pads are called Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads.

The pain ends the moment you apply one to a corn. The soothing medication in Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads does this, and at the same time heals the deeper tissues, removing all soreness. Then the real healing starts, because the cause—rubbing and pressure of the shoe—has been removed.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are made in three sizes for Corns, Calluses and Bunions. At all drug and shoe stores. Mail coupon below for free sample.
