One of the first danger signals that ananounce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or as "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visable pulsations of the straying. the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried dector's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely oured and would secommend them to all similarly affected."

ANNAPOLIS, N. S., June 28.—What might have proved to be a very serious fire occurred here this morning and it was only due to the prompt action of the Annapolis fire brigade that a more serious conflagration was averted. In some unknown manner the house occupied by William H. Weldon caught fire, and when the firemen arrived on the scene the roof of the back part of the house was a mass of flames, and owing to the extremely dry condition of the roof was spreading rapidly. The origin of the blaze is a mystery as it is said that there was no fire in as it is said that there was no fire in the house at the time. The damage which is not known is covered by in-

The would be ready to sall with flag unsuffice on the left port, ostensibly to test the sails and find the best trim of the ship, but really to attack every British vessel he could find in American waters. He created terror among the privateersmen before he went on his mission to France, and before starting on the remarkable and daring voyage sent the following message to Congress:

Twill spread the nawa of Bush.

'I will spread the news of Burgoyne's surrender throughout France in thirty days.'"

goyne's surrender throughout France in thirty days.""

He kept his word notwithstanding bad weather. The Ranger was a marvel of speed, carrying the new flag successfully through tempest and great billows. Lieutenant Hall wrote that the battle song of the Ranger was entitled "Carry the News to London."

Then came the French alliance and the Ranger's capture of the Drake, which was the first great battle in which the Stars and Stripes figured in fourteen waters.

The log, or "logg," as it appears in the book in the possession of Mrs. Jewell, was acquired in a curious way. It was in a collection for sale at a Cornhill book store, and nobody in Boston recognized it. Mr. Jewell, who was one of the ablest lawyers in Northern New Hampshire, had a veritable mania for historical research. Whenever business required a visit to Boston he never failed to examine every old collection he could find in the book stores. One day while rummaging on Cornhill his quick eye lighted on a bound volume of manuscript, the first page of which was headed with an unattractive title. He looked for a date and was quickly impressed with the real value of the manuscript. He purchased the manuscript for fifty cents, and today it is worth several thousand dollars.
