The capacity of the temporary hamber will be taxed to its utmost to odate the increased member hip of the new house. In recent sea sions when there was a large attend-ance for divisions, the majority of the ance for divisions, the majority of the seats were occupied, although the membership of the house was reduced by vacancies. There will be a consid-able overflow of government members on the opposition side and it is not im-probable that many of the Liberal Unionists will choose this group of seats.

Major Bowie, the recently appointed sergeant-at-arms of the house, will not be here for the opening on Monday, and probable of home on Monday, and will arrive at the capital some time next week. Capitain Charles Panet will be acting sergeant-at-arms until he returns. Nothing has yet been definitely decided as to the appointment of a deputy sergeant-at-arms.

New Deputy Speaker

The choice of a new deputy Speaker and chairman of committees still remains an unsolved problem for the government because of the fact that Dr. Chabot, member for Ottawa, and the only French-speaking member suptiments, continues to something of a similar nature. and chairman of committees still remains an unsolved problem for the Dr. Chabot, member for Ottawa, and the only French-speaking member supting the government, continues to deathe to accept the post because it would interfere too much with his personal duties. An agreement with the opposition for the appointment of a French Liberal appears to be the only solution of the difficulty. Such an arrangement will probably be reached when the members arrive next week, The election of a deputy Speaker is made by the house on the nomination of the prime minister after the conclusion of the speach from the throne. Three names mentioned for the post are those of Hon. Charles Marcel, explain the manner of the speaker of the house, Mr. George Botty, member for Missisquoi, and Mr. Ernest Pacaud, member for Megantic.

War Cabinet's History for 1917 Issued as Historical Record.

London, March 13.—(Via Reuter's Agency).—The war cabinet's history for 1917, which was issued today forms a most interesting and highly important historical record, and also shows the tremendous powers of the achievement. The government emphasizes that the whole character of the war has gradually changed since last year, involving the complete transformation of the British admiration and organization.

Regarding the submarine warfare the document frankly admits that fif the enemy had been able to maintain the rate of sinkings reached in February of last year, the military operations of the allies would have been largely paralyzed. The navy, however, triumphed. The document contains much data of an important sort.
