

Unless the owner of the fruit otherwise signifies at the time of storage, the season rate will be charged for all goods stored. The season rate will not apply in any case if goods are entered under the monthly rate.

IN CONCLUSION.

The purpose of those in charge of the Grimsby Cold Storage is not merely the refrigeration or cooling of fruit. It is rather the finding out of any means that will help the grower to place his fruit on the market in such a good condition that he will be enabled to sell more and get better returns for it. We believe the proper application of refrigeration to be one of the chief factors in doing this, but not the only one. Proper methods in grading, picking, packing and handling are even more important. The investigators employed at the Grimsby plant have had a wide horticultural experience, including box packing and wrapping, as well as the harvesting and shipping of fruit. As far as their experimental duties will permit, they are at the service of the fruit growers of the Niagara and other districts to instruct in and to demonstrate the best methods of packing and handling fruit.
