Mr. Wallace was born in Scotland, but came to Canada as a mere lad, and has been associated with seafaring people all his life, his father being a well-known cap tain of the Allan Line. Just before Christmas, Mr Wallace published his first novel, "Blue Water: A Tale of Deep Sea Fishing," which attracted wide and favorable comment. His latest cruise off the Nova Scotian coast was taken with the object of securing more copy for his publication, and a new book, which he has in course of preparation. During his trip he encountered one of the worst blizzards in the histor; of the North Atlantic,
