THE ALIEN LABOR LAW.

The Hamilton Times is childish in its attempts to excuse the non-enforcement of the Canadian alien labor law. Its declaration that the American act is not being enforced, either, in compliance with an arrangement entered into by the Joint High Commission is all nonsense. The Toronto Telegram nails the Times in a most clinching manner. It says:

"It is easy to satisfy the Hamilton Times' desire for specific examples of the American enforcement of the alien labor law. Sir Wilfrid Laurier consented to an alleged arrangement under which Canada's gate was opened to American aliens while the United States remained closed against Canadian aliens."

The Telegram gives this instance, which is certainly specific enough: "James Macdonald, of No. 3 Wilton crescent, Toronto, went to Buffalo and secured a position as advertising writer with the Woodward Medicine Company of that city. He was not well settled at his business before Customs Inspector Colwell and Inspector De-Barry interviewed him on October 25, 1899, and as a result of that interview he was forced out of his position as a violater of the alien labor law."

At its best the Canadian alien labor law is only, a botch, but, botch as it is. Canadians should receive the lit tle protection it does afford.

As the present council isn't addicted to throwing mud, personal considerations should not prevent the members from inaugurating a progressive paving system.

If it be true that Geordie Dewey shed tears over the rumpus raised about the transfer of his house to his son, i shows that he cannot stand the fire of criticism half as well as he can the fire of cannon.

One pleasing feature about the war correspondence these days is, that it cannot refer to "the thin, red line" several times a day. Khaki-clothed climbers might prove more descriptive where the British troops have to work themselves up 500-foot hills.

Three hundred girls in a Hamilton knitting factory are striking, some of them against a reduction of wages and the rest out of sympathy. The company threatens to import American labor to replace them. Now, have we this country and, if we have, what good is it?

In completing the deep waterway system to the gulf of St. Lawrence, the Ottawa government have displayed commendable energy. They should follow up the policy now by assisting in every way to divert the trade to it that now goes to the seaboard by other routes.

J. B. Flint, head of the firm of Flint Erving & Lindsay, wholesale lumber dealers, Pittsburg, and formerly secretary and general hustler in the Reform party in this county, has not lost faith in his old political allies, judging from what he says in a letter to The Planet, as follows :- "I would suggest that you would give the Hardy government a rest. Ross is all right. You Tories will have to stay in the cold shades of opposition some years longer." It is evident our old friend is not in touch with Canadian politics, and is lame atably ignorant of the trend of public opinion. He seems to still have faith in Ross and the machine.

The London News rises to remark that the jury system is all right if we could only secure the proper class of jurors. That is just the point. No jury system would lever have been introduced in the first place if we had had the proper class of judges. In these days of enlightenment the bench is compelled by public opinion to be fairly just in most cases. We might easily dispense with a jury system which is now mainly instrumental in shielding criminals from the punishment their crimes deserve. A clever lawyer can hoodwink a jury, but the average judge, having had experience in the same line of business himself, is not susceptible to the blandishments of an eloquent tongue.

The Chatham Planet never did take The Chatham Planet never did take very kindly to Sir Charles Tupper as leader of the Conservative party, but we were hardly prepared to see the Planet give the old war horse of Cumberland such a slap in the face. The Planet says: "Principal Paterson, of the C. C. I., has the distinction of having brought to Chatham, in the person of Hon. Geo. E. Foster, not only the most gifted speaker in Canada, but a future Premier of the Dominion."—Windsor Record.

mires Sir Charles, not because he is a Conservative, but because he is a game old fighter who, at 78 years of age, and carry on a campaign with a vigor that would land many a young man in the hospital. But Sir Charles cannot do this forever. Some day he will, no doubt, be succeeded by a younger man. Mr. Foster is younger. He showed himself while in office, the ablest finance minister Canada has ever produced. Who, therefore, is more likely to succeed Sir Charles?

In Winnipeg bets have been made that three of the Greenway Ministers will be defeated. F. W. Thompson, manager of Ogilvie's, offers to bet the Manitoba Free Press $200 that the or have we not, an alien labor law in Opposition candidates in Winnipeg will get 750 of a majority in the aggregate.

> Kimberley is to be relieved first, probably because there is an enormous quantity of valuable machinery and other property there, which could easily be destroyed. At Ladysmith there is no property to speak of. Machinery, when it is owned by Cecil Rhodes and his co-millionaire friends, appears to be more valuable in this case than the welfare of General White's command.

The Laurier Club, of Ottawa, voted that Canada had no right to send a contingent to South Africa 'without the authority of parliament. Well the contingent is there now, and the Laurier Club of Ottawa might spend its time to better advantage discussing what it is going to do about it. We imagine the kickers in the House of Commons will meet parliament like lambs and try to out-herod Herod in their professions of loyalty.

The American coal trust controls all the railroads leading from the anthracite mines. Any of the producers who do not belong to the trust are charged exorbitant freight rates on their coal so as to prevent them junderselling the combine. The anti-ringsters have now formed a combine against the combine and propose to build 81 miles of railroad from the anthracite fields. This will give them an outlet to the independent railway lines. If this will do anything towards lightening the white man's burden it is to be hoped the missing railroad link will soon be com-

Perhaps the good die young because the young always die good. Too many people perform their work after the style of machines.

If you can't get what you want be satisfied with what you can get. A soft heart and a hard head make combination that is hard to beat. Clothes do not make the man, but they sometimes 'make a monkey of

The Deception of Sight.

"I'm through trying to prevent crime." exclaimed Brown. "What's up now?" asked Cumpstead, wiping his fingers on the towel that swung from the counter.

"Well, it was this way," his friend went on. "You see, I went over to the Lyceum theatre the other evening-George Nicolai's a friend of mine you know-and after the first act I strolled out into the confectionery next door for a package of cigarettes.

"There was a girl waiting on the crowd there. I bought a large package of the brand I smoke and handed the young lady in payment ten cents. She rang up five on the register. 'Ah, ha,' I said to myself, 'knocking down, Then a man came along bought three glasses of ginger ale for himself and two friends. He gave the girl fifteen cents. She rang up another nickel. Then a fellow bought a quarter's worth of cigars and she rang up five dollars. Light began to dawn upon me. I understood. 'That girl,' I thought, 'knocks down a while, then rings up a big amount to sorter square her stealings.' I watched her a few moments longer. I saw her ring up three nickels on three purchases of a dime each, and then I made up my mind to tip her off to George. couldn't see my friend Nicolai done like that, you know. So I went and told him. He listened till I had finished, and then what do you suppose happened?" "I don't know," replied Cumpstead, what did?".

"He laughed a loud, hoarse, winter weather laugh and told me the register was busted and had been for three weeks, and that nickels and five dollars were all that it would ring. And I've been buying things for Lyceum employes ever since."

Retail Prices in Chatham-Gossip About Grain.

Planet Office, Saturday evening, Nov: 25

CHATHAM GRAIN MARKET. J. B. Stringer & Co. have the following to say in regard to the grain mar-

Wheat-No change in price. The market is considered not quite so strong on account of the American market being about a cent lower.

Corn-Fair demand for feeding purposes, but as American corn is offering at lower prices it is necessary for the Canadian article to meet American values. New corn is offering in Detroit at 291-2 to 30 cents, with the same freight rate to any point in Canada that Chatham has.
Oats—Rather better demand for export. The price is about a half cent higher all round.

Barley—In improved demand for export. The price ranges from 70 to 73 cents per cwt., with light receipts.

Beans—No change in value. It looks as if the market has got as high as it it likely to go, as foreign beans are beginning to offer now and will be a foctor, in keeping Canadian beans at higher all round. factor in keeping Canadian beans at a lower level than would have been the case had it not been necessary to meet foreign competition. Foreign beans can be laid down in New York beans can be laid down in New 1012 at $1.671-2 after a duty of 45 cents is only 15 cents, so that foreign beans has been paid. The duty into Canada can be sold on the Canadian seaboard for $1.371-2. St. John, Halifax and Montreal are the great market cen-tres for Canadian beans, so that for-
