No furnace drudgery in the Bison

The most exasperating mystery a man can have is a cranky furnace. The dirt and soot, the ash lifting and draft worry of many heaters, make life a burden. With the new "Bison" hot water heater, there are no worries. Its drafts are so simple a child can understand them, the shaking down apparatus is operated with the slightest effort, shaking down and sitting in one operation. It is a clean, simple, economical heater, perfectly safe, as it burns its own gas no matter how the drafts are set. Write to H. R. Ives Co., Limited, Montreal, for an interesting booklet which fully describes it.

To Save Stockings.

To save the wear of stockings, take a new piece of wash leather and gum it inside the heels of shoes. This will, by preventing friction, save the heels of stockings immensely. Mothers of boys and girls should take advantage of this, for it will spare them many aches.

John E. Hall, secretary of the Dominion Cricket Association, has written J. W. Aitken, secretary of the local club, in reference to a three-day tournament in Toronto, recently proposed by the combined Cleveland, Chatham and Detroit team. Mr. Hall favors the idea and will do all in his power to promote it.

THE NEWS COMPLAINS.

The Proprietor of The Planet has been served with a notice of complaint, apparently issued at the instance of A. C. Woodward, under the Act respecting Libel and Slander, by reason of the article appearing in this newspaper on the 8th July, 1905. As The Planet disagrees with Mr. Woodward in his interpretation of the article complained of and the meaning he seeks to attach thereto in his notice of complaint, we deem it but right and proper to publish the notice verbatim, so that our readers, and the public generally, may be fully aware of our position.

The notice of complaint is as follows:

To S. Stephenson, Esq., Publisher of Chatham Daily Planet:

Take Notice that I complain of certain libellous statements which were published of, and concerning me and The Daily News, successor to the Chatham Banner Printing Company, in the issue of The Chatham Daily Planet newspaper, published on the 8th day of July, 1905, which statements are as follows:

"SHALL THERE BE A NEW PAPER?"

"UNKIND MISLEADING OF AN UNFORTUNATE CONTEMPORARY—MUST IMPROVE BUSINESS AND JOURNALISTIC METHODS."

"Otherwise Will Be Supplanted—Regrettable Record of Failure and Disappointment—The Secret of True Success."

"Surely it should soon become a criminal offence to joke with our poor, old, antiquated contemporary down the street. Not content with its bath-tub sleeping fake, or the wild yarn about the Dagoes bathing in the sedimentation basin, somebody has cruelly told it a yarn about a new Conservative paper."

"What makes the joke an exceptionally unkind one is that, as is known in the inner circles, there has been for some months a movement on foot to start a new paper to supplant the Banner itself. From the time of its bankruptcy it has fallen away so rapidly that public confidence in the institution has reached the zero point. Three times its name has been changed or hyphenated without success, and even efforts to form a joint stock company and get the business out of the hole have failed. With the business wreckage the character of the paper deteriorated and as a news purveyor it has long since been a source for sympathetic regret. Unkind humorists have taken advantage of it, and its hopeless position has left it incapable of dealing with them. It is a sad tale of another double-column front-page article."

"And it is to this unfortunate paper that unkind and thoughtless persons are going with their misleading tales as to the origin and character of the publication that is to prove its tombstone."

"So far as The Planet is concerned, its unfortunate contemporary has its sympathy. Success, it may tell it, is only to be gained by honest, earnest and enterprising effort. The press in its news columns is largely the servant of the people, and it must prove a faithful and truthful servant to earn public confidence and support. Fakes and personalities must be eschewed. Business must be conducted promptly and honestly. The policy of the paper must be consecrated to the public weal. These are principles that must be adopted to ensure success."

of the foregoing article generally as being slanderous, false and malicious, written and printed of and concerning me in my trade and business as printer and publisher of The Daily News, successor to the Chatham Banner Printing Company, and without prejudice to the generality, I complain particularly of the following statement contained therein, namely:

"From the time of its bankruptcy it has fallen away so rapidly that public confidence in the institution has reached the zero point. Three times its name has been changed or hyphenated without success, and even efforts to form a joint stock company and get the business out of the hole have failed. And take notice, that I complain public property that the local Conservatives are not a unit on any one thing; and the many recent petty differences have helped in rending the ranks asunder.

The need of a good reliable paper to support the party has long been the source of great dissatisfaction in this riding. Whether the organ alleged to represent the party has been indiscreet, treacherous or ineffective in its work or not is neither here nor there, but it is a fact that open and strenuous complaint has time and again been ventilated by those whose policy it has been supposed to support.

It is said that a recent indiscretion on the part of the paper so exasperated a large number of the party that they at once decided to syndicate and float an out and out Conservative paper. This, it is alleged, was decided on after repeated requests had been made to the local organ to cease its blundering. When intercession proved of no avail, immediate action was decided on, and a small party caucus the other night the matter is said to have come up and been favorably commented on.

If money and prestige can be sufficiently procured it is believed that the project will be attempted.

It was evidently the design or intention of the News to belittle The Planet by this article and to hold it up to ridicule in the eyes of the reading public wherever the article secured circulation.

The Planet thinks it ill becomes Mr. Woodward (who must be taken to be responsible for the article appearing in his newspaper) to make complaints of the character specified in his notice, when he courts and invites from The Planet criticism and possibly retaliation and retort by way of vindication and self-defence by the course he adopts towards it.

The item of the 7th July, above mentioned is not by any means the first that has been printed and circulated by the News directed particularly against The Planet and attacking it, and Mr. Woodward, as a newspaper man, should be able readily to see that such comments and articles cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed by this or any other self-respecting newspaper. In printing the article complained of by Mr. Woodward, in the above mentioned notice, The Planet merely seeks to protect itself against an unwarranted attack by its contemporary.

The Planet, however, again asserts that the article complained of does not convey the meaning attached to it by Mr. Woodward, and was never in any way intended to convey any such meaning to the public, and it willingly disclaims it accordingly.

The Planet also disclaims any malice or ill-will in the matter, and says that in the publication of the article complained of, it was actuated solely by a desire to protect itself from the unwarranted attack of the News above referred to, and for no other purpose.

Scratched Furniture.

It is asserted that light scratches or marks on polished tables or chairs can be effaced by rubbing the meat of the common black walnut over them. After the oil of the nut has been rubbed in it is hardly possible to find the scratch. If the furniture is black walnut this would seem on the homoeopathic principle of "similia similibus curantur."

COLIC AND DIARRHOEA—A REMEDY THAT IS PROMPT AND PLEASANT.

The prompt results produced by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy together with its pleasant taste have won for it a place in many households. Mr. W. T. Taylor, a merchant of Winslow, Ala., writes: "I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy myself and also with men on my place for diarrhoea and colic, and it always gives relief promptly and pleasantly."
