A. & G. W. RAILWAY INQUIRY

1 uesday's Session, When the Royal commission resumed its sittings here this morning in the Supreme court, A. C. Fraser, mentioned. manager of the Merchants bank, was called to the witness stand and gave evidence all the forenoon. The crossexamination by R. B. Bennett was still in progress when the adjourn-

What Clarke Did With Money. Mr. Bennett directed his examina-tion largely to an endeavor to show certain moneys that Clarke had obtained from the Merchants bank through drafts, were for use in th political campaign and confined questions largely to three drafts tot-alling $4,750 which were cashed on February 26th, the day the legislature adjourned in 1909. The insurgents' counsel also endeav ored to show by questions that M. W. Hopkins was given accommodation by the bank only when he wish ed money to purchase school lands and in making those purchases he was acting for a third party whos name was unmentioned. Mr. Fraser, however, largely denied the statement involved by those questions. The witness was questioned as what he knew of the campaign funds of Mr. Cross and of other parties, but he disclaimed any knowledge of these
