In the course of the evening, Mr. B. Sheere, on behalf of the Alerts, presented Mr. Lewis with a handsome gold pin and ring, accompanying the gift with a few kindly words. Mr. Lewis, on recovering from his surprise, expressed his thanks for the valuable presents, and his hearty appreciation of the esteem which they betokened. The remaining hours of the gathering were enlivened by vocal music and witty addresses. Mr. Lewis, who held the positions of fielder and pitcher in the club, was a dresses. Dr. Bill.

This ubiquitous practitioner, who believes implicitly in the old maxim "laugh and grow fat," is booked for one night only at the Grand—Friday, April 8th. The doctor brings an able corps of assistants and they are full of his new school practice, so no patron of the Grand that night need fear an unpleasant bolus. The doses are large and the larger the dose the heartier the laughter. The play is described as the wittiest and funniest comedy of the season. It is of the same order as Mr. Wilkinson's Widows, The Solicitor, etc., a species of light comedy that finds great favor in all parts of this country as well as the English speaking countries of the world. The play will be staged with the original scenery fittings and properties, and acted by an admirable company. The plan opens to-morrow morning. Dr. Bill.

Who Bought and the Price Paid.

At the City Hall yesterday quite a number of speculative gentlemen assembled with the intention of buying real estate at low prices. The occasion was the city treasurer's sale of lands for taxes, and generally some pretty good bargains—for the purchasers—are obtainable. One hundred and twenty-five properties had been advertised, but the majority of owners paid up before they were sold. The sale is carried on in the methods of a "Dutch auction." All that is realized from a property is the amount of the taxes and costs, and the struggle between the would-be buyers is not for possession at the lowest price but for the largest amount of the lot at the price fixed—the arrears of taxes. The competition was lively, but of course the lands sold for amounts that would be absurd under any other conditions. The largest sale was the houses at 376, 374 and 372 Hill street, which were bought in by the owner, Mrs. Pendergast, for the taxes and costs, $401 45. W. M. Moore got a whole lot of 50 feet on Thornton avenue west for $6 60. The original owners, however, have the privilege of buying their property back within a year's time at an advance of 10 per cent. on the price paid by the purchasers. Mr. W. D. Buckle had just secured a lot for $6 when the owner came in to reclaim it. The former lost his bargain, but made 60 cents commission. The following is a list of the sales, the different items in each paragraph being respectively, the street on which the property is located, the description and size of the same, the hours got for the amount in question:

Society Gossip.

Society doings and gossip have a sort of general interest for all women, but in a climate like this, getting out is attended with considerable risk. A woman is nearly all the time locking for what she can wear next to her delicate skin, in the Spring and Summer, that will be light, and yet warm enough. The "Health Brand" undervests, made specially for this Season in the necessary weights and exquisite styles, fully solve the problem. To be thoroughly understood, these goods must be seen. They are for sale by every really first-class drygoods store in Canada. Ladies and childreh going to sea, or riverside residence for the Summer, where bathing is indulged in, will do well to notice this carefully.
