Canon Tucker comes from Montreal, where he worked for many years.

After leaving there he went to the west, and for a number of years was in charge of the church of which Rev.

Mr. Owen, formerly pastor of the Memorial Church here, now has charge.

CLOSE TO DEATH.

New York, Oct. 3. — Four firemen, while flighting flames which destroyed two large buildings at Elm and Pearl streets today, had almost miraculous escapes from being crushed to death by falling walls. The firemen were manning a water tower, when a high wall fell, enveloping the tower with bricks and mortar. The men crouched against a wall and not one was harmed.

The buildings were occupied by paper and manufacturing concerns. The loss is estimated at $200,000.

BUILDING BYLAW CASES IN COURT

City Architect Nutter Is Out With a Big Stick For Offenders.

Magistrate Love to recommend that City Architect Nutter take some steps the bosses and toward enlightening citizens in gen-eral in regard to the building bylaws. be defeated that harbors them." Mr. Love suggested that Mr. Buchner ask the council to deal with the matter, and thought that if the city architect were to call a meeting of all the city builders and explain the salient points of the new bylaws, that a good deal of trouble, and many cases in court might in future be avoided. The magistrate last week made the same suggestion.

One of the Charges. Mr. Buchner represented Mr. James Armitage, of 581 Central avenue, who was charged with breaking the city bylaws by putting on a roof and not putting asbestos paper under it as a proper protection against fire. Mr. Armitage said he did not know that there should be any asbestos paper under the shingles.

He explained that he had let the contract to another man, and that there was still some work to do, and he asked the court's protection in seeing that this work is done according o the bylaws.

"You are certainly entitled to it and shall have it," said Magistrate Love. The case was adjourned in order that the work may be made satisfactory to the architect.
