A GHOULISH ATTACK.

The pro-electrification campaign stoops to indecency which does not spare the dead.

The Free Press make a callous attack on the memory of the late Col. Little, accusing him of betraying the city's interests in his dealings with the Michigan Central when that company was on the point of severing its London connection.

The accusation is as ungrateful as it is unjust and unfeeling. The manufacturers wholesalers and other shippers will vividly recollect their alarm at the prospect of losing the ago, and the heroic efforts that were put forth to persuade the company to corporated as the London and Southcastern Railway Company, conducted and succeeded in their object after Interests. At the time not a whisper of the agreement, by which the company, in return for continuing its Lon- St. Thomas. don business, was given a seventeen price of $700,000—exactly their cost.

one has expressed a contrary opinion wrath at the Michigan Central for opposing its scheme, spews its venom at the late Col. Little. The memory of that great and useful citizen of London is secure against such attacks from such a source. These are worthy of notice only as an illustration of the tactics employed to carry the $700,000 bylaw. Truth and decency are flung to the winds.

THE RUSSIAN MURDER TRIAL.

The trial of a Jew at Kiev for ritual murder of a Christian child reveals in a striking way the mediaeval darkness of Russia. In Western Europe it was once fashionable to believe that Jews killed Christian children at the passover as a religious rite and made use of their blood for ceremonial or medicinal purposes. But since the thirteenth century no official countenance has been given to charges on this score. To any educated intelligence such a practice as blood-drinking appears at once as absurdly contrary to the written law of the Hebrews. All partaking of blood is prohibited from the Pentateuch down.

It is an interesting fact of history that the Christians themselves in the early centuries were accused by Greeks and Romans of this very murdering of children. Says Justin the Martyr (about 150 A.D.): "They drag our slaves, children or wives to the ordeal, and by means of horrible tortures force them to confess to these mythical rites." Possibly a confused rumor as to the Christian rite of receiving the body and blood of the Lord in holy communion may have been the basis of the charge. In the present Russian trial the evidence shows that the body of a boy was found in a cave covered with 47 wounds inflicted in the forms of pricks and slits. The boy had been made to suffer torture before being finally killed by a wound piercing his heart. The body is said to have been almost wholly devoid of blood, and very little blood was found in the neighborhood of the corpse. Hence the cry of ritual murder raised by the reactionaries (religious and political). Bishops are mentioned as leading the hue and cry

The idea of Jews having a pick on his invention he has earned it. Christian children or a partiality for their blood is about on a par with the witch-hunting of 200 years ago. Up to the early part of the eighteenth century burnings went on and long after official persecution ceased popular illwill stigmatized numbers of old women as having commerce with Satan. Christian champions said that to disbelieve in witches was to disbelieve in the Bible. Evidently some of the Russian clergy would tend to regard disbelievers in Judaic devilry as disbe-lievers in the church. It seems possible that in some cases of murder, where suspicion has fallen upon the Jews, the crime may have nicipal ownership on the ground that Jows to divert suspicion from the real operation of the L. and P. S. R. on guilty. The 47 blood-letting wounds the same ground? in the present instance are suggestive of such an intent. Perhaps the pubicity of the case and of the flimsy character of the evidence may do omething at last to kill a superstition responsible for much cruelty in Russia. That a whole race should be charged with peculiar malice and out-and-out devilry because Judas Iscariot went wrong, is against common sense and ommon profit let. alone Christian

While St. Thomas papers are discreetly saying very little about the from that quarter showing the interest felt in the proposition. And there is reason for it. St. Thomas loses nothing if electrification is defeated; its position remains as it has been. But it stands to win if the project carries. It will win, no matter what the result may be, so far as London is concerned.

If the scheme should prove as beneficial to London as its advocates claim. St. Thomas will get its share of the benefits. If it puts London nearer the lake, it will put St. Thomas still nearer. If London gets better arrangements with the trunk lines, St. Thomas will get the same. If London gets better connections with the lake and better shipping facilities by water, St. Thomas will have the same, plus the natural advantage of being fifteen miles nearer the Port.

BILL FOR PARLIAMENT

Prison Reform and Help For the Sailors and Fishermen Are Subjects of Debate.

Fine weather continues to greet the Dominion W. C. T. U. convention, now in session at Dundas Centre Methodist Church, and this morning's meeting was largely attended by visiting delegates and members of the local W. C.

Among a number of highly interesting papers given ,perhaps the report of the anti-narcotic superintendent, Mrs. Jennie Waters, of Muskoka, was of most importance Mrs. Waters pointed out the difficulties that lay in supcircus men look like statesmen?" pressing the see of tobacco in its "Maybe that's because it takes the various forms, and emphasized es pressing the ese of tobacco in its same kind of buncombe to make a pecialis the evils of the cigarette. Considerable discussion followed, entreing around the second suggestion made in the report. Finally, upon motion of Mrs. May R. Thornley, this recommendation was placed before the plan of work committee, who were instructed to discuss it and report later to the convention.
