THE DISMISSED PROFESSOR GIVES HIS VERSION OF THE TROUBLES.

Brings Out Some New Points-Alleged Undue Influence of Victoria

enquiry drifted away altogether from question of the relations between

Saturday's session of the university enquiry dritted away altogether from the question of the relations between President Loudon and the students and took up the more important aspects of the situation, namely, the Blake influence in university affairs, and Prof. Dale's suggestion that Toronto University is being swamped by Victoria University. Prof. Dale is the witness whose testimony has been looked forward to as the most important in the Biological building was thronged with students, professional men and graduates of all ages while his testimony was being given.

Prof. Dale on the Stand.

Prof. Dale was put on the stand at 2 o'clock. He is a tall spare gentleman and he gave his evidence in a nervous but open manner. Mr. Scott in his cross-examination dealt with the witness severely and asked him to admit that he was at various times a liar, a slanderer and a back biter. Mr. Dale proved a good witness, however, and did not become entangled in his statements.

To Mr. Riddell he said that he was not a member of the University council, but recalled an occasion during the Jury-Thompson trouble when he went into the President's rooms and found that official discussing with Prof. Mavor what was apparently a draft program of the Jury-Thompson trouble when he went into the President's rooms and iound that official discussing with Prof. Mavor what was apparently a draft program of the Jury-Thompson trouble when he went into the President's rooms and iound that official discussing with Prof. Mavor when the agent hand to allow the students to hold the meeting and end the matter amicably. President Loudon responded that he was sorry, but that coving to a protest he had received from a fheological college affiliated with the University he could not permit it. Prof. Dale replied that he considered it unwarrantable interference on the part of the theological in stitution in question.

The Professor's Letter's continued to the professory witten a letter ence on the part of the theological in stitution in question.

The Professor's Letter

He admitted having written a letter to The Globe on Feb. 5 last on the subject of Prof. Wrong's and other University appointments, and that this letter subsequently led to his dismissal from his position of associate professor in Latin. In that letter he stated that Prof. Wrong's appointment to a lectureship at $1500, when the regulations called for an initial salary of $800, and his subsequent promotion to a professorship at $2500 over the heads of older men, had outraged the feelings of the staff and students.

"How did it affect the staff?" asked Mr. Riddell.

"I remember that the lecturers met and issued a protest against such unfair treatment and submitted the case to the professoriate, which could take no action on the matter."

"How did you know that it outraged

"I judged so from the columns of Var-sity as the organ of student opinion."
"What warrant had you for stating that the appointment was due to the in-fluence of his father-in-law, Chancellor Blake?"

he had consulted the politician in question, stating that he did not wish to involve him in political difficulties without his consent. He promised, however, to see the gentleman, and if possible give his name when this examination is resumed on Tuesday.

sidered it a grievance that Prof. Wrong should have been appointed above his head to a position with a larger salary attached, but denied that he had been actuated by selfish animosity.

Loudon the Instrument of Varsity.

Mr. Scott then read a letter written a considerable while back by Prof. Dale to President Loudon, in which he expressed his dissatisfaction with the course affairs were taking and asking for further assistance in the department of classics, pointing out that various appointments were being made in the Modern Language and other departments at the instance of Victoria University. "Victoria University is strengthening her own position," he wrote, "and weakening Toronto University and her instrument is the president of the latter instituiton."

The letter pointed out that Latin was at a standstill, although

The letter pointed out that Latin was at a standstill, although it was a pass subject which all students must take, and then its lecturers were handicapped by too much work. If the President could see fit to add a lecturer to the department, continued the epistle, "it would help to put an end to the sinister remarks that one sometimes hears that the Chancellor of Victoria is really the President of Toronto University."

The letter was read for the purpose of showing that Prof. Dale was disaffected toward the President.

Bale, Wrong and Mayor.

Dale, Wrong and Mavor.

Mr. Scott then took up witness' relations with Profs. Wrong and Mavor. He admitted having discussed their abilities with a few acquaintances, although his relations with them were not unfriendly. "As a matter of fact, you were engaged in slandering and backbiting Prof. Mavor to your friends?"

only did it in the newspapers. Your tongue was under better control than your hand."

Questioned as to the abilities of Prof. Mavor, the witness replied that, while standards differ, he should consider Prof.

Henry A. King & Co.'s special wire from Frank G. Logan & Co., Chicago: Wheat developed no new feature to-day. The transactions were confined chiefly to local professional speculators, the outside public refusing to show any interest in the market. There was less pressure to sell than was looked for, and the market developed a fairly steady undertone, which was maintained up to the close. It looks as though the visible supply on Monday will show; a very large decrease. If this is true wheat should do better.

As to Salaries and Qualifications.

The witness further testified that he felt justified in saying the salaries paid at the University were in many instances grotesquely out of proportion to the qualifications of the lecturer. Sometimes he had heard good lectures by men getting small salaries and poor lectures by men getting large salaries. He certainly held to his written opinion that if in the next ten years the same class of appointments continued as had been made in the last few years the university would lose all claim on the respect of students and public.

Witness emphatically denied that he had fomented discontent among the students. He swore that he wrote the letter because he believed that the irritation that existed in the faculty was connected with the irritation among the students, and he calculated that his letter would make matters worse and result in bringing them to a head. Otherwise the difficulties would run on and recur again next winter. Had he fully foreseen the consequences of his act he would still have written the letter, but would have resigned before he published it. He was aware that the same class for proportion with a capital stock of $10,000; the Milton Electrio and are: The Auburn Woolen Company of Octavity of Peterboro with a capital stock of $10,000; the Milton Electrion and recurse of support of Octavity of Oc do something. Their suspicions are borne out, they say, by the fact that refined oil is not advancing. To the producers of Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia this advance means a great deal. The total market value of the product is nearly $4,000,000 per month.

This has greatly stimulated activity in the oil field, and not only furnishes additional work for hundreds of oil drillers, but has also increased the demand for iron and steel supplies consumed in the business. So far the consumer has been taxed an additional cent per gallon for his oil, but a further advance is almost certain.
