The Oil Cloth Cure.

Pretty soon after the new arrival had been assigned to his room he tele-phoned down to the office for two strips of oil cloth. "Another one," said the clerk after

"Another one," said the clerk after assuring the guest that the oil cloth would be sent up immediately. "He is a somnambulist, I suppose. We keep strips of oilcloth in reserve for fellows like him. They spread it on the floor at either side of the bed. Stepping on cold oilcloth when he gets out of bed is pretty likely to awaken the most confirmed sleep walker and prevent nocturnal wandering."

Protected By the World.

The smallest, simplest and best-protected postoffice in the world is in the Straits of Magellan. It has been there for many years. It consists of a small painted keg or cask and is chained to the rocks of the extreme cape in such a manner that it floats free, opposite Tierra del Fuego. Each passing ship sends a boat to take letters out and put others in. This curious postoffice is unprovided with a postmaster and is, therefore, under the protection of all countries of the world.

WHY EMPEROR OF GERMANY FEARS ASSASSINATION.

Several of Europe's Monarchs Have a Fear of the Number 13, and Dreams Play a Large Part in Their Affairs, Says a Society Clairvoyant In a Recent Book-Empress of Austria Was a Fatalist.

What does the future hold for me? What is to be my fate? These vital questions agitate the minds of most of us, more or less. And, judging by the revelations of the writer of "Recollections of a Society Clairvoyant," no people are more superstitious in regard to signs and portents, and their relation to the future, than royalty. Many of them attach great importance to dreams. The Czarina, the Emperor of Austria, and the the Emperor of Austria, and the Kaiser, for instance, insist that dreams have furnished them with

Then a few years ago he was consulted by a pretty, fair-haired girl, who was accompanied by an elderly lady. "When I read her crystal," he says, "I could see a brilliant marriage in store for her, but I could also see that her wedding day would be a day of sudden death for others. I told her this, and also that her home would be far away from England, among strangers in race and religion. 'You will have six children—five boys and one girl,' I concluded. My pretty client was quite delighted, and she went away in high spirits. I was talking about her to a lady who is persona grata at court, and she remarked enigmatically that the Princess Ena had always been a Kaiser, for instance, insist that dreams have furnished them with premonitions of various misfortunes which have overtaken them.

The Emperor of Austria has peculiar forebodings of imminent disaster, and for some months before the assassination of the Empress Elizabeth at Geneva in 1898 he was a victim to ominous presentiments, and frequently exclaimed, "Oh! if this year were but at an end." The Empress was a fatalist. "What is to be will be," she once said. "It has been predicted that I and my two sisters will all meet with violent deaths. Personally, I do not dread a sudden death." And curiously enough, after the assassination of the Empress, her sister, the Duchess D'Alencon, met her death in the terrible bazaar fire in Paris, while the ex-Queen Sophia of Naples, the third sister, anticipates meeting as violent a death as that of her two sisters.

It is a curious fact that for some days before the Empress was murdered and on the day of her day of her death.

It is a curious fact that for some days before the Empress was murdered, and on the day of her death, a large black raven was observed constantly flying near her bedroom window at the hotel where she was staying. And it is a tradition of the Austrian royal family that a black bird and a white lady always foretell death. It is also said that when a member of the reigning house of Germany is about to die, the white lady—supposed to be the spirit of Countess Agnes Orlamunde, who murdered her first husband and her two children, as they constituted an obstacle to her marriage with one of the ancestors of the Kaiser—always appears.

The white lady appeared to Frederick the Great on the eve of his death, and in 1806 she came to Prince Frederick of Prussia before his death at the battle of Saalfeld. A number of officers also saw her, the prince being at the time in their company. The present Kaiser is firmly convinced that he will die by the hand of an assassin. This has been predicted All Kinds of Implements an assassin. This has been predicted to him several times—twice as a young man by Hungarian gipsies when he was visiting his friend the late Crown Prince of Austria, at Galicias and it is said that this conviction forms a constant topic of conversation between the Emperor and his friends. Cream Separators

Like the late King Edward VII., the German Emperor is also very apprehensive of the number 13 in connection with any entertainment, and more than once a subaltern on duty at the palace has been com-

Many members of European royalty consulted the writer of "Recollections of a Society Clairvoyant," amongst them being the King Leopold, Queen Nathalie of Servia, and King Humbert of Italy. "I did not feel," says the author concerning King Humbert, "that I could tell him what I saw. It was shortly before his assassination, and I did my best to warn him against perils on a journey. He expressed himself very pleased with some private information which I gave him, but laughed at my warn-Remedies are Needed
